ARTICLE IX SENTENCES AND JUDGMENTS

Section 901 Every person his aiders abettors and counsellors convicted of the crime of murder of the first degree shall be sentenced to suffer death in the manner herein provided and not otherwise Such punishment in every case must be inflicted by causing to pass through the body of the convict a current of electricity of intensity sufficient to cause death and the application of such current must be continued until such convict is dead The said punishment shall be inflicted by the warden or deputy warden of the Western Penitentiary or by such person as the warden shall designate and shall be inflicted in a building on the land owned by the Commonwealth in Centre County whereon the buildings of the Western Penitentiary are built

Section 902 Whenever any person shall have been convicted and sentenced to death the clerk of the court where such conviction shall have taken place shall transmit to the Governor of the Commonwealth and to the Board of Pardons a full and complete transcript of the record of such trial and conviction within thirty days after sentence or in the event of an appeal within twenty days after the final disposal of the cause upon such appeal

Section 903 After the receipt of the said record the Governor of the Commonwealth shall issue his warrant directed to the warden of the Western Penitentiary commanding said warden to cause such convict to be executed in said penitentiary within the week to be named in said warrant and in the manner prescribed by law

Section 904 Upon the receipt of such warrant the said warden shall by a written notice under his hand and seal duly notify the officer having the custody of such convict to deliver such convict to the custody of such warden and it shall be the duty of such officer to forthwith cause such delivery to be made Thereupon and until the penalty of death shall be inflicted or until lawfully discharged from such custody said convict shall be kept in solitary confinement in said penitentiary During such confinement no person except the officers of such penitentiary the counsel of such convict and a spiritual adviser selected by such convict or the members of the immediate family of such convict shall be allowed access to such convict without an order of said court or a judge thereof

Section 905 No person except the following shall witness any execution under the provisions of this act the warden of the penitentiary where such execution takes place a qualified physician six reputable adult citizens selected by such warden the spiritual adviser when requested and selected by the convict not more than six duly accredited representatives of the daily newspapers and such officers of said penitentiary as may be selected by said warden

Section 906 After such execution the warden of the Western Penitentiary shall certify in writing under oath or affirmation to the court of oyer and terminer of the county wherein such convict has been sentenced to death that such convict was duly executed at the place and in the manner prescribed in this act and at the time designated in the death warrant of the Governor Such certificate shall be filed in the office of the clerk of such court

Section 907 Immediately after execution a post-mortem examination of the body of the convict shall be made by the physician present at the execution and his report in writing stating the nature of the examination so made by him shall be annexed to the certificate hereinbefore named and filed therewith After such post-mortem examination the body unless claimed by some relative or relatives of the person so executed shall be delivered to the duly authorized agent of the State Anatomical Board

Section 908 The cost and expense incident to any such execution and such post-mortem examination shall be paid from the contingent fund of the Western Penitentiary

Section 909 The Board of Inspectors of the Western Penitentiary shall have power to erect and repair appropriate buildings located at such place on the ground of the new Western Penitentiary in Centre county as they shall select and they shall have power to construct and repair in said building such electrical apparatus machinery and appliances as may be suitable and sufficient to execute condemned criminals in the manner prescribed herein

Section 910 Whenever any person convicted in any court of this Commonwealth of any crime shall be sentenced to imprisonment in any penitentiary of the State the court instead of pronouncing upon such convict a definite or fixed term of imprisonment shall pronounce upon such convict a sentence of imprisonment for an indefinite term stating in such sentence the minimum and maximum limits thereof and the maximum limit shall never exceed the maximum time now or hereafter prescribed as a penalty for such offense Provided That no person sentenced for an indeterminate term shall be entitled to any benefits of commutation of sentence herein provided for

Section 911 The clerks of the several courts of criminal jurisdiction of this Commonwealth shall not later than the twentieth day of each month forward to the wardens of the State penitentiaries a list of all convicts whom the courts have committed to those institutions on the indeterminate plan the previous month stating maximum and minimum sentence of each The following information shall also be added The full name of the convict together with any alias which such convict may be known to have the name of the county where the conviction was had a brief description of the crime of which the convict was convicted the name of the court in which the conviction was had the name of the trial judge the date of commitment and the name of the penitentiary to which committed the number of times if any that the convict has been in prison the location of said prison and for what offenses Provided That in every case in which stenographic notes of testimony were taken at the time of the trial a copy of such notes of testimony shall likewise accompany such record

Section 912 The Board of Inspectors of each state penitentiary shall meet once each month at its respective penitentiary At each meeting of the said boards held as aforesaid every prisoner confined in such penitentiary upon an indeterminate sentence whose minimum term of sentence will expire within three months shall be given an opportunity to appear before such board and apply for his release on parole as hereinafter provided

Section 913 It shall appear to the Board of Inspectors of any penitentiary in which a convict is imprisoned upon an application by a convict for release on parole that there is a reasonable probability that such applicant will live and remain at liberty without violating the law then said board shall recommend to the Governor that such convict be released on parole subject to such rules and regulations for such convict as said board may prescribe until the expiration of the maximum limit of the sentence imposed on such convict and shall send to the Governor a report of such convict which report shall contain the following namely The full name of the convict together with any alias which said convict may be known to have the name of the county where such conviction was had a brief history of the crime for which convict was sentenced the name of the court in which the conviction was had the name of the judge who sentenced the convict with the sentence and the date thereof the date of the reception of the convict a recommendation as to commutation together with the date for release from the penitentiary if allowed

Section 914 If any convict released on parole shall during the period of parole be convicted of any crime punishable by imprisonment under the laws of this Commonwealth and sentenced to any place of confinement other than a penitentiary such convict shall in addition to the penalty imposed for such crime committed during the said period and after expiration of the same be compelled by detainer and remand as for an escape to serve in the penitentiary to which said convict had been originally committed the remainder of the term (without commutation) which such convict would have been compelled to serve but for the commutation authorizing said parole and if not in conflict with the terms and conditions of the same as granted by the Governor But if sentenced to a penitentiary then the service of the remainder of the said term originally imposed shall precede the commencement of the term imposed for said crime

Section 915 In any case where a Board of Prison Inspectors does not recommend the release on parole of a convict at the termination of the minimum term for which such convict may have been sentenced such board shall report in writing to the Governor its reasons in details for not having made such recommendations

Section 916 Each said Board of Inspectors shall appoint one or more officers to be known as parole officers for its respective penitentiary who shall carefully look after the welfare of all persons who have been paroled from said penitentiary and report to the said boards respectively upon the conduct of such persons at such times and in such manner as may be required by said boards Provided That no convict shall ever be under the charge management or supervision of a probation officer of the opposite sex The salaries of the said parole officers together with the expenses actually incurred by them in the discharge of their duties shall be paid out of the appropriations to the said penitentiary with which they are connected

Section 917 If it shall appear to the Board of Inspectors of any penitentiary from which a convict has been released on parole that there is a reasonable probability that such convict will live and remain at liberty without violating the law and that it will be to the advantage of such convict that he be released from the terms of his parole then upon the application of such convict released upon parole it shall be the duty of the said board to recommend to the Governor that such convict be pardoned absolutely

Section 918 Whenever it shall appear to the Board of Inspectors of a penitentiary that a person released on parole has violated the terms of his parole the secretary of the Board of Inspectors may issue a warrant for the arrest of said person in the same manner as in the case of an escaped convict Upon said convict being returned to the penitentiary he shall be given an opportunity to appear before its Board of Inspectors and if said board shall find that said parole has not been broken the prisoner shall be released and continue subject to the terms of said parole but if it be found that said parole has been broken said board shall declare such convict delinquent after which a full report of the said case shall be forwarded immediately to the Governor who thereupon may issue his mandate reciting the date of commutation for the recommitment of such convict for breach of parole to the penitentiary of original commitment to be imprisoned in said penitentiary for the remainder of a period equal to the unexpired maximum term of such prisoner as originally sentenced (computing the same from the date of arrest for breach of parole) unless sooner released on parole or pardoned but if the Governor shall disapprove the finding of the Board of Inspectors the said prisoner shall be released upon the conditions of his original parole

Section 919 Authority is hereby conferred upon the Boards of Inspectors of all State penitentiaries to establish all the rules and regulations necessary to carry the provisions of this article into effect Provided That no rule or regulation shall be established or adopted relating to the discharge of a convict on parole who has just served the minimum sentence for his or her first offense that will compel him to file any bond for the fulfillment of the requirements of his discharge upon parole other than his own recognizance or to secure any sponsor for his behavior To secure uniformity in these rules and regulations the said boards shall be convened by the Governor in joint Session from time to time when deemed necessary

Section 920 Any convict in the State penitentiaries who is now serving under a sentence or sentences imposed prior to the first day of July one thousand nine hundred and eleven may when he shall have served one-third of such sentence or sentences be eligible to parole under the provisions and subject to the conditions of this act

Section 921 Whenever a person shall be sentenced to imprisonment for a period of less than one year the imprisonment shall be had and performed in the jail of the county where the conviction shall take place or in a suitable prison in said county where suitable prisons have been provided for such imprisonment Provided however that where existing laws applying to any county permit the imprisonment of persons there convicted in a suitable prison in some other county of the state the imprisonment may be there performed if the court shall so direct

Section 922 All persons sentenced to imprisonment in any penal institution of this Commonwealth may be required to perform such labor as the board of managers or other board or governing body in charge of such penal institution may require under the rules thereof In the event that such labor is performed in the custody of the Sheriff about county buildings or upon the ground and property of the county the County Commissioners are authorized to allow and pay from the moneys of the county to the Sheriff for his services in guarding such prisoners while so employed compensation not to exceed twenty-five cents per hour

Section 923 Whenever any person shall be sentenced to imprisonment for a period of one year or more the sentence shall be either an indeterminate sentence to the penitentiary of the proper district as hereinbefore provided or a definite sentence to a county prison or county workhouse authorized by law to receive such convict and the court shall have power in the latter case to fix the term of said imprisonment not to exceed the term fixed by statute for said offense Provided however that persons convicted of murder of the second degree and voluntary manslaughter shall not be sentenced to the said county prisons or workhouses

Section 924 Every convict confined in any county prison workhouse or county jail in this state on a conviction of crime where the term or terms equals or exceeds one year exclusive of life imprisonment or any term which may be imposed by the court or by statute as an alternative to the payment of a fine may if the governor shall so direct and with the approval of the Board of Inspectors or managers earn for himself a commutation or dimunition of his sentence or sentences as follows namely Two (2) months for the first year three (3) months for second year four (4) months each for the third and fourth years and five (5) months for each subsequent year And for every fractional part of a year the said convict may earn the same rate of commutation as is provided for the year in which said fractional part occurs Provided however That this section shall not include sentences for an intermediate term as hereinbefore provided

Section 925 When any convict in any county prison workhouse or county jail in this state is held under more than one conviction the several terms of imprisonment imposed thereunder shall be construed as one continuing term for the purpose of estimating the amount of commutation to which he may be entitled hereunder

Section 926 On any day not later than the twentieth day fo each month the board of inspectors or mangers or the warden superintendent or keeper of each of the county prisons workhouses or jails of this state shall forward to the governor a report of any convict or convicts who may be discharged the following month by reason of the commutation of his sentence or sentences which shall contain the following information namely The full name of the convict together with any alias which he may be known to have the name of the county where the conviction was had a brief description of the crime of which the convict was convicted the name of the court in which the conviction was had the name of the presiding judge the date of the sentence the date of the reception in the prison the term and fine the amount of commutation recommended and the date for discharge from the prison workhouse or jail is allowed

Section 927 The governor shall in commuting the sentences of convicts annex a condition to the effect that if any convict so commuted shall during the period between the date of his discharge by reason of such commutation and the date of the expiration of the full term for which he was sentenced be convicted of any felony he shall in addition to the penalty which may be imposed for such felony committed in the interval as aforesaid be compelled to serve in the prison or workhouse in which he may be confined for the felony for which he is convicted the remainder of the term without commutation which he would have been compelled to serve but for the commutation of his sentence hereinbefore provided for

Section 928 The boards of inspectors or managers of the county prisons workhouses and county jails in this state shall meet once every month before the date fixed for the transmission of their report to the governor as hereinbefore provided and proceed to determine the amount of commutation which they shall recommend to be allowed to any convict which shall not in any case exceed the amount fixed by this act They shall have full discretion to recommend the withholding of the allowance of commutation for good conduct or of a part thereof as a punishment for offenses against the discipline of the prison workhouse or county jail or for any attempt to escape therefrom

Section 929 In all cases however where the board shall recommend the withholding of the allowance of the whole or any part of the commutation for good conduct they shall forward with their report to the governor their reasons in writing for such disallowance and the governor may in his discretion decrease or increase the amount of commutation as recommended by the said board but he shall not increase the same beyond the amount fixed herein

Section 930 Upon the receipt of any convict in any prison or county jail in this state who shall be entitled to the benefits of commutation hereunder the provisions of the same shall be read to him and the meaning of the same shall be fully explained to him by the clerk of the prison workhouse or jail

Section 931 The Governor shall not accept in cases where only the payment of a fine is imposed as the penalty upon conviction execute any of the powers herein granted unto him to release on parole from a penitentiary or to grant commutation of sentence in a jail prison or workhouse until the Lieutenant Governor Secretary of the Commonwealth Attorney General and the Secretary of Internal Affairs or any three of them after full hearing upon due public notice and in open session according to such rules as they shall provide shall have recommended the said commutations of sentences

Section 932 Whenever any person shall be convicted in any court of this Commonwealth of any crime except murder administering poison kidnapping incest sodomy sedition pandering rape attempted rape arson robbery or burglary and it does not appear to the said court that the defendant has ever before been imprisoned for crime either in this state or elsewhere (but detention in an institution for juvenile delinquents shall not be considered imprisonment) and where the said court believes that the character of the defendant and the circumstances of the cases are such that he is not likely again to engage in an offensive course of conduct that the public good does not demand or require that the defendant should suffer the penalty imposed by law the said court shall have power to suspend the imposing of the sentence and place the defendant on probation for a definite period of such terms and conditions as it may deem right and proper said terms and conditions to be duly entered of record as a part of the judgment of the court in such case

Section 933 In any case where a fine only or the costs of prosecution is imposed and the defendant might be imprisoned until such fine be paid the court may direct as one of the terms of the probation that such fines shall be paid in certain instalments at certain times Provided however That upon payment of the fine judgment shall be satisfied and probation cease

Section 934 Whenever the court may deem it necessary and desirable it may appoint a discreet person to serve as probation officer and such assistants to the probation officer as the court may deem necesary for the performance of such duties as the court shall direct The salary of such probation officer shall be determined by the court and together with the necessary expenses incurred while in actual performance of duty shall be paid by the county upon vouchers approved by the court and county commissioners In no case however shall a defendant be committed in the custody of a probation officer of the opposite sex

Section 935 Whenever a person placed on probation as aforesaid shall violate the terms of his probation he shall be subject to arrest in the same manner as in the case of an escaped convict and shall be brought before the court which released him on probation which court may thereupon pronounce upon such defendant such sentence as may be prescribed by law to begin as such time as the court may direct

Section 936 Whenever it is the judgment of the court that a person on probation has satisfactorily met the conditions of his probation the court shall discharge such defendant and cause record thereof to be made Provided That the length of such period of probation shall not be more than the mixmum term for which the defendant might have been imprisoned

Section 937 The judges of the courts of quarter sessions and the courts of oyer and terminer or other courts of record having jurisdiction of the several judicial districts of the Commonwealth are authorized after hearing in open court after notice to the District Attorney ten days in advance thereof to release on parole any convict confined in the county prison jail workhouse or house of detention of their respective districts and place him in charge of and under the supervision of a designated probation officer and shall have the power to recommit to prison jail workhouse or house of detention on cause shown by such probation officer that such convict has violated his parole and to reparole if in the judgment of the said judge there is a reasonable probability that the convict will be benefitted by again according liberty to him and also to again recommit for violation of such parole This power shall not extend beyond the limit of the sentence which shall have been first imposed upon the prisoner

Section 938 Where any person has been or shall be convicted of any felony not punishable with death or any misdemeanor punishable with imprisonment and has endured or shall endure the punishment to which such offender has been or shall be adjudged for the same the punishment so endured shall have the like effects and consequences as a pardon by the governor as to the felony or misdemeanor whereof such person was so convicted Provided That nothing herein contained nor the enduring of such punishment shall prevent or mitigate any punishment to which the offender might otherwise be lawfully sentenced on a subsequent conviction for any other felony or misdemeanor and that the provisions of this section shall not extend to the case of a person convicted of wilful and corrupt perjury

Section 939 On all convictions for robbery burglary or stealing of any good chattels or other property made the subject of stealing by the laws of this Commonwealth or for otherwise unlawfully and fraudulent taking or obtaining the same or of receiving such goods chattels or other property knowing the same to be stolen the defendant shall in addition to the punishment heretofore prescribed for such offences be adjudged to restore to the owner the property taken or to pay the value of the same or so much thereof as may not be restored And on all convictions or any indictment for forgery for uttering publishing or passing any forged or counterfeit coin bank notes check or writing or any indictment for fraudulently by means of false pretense obtaining the signature of another to any written instrument with intent to defraud the defendant in addition to the punishment hereinbefore prescribed for such offenses shall be adjudged to make similar restitution or other compensation as in case of stealing to the persons defrauded Provided That nothing herein shall be so construed as to prevent the party aggrieved and to whom restitution is to be awarded from being a competent witness on the trial of the offender

Section 940 In all cases of felony it shall and may be lawful for any person injured or aggrieved by such felony to have and maintain his action against the person or persons guilty of such felony in like manner as if the offense committed had not been feloniously done and in no case whatever shall the action of the party injured be deemed taken or adjudged to be merged in the felony or in any manner affected thereby

Section 941 The imprisonment awarded as part of the punishment of any offender shall not stop or avoid the awarding out of execution to levy such respective sums recovered against them as such offenders refuse or neglect to pay Writs of execution may issue in the same form as such writs are now awarded out of the courts of common pleas and shall be directed to the sheriff or coroner of the proper county requiring him to levy the sums due upon such recoveries as aforesaid of the lands and tenements goods and chattels of such offenders returnable to the next term or session of the court where such conviction was had It shall be the duty of said sheriff or coroner to execute the said writs in the same manner that writs of execution awarded out of the courts of common pleas or executed and to sell the lands goods and chattels levied upon under said writs and to convey the same at any sale held by virture thereof Such sales shall be as valid and effectual in law as any other sales of land taken and sold for the payment of debts by virtue of writs of execution awarded out of the courts of common pleas or other courts of record having jurisdiction in the respective counties

The House met at 10:30 o'clock A. M.

The SPEAKER (Thomas Bluett) in the Chair.

The Chaplain, Rev. George P. Donehoo, offered the following prayer:

Almighty God, we thank Thee that we have the right to be called Thy children; that in this universe of law, back of the sun and moon and stars, each one of us has a Father who knows us, and understands us and sympathizes with us. Keep us from feeling that this world in which we live is a world of cold, heartless law, but that it is law back of which is the heart of a Father who loves everyone. Bless us, therefore, this morning as Thy children in everything we do. Be with the Speaker and members of this House and all those who are employed in it. Guide us and direct us, and give us the greatest gift that God can give to any human soul—His peace, and keep us in perfect peace through Jesus Christ. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED.

COMMUNICATION FROM THE GOVERNOR.

MINUTES OF THE EXECUTIVE BOARD.

The SPEAKER. The Chair lays before the House a communication from His Excellency, the Governor, which the Clerk will read.

The communication was read by the Clerk as follows:

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania,
Governors Office, Harrisburg, February 9, 1925.

To the Honorable, the House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Ladies and Gentlemen: In response to the resolution of the House of Representatives of February 3, 1925, asking for a copy of the minutes of the Executive Board and any other data or schedules prepared for the Executive Board relating to the salaries or classification of State employes, I have the honor to transmit the following:

A copy of the minutes of the Executive Board of October 31, 1924, adopting tentatively the classification of employees of the State, exclusive of all per diem employees and those in State-owned institutions and in the Departments of the Auditor General, State Treasurer, and Secretary of Internal Affairs.

A copy of this Tentative Classification.

A table showing the salaries paid under this classification in the appointive departments of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania for certain definite positions as compared with those paid for the same positions in the Federal Service, in four States, in eight cities, and in the Dominion of Canada. These include all the figures found to be available for comparison.

A table comparing the beginning salaries of four standard positions under the appointive departments at Harrisburg with the beginning salaries for the same work in the elective departments at Harrisburg, and with the average paid by the other public agencies noted above.

A comparative table showing the average salary of all employees in the appointive departments and in the elective departments as of June 1, 1924.

A comparative table of the range of salary rates paid for indentical positions before and after classification.

A table of the comparable General Fund expenditures of the appointive departments for salaries and wages for the first eighteen months of the present biennium and the first eighteen months of the previous biennium.

These documents show:

1st. That a saving of $1,372,000 for comparable General Fund expenditures for salaries and wages of the appointive departments was actually made in the first eighteen months of this biennium as compared with the first eighteen months of the previous biennium, or at the rate of $1,825,000 for the two-year period. To be ultra conservative I have reduced the total estimated saving by $75,000, and have taken it at $1,750,000.

2nd. That the total payroll of the appointive departments for comparable functions under the General Fund for salaries and wages during the present biennium has been less by 15½ per cent than during the previous biennium.

3rd. That the rates of salary paid under the classification to employees of the Commonwealth are neither unduly above nor unduly below those paid for the same work by other governments, and are fair both to the employees and to the taxpayers. A comparison of similar positions in these 14 jurisdictions shows that for 41 positions the rate paid is the same as in Pennsylvania, in 122 the rates paid are lower than in Pennsylvania, and in 192 positions the rates paid are higher than those in the Pennsylvania classification.

4th. That the average salary for all employees in the elective departments is 30 percent greater than that for all employees in the appointive departments; and that if the average rate of salary paid in the elective departments were adopted in the appointive departments, in which qualifications of at least as high grade are required, the total payroll of the appointive departments under all Funds for the biennium would now be $5,700,000 more than it is.

5th. That a definite set of standard qualifications for all positions lower than Cabinet Officers has, for the first time in the history of Pennsylvania, been prepared and published, and is now in effect. These standard requirements, up to which employees must measure, are the guarantee that the money of the State is no longer wasted by the appointment of incompetent persons.

6th. That glaring inequalities of salary for precisely the same work, often to the extent of two to one, have been wiped out by the classification, and that a fair and open field for promotion based on merit has been substituted for promotion by political pull.

Out of 5,400 employees now affected by the tentative classification, 1,139 have by transfer or promotion been assigned to more responsible or more difficult work and therefore to higher pay. In spite of these promotions, which affect mainly the lower paid groups, the total salary roll has been so reduced by the abolition of political sinecures and the removal of highly paid political incompetents that the average salary received per year by Harrisburg employees in all the appointive departments including both Special and General Funds, has fallen from $1,700 in October, 1922 to $1,645 in October, 1924.

The tentative classification as it applied both to employees then in the service and to new employees was tried out during a full year before its tentative adoption by the Executive Board. The classification for State-owned institutions is well under way and will be given effect on the first of next June.

The economies practiced under the General Fund have been duplicated in the Special Funds. It was well known in advance, was specially provided for in the last Budget, and was freely discussed in the last Legislature, that the growth of the State would result in larger receipts from motor licenses, hunting licenses, etc. Preparation was accordingly made to spend these increased receipts for the purposes required by law with economy and intelligence. The amount of service rendered to the Commonwealth under the Special Funds has therefore increased far faster than the total receipts, and the good results which followed the classification have been secured for the services under these Funds as well as for those under the General Fund.

There was, as provided for in the Budget of 1923, a decrease in the appropriation for administration purposes to the Highway Department out of the General Fund and these administrative expenses in this biennium were paid from the Motor Fund instead. But the savings in other spending agencies have been such that about $12,000,000 appropriated for new construction and State-aid out of the General Fund, some for as long back as 1917 and 1919 were made available for the first time in 1923-25. The Highway Department will, as a result, spend or contract for $12,000,000 out of the General Fund in 1923-25 as compared with a total expenditure from the General Fund for Highway purposes in 1921-23 of $5,000,000. And this increase from General Fund expenditures went directly into the building of roads in this State.

The Highway Department spent for salaries in the biennium of 1921-23 $4,081,561, and for wages $10,634,698, a total of $14,716,259. In the biennium of 1923-25 it is estimated in the Budget that $7,084,245 would be spent for salaries and $15,561,597 for wages, a total of $22,645,842.

The payroll increases are due to the following:

1. Included in this sum are the expenditures for the Highway Motor Patrol, a new activity in the present biennium.

2. For the first time all operators were registered and all car owners were required to take out titles, a new and costly duty in this biennium.

3. There was an increase in the number of motor vehicles to be registered, and therefore an increase of cost.

4. Plans were made in advance, and paid for, for the expansion of new road construction work for 1925 and 1926 because of the $50,000,000 bond issue.

5. For the first time right of way surveys were undertaken to establish proper widths of highways for future needs.

6. For the first time a highway transport survey was made to determine traffic needs.

Taking all of these factors into consideration the Highway Department is getting better results for the same purposes with less money than ever before. For instance, the amount of maintenance work increased 100 percent and yet the wages spent on maintenance increased but 48 percent. Considering the size of its job and its new work the Highway Department has shown exactly the same economies and competency that the departments under the General Fund have shown, and the same may be said of all the other Special Funds.

There has been much irresponsible talk to the effect that the Special Funds have been drawn upon to do the work left undone by savings made in the General Fund. Any diversion of Special Funds to General Fund purposes would be illegal and would subject the fiscal officers to punishment. This should suffice to set that particular rumor permanently at rest.

Finally, I have no hesitation in saying that the morale of the employees and their service to the Commonwealth per dollar expended are now higher than they have ever been before.

February 9,1925.

I hereby certify that the following are the true and correct copies of those parts of the minutes of the Executive Board dealing with classification:

I.

Meeting held on October 31, 1924:

"The Secretary presented a tentative classification, which appears as "Exhibit A" of these minutes, of the positions held by employes in the service of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, exclusive of hourly and per diem employes, those in State-owned institutions, and in the Departments of the Auditor General, the Treasury and Internal Affairs, together with a tentative plan for salary increases for merit. On motion of the Secretary of the Commonwealth, seconded by the Attorney General, the Board decided to adopt the classification subject to revisions from time to time by the Executive Board, whether by changing classes or salary rates, by making new classes, by changes in service requirements for salary increases within a class, or otherwise in order to meet changing market or employment conditions."

II.

Meeting held on December 8, 1924:

"The Secretary presented the first draft of a proposed additional class to the Tentative Classification of Employes to be known as Expert Stenographer with a salary range from $1800 to $2100. The proposal was laid on the table for consideration at future meetings."

P. S. STAHLNECKER,
Secretary, Executive Board.

EXHIBITS

A tentative classification of the positions held by employes in the service of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Exclusive of hourly and per diem employees those in State-owned institutions, and the Departments of the Auditor General, the Treasury and Internal Affairs. Together with a tentative plan for salary increases for merit approved by the Executive Board of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, Harrisburg, Pennsylvania, 1924.

Executive Board—Gifford Pinchot, Governor, Chairman; Clyde L. King, Secretary of the Commonwealth; George W. Woodruff, Attorney General; Paul D. Wright, Secretary of Highways; Robert Y. Stuart, Secretary of Forests and Waters; P. S. Stahlnecker, Secretary to the Governor, Secretary.

TENTATIVE CLASSIFICATION OF POSITIONS AND PLAN FOR SALARY INCREASES AS REQUIRED BY SECTION 709, ACT 274 P. L. 1923, "THE ADMINISTRATIVE CODE."

The provisions of Act No. 274, "The Administrative Code." Section 709, under which this classification is being developed, are as follows:

Section 709, Executive Board,—The Executive Board shall have the power:

(a) To standardize all titles, salaries, and wages of persons employed by the administrative departments, boards, and commissions execpt the Department of the Auditor General, the Treasury Department, and the Department of Internal Affairs. In establishing such standards the board may;

(1) Take into consideration the location of the work and the conditions under which the service is rendered, and

(2) Establish different standards for different kinds, grades, and classes of similar work or service;

The objects of this classification in order to fulfill the requirements of the act above quoted are:

1. To provide a standard title for each class of positions.
2. To secure uniform pay for similar services in the various spending agencies of the Commonwealth.
3. To assure equal employment advantages for all employes engaged on work of similar responsibility requiring similar training.
4. To provide a fair opportunity for transfer and promotion, based on ability and length of service.

In order to carry out the objects indicated above:

1. This classification must necessarily be of positions, not persons.
2. Salary grades within classes are necessary to insure compensation based on personal ability, character of work and length of service.
3. Classes are devised to cover all work of similar type requiring equal minimum qualifications, whereas salary grades cover individual ability and service.
4. Special qualifications are set up for each class of positions.
5. General qualifications are set up for all employes in the State service.
6. Classes are grouped in accordance with the kind of work into which they fall in order to achieve equity in salary increases due to merit.

GENERAL QUALIFICATIONS

All employes in State service must have the following general qualifications.

1. Every employe must be of high moral character.
2. No one will be employed who is suffering from any communicable disease.
3. In view of the Retirement Laws, except under unusual circumstances approved in each case by the Executive Board, no new employe shall be over fifty years of age.

The special qualification required for each class of position are given in the following pages.

The Executive Board will establish, from time to time, equivalents for certain special qualifications as reguired for particular classes within this classification.

As an example, the following equivalent shall hold for the college training and experience as specified for Civil Engineers on Chart 1.

For Civil Engineers in the Class "Technical or Professional Administrator or Expert," the "total experience equivalent," (column 6, chart 1) "of college education" (column 1, chart 1), and "total experience" (column 2, chart 1) shall be:

1. At least 26 years of age.
2. At least 8 years active practice of Civil Engineering, two years of which shall have been in responsible administration of engineering work.

For Civil Engineers in the Class "Senior Technical or Professional Administrator or Expert," the "total experience equivalent," (column 6, chart 1) of "college education," (column 1, chart 1), and "total experience," (column 2, chart 1) shall be of "college education," (column 1, chart 1), and "total experience," (column 2 chart 1), shall be:

1. At least 30 years of age.
2. Twelve years active practice of Civil Engineering, five years of which shall have been in responsible administration of engineering work.
3. Competency in design as well as in the direction of engineering work.

For Civil Engineers in the Class "Chief Technical or Professional Administrator or Expert," the "total experience equivalent," (column 6, chart 1) of "college education," (column 1, chart 1), and "total experience" (column 2 chart 1), shall be:

1. At least 32 years of age.
2. Twelve years active practice of Civil Engineering, five years of which shall have been in responsible administration of engineering work.
3. Competency in design as well as in direction of engineering work.

Membership in the American Society of Civil Engineers with the grade "Member" shall be prima facia evidence of compliance with the fundamental total experience requirements of "college education" (column 1, chart 1), and "total experience" (column 2, chart 1) in the classes "Senior Technical or Professional Administrator or Expert" and "Chief Technical or Professional Administrator or Expert," provided that the prospective employe has had twelve years' active practice of Civil Engineering.

This kind of work comprises beginning where the work is simple and easily learned, and where the tenure of office, because of anticipated promotion out of the class, should be comparatively short. These conditions call for a range of salaries which is narrow. The following grades shall govern increases for merit:

1. The entrance salary shall be the lowest salary rate.
2. The second rate may be paid at the end of six months of satisfactory service within the class, except that this rate be paid at the end of three months when the service is exceptionally meritorious.
3. The third rate may be paid at the end of one and one-half years of service within the class.

INCREASE IN PAY FOR MERIT ONLY.

Increases in pay within a class will be made only to competent and faithful employes who given superior service either in speed, accuracy, quality, quantity, reliability, fidelity, or character of their work. Length of service without improvement will not justify an increase in pay. Increases in pay will be made on the recommendation of the responsible bureau or section chief approved by the head of the department when special merit can be shown.

The service rules may be waived by the Governor as a recognition of exceptional merit only.

This recommendation will be in the form of a Recommendation for Increase in Salary.

PROMOTION OR TRANSFER TO OTHER CLASSES

Vacancies or new positions in State employment will be filed when practical by transfer or promotions of worthy and competent employes from lower classes.

Employes promoted to positions in another class which has a beginning salary rate higher than that currently received shall receive the minimum salary of the class to which promoted.

Employes transferred to positions in another class with beginning salary rates lower than that currently received shall be transferred at their current salary, providing this salary is not higher than the salary payable had entire service been in that class.

Maximum ability is a specific position should be developed within the service period specified above for each kind of work and promotion beyond the highest salary rate can be achieved only by transfer to positions of higher classification.

BEGINNING RATES OF PAY

The beginning rate shall be the minimum rate of a class, unless otherwise approved in advance by the Governor. The Governor will approve a beginning rate higher than a minimum rate of the class and waive service requirements for promotion only in exceptional cases of appointments to positions requiring specialized training, under the following conditions:—

1. In the case of technical or vocational positions, if the employe, personally, has all the qualifications requisite to the next higher class; or
2. To meet urgent market or other similar conditions.

PRIOR SERVICE CREDIT

Service within a class may include service prior to the adoption for this classification. Upon the approval of the Governor, an equivalent of former service in other employ will be accepted as partial prior service credit in State employ, and such prior service will also be credited toward eligibility for salary increases.

PART TIME

In case of employment on a part-time basis, the proper class of the work will be determined and assigned. The salary payable will be the proportion of full salary which the part time bears to full time.

PER DIEM RATES

Work for which payment is made on the hourly or per diem basis is not covered by this classification. Employment on the per diem basis at a rate of $10 a day or higher must have the previous writen approval of the Governor.

REVISIONS

This classification and the plan for salary increases for merit are subject to revision from time to time by the Executive Board, whether by changing classes or salary rates, by making new classes, by changes in service requirements for salary increases within a class, or otherwise in order to meet changing market or employment conditions.

COMMONWEALTH OF PENNSYLVANIA

Legislative Journal

Vol. 8. HARRISBURG, PA., MONDAY, FEBRUARY 16, 1925. No. 12.

SENATE

MONDAY, February 16th, 1925.

The Senate met at 9:00 o'clock P. M.

The President (Lieutenant-Governor David J. Davis) in the Chair.

The Chaplain, Rev. Edward S. Ninde, offered the following prayer:

Our Heavenly Father, we humbly acknowledge Thy greatness. Thou art perfect in wisdom, perfect in might, perfect in holiness. We can never be all that Thou art but we may be like Thee, for we are not only Thy creatures but we are Thy children, made in Thine image. We are able to think Thy thoughts after Thee; we are immortal as Thou art. Help us to be worthy our divine parentage. May we learn to know Thee better and to love Thee better and to serve Thee more perfectly. And wherever we are, whether it be in the privacy of our homes, or in the marts of trade, or in legislative halls, may we never forget that we are the sons of God.

Bless the Senators as they enter on the duties of this new week, and guide them in their work. For Jesus' sake. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED.

The PRESIDENT—A quorum of the Senate being present the Clerk will read the Journal of the preceding session.

COMMUNICATION RELATIVE TO APPROPRIATION FOR SESQUI CENTENNIAL.

The Chair cleared his table and laid before the Senate the following communication, which was read as follows and referred to the Committee on Exposition Affairs:

Philadelphia, Penn., Feb. 15th, 1925.

President or Presiding Officer, State Senate, Harrisburg, Penn.

After conferring today with a delegation of prominent Pennsylvanians headed by the Mayor of Philadelphia and vigorously supported by Secretary Hoover, President Coolidge signified his approval of the coming Sesqui Centennial Exhibition and the scope by dispatching within the hour a special message to Congress recommending that immediate action be taken by that body on appropriate legislation. The President will officially invite all foreign governments to participate and will request that units of their Naval Fleets be dispatched to Philadelphia for participation in the celebration and to remain during the term of the exhibition. The international aspect of the Sesqui Centennial is now assured and we are confident that more foreign governments will be represented on this occasion of the celebration of the birth of our independence than have ever before participated in any exposition. The State Department will immediately notify the nations of the world by cable through diplomatic channels and the formal invitation will be sent by mail, and we have every assurance that foreign participation will be on a large scale. The exhibition will open on June fourteenth, Flag Day, nineteen twenty-six and will extend well into the fall of that year. Ample space has been provided for State Buildings on the Grounds or if desired arrangements can be made for space in our building. The time is short but it gives us one more opportunity to display American initiative and capability. Many states have made provision for representation and if your State has not already done so may we urge upon you the necessity of prompt action in order that you may be adequately represented at the first great exposition to be held in the Eastern centre of population since eighteen seventy-six, held as that was in the same cradle of American Liberty. We suggest that your participation if possible, take form of an appropriate building to house the official educational and commercial exhibits as selected by your various state departments to demonstrate to the world your manufactures, commerce, mineral and agricultural products. May we ask your support and invaluable aid in the Senate for this important project. Let's go.

W. FREELAND KENDRICK,
Mayor of Philadelphia and President of Sesqui Centennial
D. C. Collier, Director General.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE.

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Philadelphia will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, I ask leave to print some interesting data entitled "Who's Who, A Financial Farce in One Scene".

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

WHOS WHO

Dramatis Personae

Philadelphia, Penn., Feb. 15th, 1925.

Secretary of State & Finance, Chief Budget Officer and Keeper Of The Great Seal:

The Auditor General, The Treasurer, Senator from Lehigh, Chairman of Committee on Appropriations, Senator from Potter, Chairman of Committee on Finance, Mr. McCaig, Chairman of House Committee on Appropriations, Mr. Sterling, Chairman of House Committee on Ways and Means, Senator Leslie, Estimators to Secretary of State, Estimators to Auditor General, Estimators to Treasurer, Estimators to Senator Schantz, Estimators to Senator Baldwin, Estimators to Mr. McCaig, Estimators to Mr. Sterling.

Time, present. Place, the Senate Chamber.

Curtain slowly rising discloses the gilded electroliers, the green and gold color scheme and the mural paintings. Seated on the rostrum are the four chairmen of the four fiscal committees of the General Assembly. Near the bar of the Senate are the Secretary of State, the Auditor General and the Treasurer. On each side of the rostrum are grouped the estimators, trying to look like experts.

Senator Schantz (whose shoulders and neck betoken firmness to his friends, obstinacy to his foes): "Gentlemen, this is a public hearing of the parties at interest on the question 'who is the biggest financial liar around the State Capitol'? The first gentlemen to be heard will be Prof. King, the Secretary of the Commonwealth."

(The Secretary stealthily approaches. He signals to McGee and the administration experts who unlimber charts. At sight of the charts three of the chairman glide softly away to the barber shop):

"Mr. Chairman, Mr. McGee and his expert accountants have received so little cooperation from the Auditor General that we have been obliged to estimate the state's revenue on the law of averages. These charts show the normal growth of revenue from 1789 to 1923. You will note the steadily rising curve until in 1925-26 it is probable that we shall receive in revenue $132,850,000. This does not include the dog fund, the fish fund, the boiler funds, the mattress fund, the elevator fund, the vocational fund, the rehabilitation fund, the game fence fund and the motor fund. The less said about these funds the better."

Senator Leslie (rising to his full height): "Mr. Chairman, will the gentleman allow himself to be interrogated?"

The Chairman: "Will the Secretary of State and Finance, Chief Budget Officer and Keeper of the Great Seal allow himself to be interrogated?"

The Secretary: "No."

The Chairman: "The Secretary will not allow himself to be interrogated."

Senator Leslie (rising to his fuller height and waving his index finger): "Professor, who pays McGee?"

Dr. King: "He is paid out of the dog fund."

Senator Leslie: "I understand that the dog fund money paid for dead cows."

Dr. King. "So it does, but also for my experts."

(Laughter among the Legislators sternly checked by the Chairman's gavel. At the sound of the gavel the three absent chairmen, believing the hearing to be over, return to their seats looking refreshed.)

The Chairman: "We shall now have the pleasure of hearing from the Auditor General, General S. S. Lewis." (Before the Auditor General can arrange his papers and clear his throat, the Treasurer, wearing a carnation in his buttonhole, jumps up, waves his hands, and calls out to the crowd: "This man in the Governor's chair is such an egotist he says with Louis XIV 'l'etat c'est Moi'." The Chairman raps for order and declares the Treasurer out of order because his remarks are not germane. The Treasurer again jumps to his feet and calls out to the crowd: "Of course they are not germane, they are French". (General laughter during which the three chairmen again make an exit towards the barber shop where they are joined by the Treasurer).

The Chairman: "The Auditor General, Mr. Lewis, will now present his figures."

(The Auditor General, also Main & Company, and their accountants, come forward with ledgers. The Auditor General clears his throat.) "Mr. Chairman, I stand by my figures of 124 million dollars. These figures are the result of experience. I can prove them by reference to these ledgers. I have no charts and no curves to show you. I have no use for charts. These ledgers will give you my figures, and I stand by my figures. The emergency profits tax has not yielded what the Governor expected of it for the reason that the business men have not paid the tax. The business men argue that the emergency will soon be over and they needn't worry. Business men are practical people and not theorists with maps and charts. I know by experience that these practical men will not pay and therefore the revenues will not exceed 124 millions." (Applause from all the employees of the Auditor General's Office).

The Chairman: "Is Mr. Sterling present?" (Mr. Sterling appears from the lobby). "I understand that Mr. Sterling, Chairman of the Ways and Means Committee has an expert estimator about him somewhere."

Mr. Sterling: "Mr. Chairman, I wish to present my fiscal expert, Secretary of the National Bureau of Research, Mr. Buck. I may say that Mr. Buck fulfills every condition imposed upon an expert, in that he knows no more than we do, but he comes from a great distance and at great expense. I would like you to grant him thirty minutes to give us the results of his one day's investigations. He is prepared to prove that both Dr. King and General Lewis are wrong in their figures."

The Chairman: "We shall be pleased to hear from Mr. Buck for thirty minutes. I hope, however, that we shall not be tempted by the gentleman's name, Buck, you know, to pass him to our fellow legislators, without criticism." (The Chairman laughs in his hearty way, the spectators see the joke and laugh loudly, unchecked by the lenient Chairman. Mr. Buck proceeds for thirty minutes, while the spectators converse among themselves, except Dr. King and General Lewis, who are really interested).

The Chairman: "If there are no other experts, I would like to say that I have been figuring on the revenues of the state myself. I have not my figures with me, but I may say that they are totally different from anything we have heard this afternoon. I wish to thank the Senators and members of the House for their patient attention to these technical matters. The chairmen of the fiscal committees of the Senate and House Committees will hold an executive session next week. The hearing stands adjourned."

(As they go out the Chairman buttonholes Billy McCaig and conducts him to his private office).

The Chairman: "Bill, have you got a half dollar?"

Mr. McCaig: "No, here is a nickel."

The Chairman: "That will be O. K. You just toss the nickel. If she comes down heads we recommend Professor Kings totals, if she comes down tails, we recommend Sam. Lewis's figures. Are you on?"

Mr. McCaig: "Sure thing, here goes." (He spins the coin, it falls and they regard it with a feeling of great relief, that the General Assembly will now know how much it has to spend).

Curtain.

BILL ON FINAL PASSAGE.

Agreeably to order,

The Senate resumed the consideration of Senate Bill No. 36, as follows:

An Act authorizing the employment of stenographers by the district attorneys of certain counties

BILLS OVER IN ORDER.

Mr. STEELE. Mr. President, I ask that Senate Bill No. 144 on third reading, entitled:

An Act to amend section sixteen, as amended, of the act approved the tenth day of June, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-three, (P. L. 419), entitled "An Act to regulate the nomination and election of public officers, requiring certain expenses incident thereto to be paid by the several counties, and punishing certain offenses in regard to such elections" by increasing the number of specimen ballots to be provided for each election district.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 145 entitled:

An Act to amend section ten of the act approved the twelfth day of July, one thousand nine hundred and thirteen, (P. L. 719), entitled "An Act regulating certain political parties; providing for and regulating the nomination of candidates of such political parties for certain public offices, the election of delegates and alternate delegates to National party conventions, and of certain party officers, including State committeemen; a method whereby electors of such political parties may express their choice of candidates for the office of President of the United States; and the payment by the several counties, and their reimbursement by the State, of the expenses of the same; authorizing the State committee of a political party to make, and to alter, amend, and revoke, rules; and providing penalties for the violation of the provisions of this act, and for the punishment of certain offenses provided for herein; and repealing inconsistent legislation," as amended by increasing the number of specimen ballots to be provided for each election district.

And said bill having been read the third time,

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill?

Mr. STEELE. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to amend title, page 1, line 12 by striking out "Stotes" and inserting in lieu thereof the word "States"; also Section 1, page 3, line 10 by striking out the word "of" and inserting in lieu thereof the word "for".

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

The amendment was agreed to.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading as amended?

It was agreed to.

Ordered, That the bill as amended be printed for the use of the Senate.

BILL OVER IN ORDER.

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, I ask that Senate Bill No. 190 on third reading, entitled:

An Act regulating the selection, drawing, summoning, and serving of all jurors in the several courts in counties of the third class abolishing the office of jury commissioner; abrogating the duties of sheriff in connection with jurors; vesting in the judges of the common pleas the exclusive function of selection, drawing and regulation, with power to provide, at the cost of the county, the necessary clerical assistance and materials and equipment.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

BILL ON THIRD READING AND FINAL PASSAGE.

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 216, entitled:

A Joint Resolution ratifying the proposed amendment to the constitution of the United States regulating the labor of persons under eighteen years of age.

And said bill having been read at length the third time,

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill?

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, This is the proposed Twentieth Amendment to the Federal Constitution, and while it says here "Regulating Labor" it also says "To Prohibit the Labor of persons under eighteen years of age." This amendment is very badly constructed, in my opinion, although I believe it was drawn by our honored United States Senator Pepper.

Whatever we do to-night is of no great consequence, I believe, except to put Pennsylvania in line to reject the bill. The proponents of the amendment say, of course, that Congress will never take advantage of the language of the bill; but, certainly, an amendment to the Federal Constitution should say what it means and mean what it says, and we must be governed by the language proposed for adoption.

It is somewhat embarrassing for a member of the Judiciary General Committee to propose a measure he intends to vote against, but the Judiciary General Committee decided, in its wisdom, that this is the proper procedure; and that is the procedure we propose to follow.

If the Senate will pardon me for a personal reference, I may say I was Chairman of the Committee twenty years ago that brought this matter before the Legislature, and, in 1915, resulted in the Child Labor Law. But no matter how this amendment had been framed-in what language—in my opinion the people of this country have made up their minds to set their faces against undue or hasty amendments to the Federal Constitution.

We are all familiar with the amendment which has put the income tax upon us. We doubt, some of us, the wisdom of the amendment for the election of United States Senators by the people. To speak upon the Eighteenth Amendment is to venture upon dangerous territory; but, at least, I can say it is not popular. To venture to express an opinion upon the Nineteenth Amendment is also dangerous, but some of the more reactionary members of the Senate are still trying to digest it.

The two States, I believe Arkansas and California, have ratified the Twentieth Amendment, and I belive that more than twelve have voted it down. I understand that this is one of forty-eight amendments to the Federal Constitution that are pending; and, as one has been pending since 1879 there is no limit to the times it may come up. But I hope the Senate will vote "No" upon this occasion.

MOTION TO RECOMMIT BILL.

Mr. BARR. Mr. President, I move that further consideration of this bill be had in the Committee on Judiciary General, and the bill be recommitted to that Committee for a hearing.

Mr. BETTS. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. LESLIE. Mr. President, While I do not differ with my colleague, I do not know his purpose, This is a question before the people not only of this State but of the people throughout the United States,—whether the Government of the United States shall dominate and rule the Government of the States.

We are now presented with a proposition of making—

Mr. BARR. Mr. President, Will the Senator from Allegheny, Mr. Leslie, yield the floor?

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Allegheny, Mr. Leslie, yield?

Mr. LESLIE. Mr. President, I will.

Mr. BARR. Mr. President, may I call the attention of the Chair to the fact that the motion before the Senate is to recommit?

Mr. LESLIE. Mr. President, I wish, therefore, to submit to the question. I trust we will not recommit this bill to the Committee but that we will vote to decide this question here to-night.

Mr. BARR. Mr. President, The Senator from Allegheny, Mr. Leslie, has raised a question and he is entitled to an answer. It is true that this amendment has been before the people, and it is also true that it has been defeated in some States and carried in two; but it does seem to me that this Senate should not be hasty. It has the reputation of being conservative; it has the reputation of being just; it has the reputation of being a body of men that are willing to give the men and women a square deal. The people for whom I speak have never been heard on this question. There has been no discussion other than that which has been in the Committee on Judiciary General; and it seems to me that in view of the reputation this Senate bears, and has always borne, so far as I know, it should give these people the right to be heard; and under that condition, and in view of the Senatorial courtesy that should rule, and has ruled for many years, I moved that this bill be sent back on that basis.

Mr. LESLIE. Mr. President, everything my colleague has said is true; hasty action does never bear a part of this body in so far as the members are concerned. However, on the amendment before us hearings will only delay the action of this State; it will only cause, possibly, a disinclination in other States to take immediate action. If there were some purpose to be gained, to put the amendment in force, I would acquiesce and agree with my colleague.

It has been recognized that the General Assemblies of the different States meeting this year have taken immediate action I do not see why we should delay action. We have operated with all the speed possible for a deliberative body to operate. It makes no difference how we will act, but it will only put us in the position where we will be looked upon not as a deliberative body, the deliberative body of the State, the Keystone State, pronouncing their decision on the Twentieth Amendment.

Therefore, I believe, my colleague to the contrary notwithstanding, that delay gains nothing; it only postpones the fatal day.

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, it has been the custom in this body for a great many years that when the citizens of this Commonwealth wanted to be heard on any measure they should be given an opportunity. I believe the Senate should recommit this bill to the Committee on Judiciary General for a hearing, the same as we commit any other bill when it is requested by the Senate.

I believe, further, that the Committee on Judiciary General, when it gets this bill back on its hands, should make an arrangement with the Committee on Judiciary General for the House to have a joint hearing. Let them be heard by the two Committees simultaneously. I make that as a suggestion; and I intend to vote with the Senator from Allegheny, Mr. Barr, to recommit this bill for a hearing.

Mr. SCHANTZ. Mr. President, this is a resolution which was sent down to us by the Government of the United States, and it is a resolution which should not be killed in Committee but which should be voted upon on the floor of the Senate. If there is any Senator or any member of this State who can say that he desires more enlightenment on the subject, that he has not made up his mind, and that he is in need of a hearing in order to come to a conclusion as to how he shall cast his vote, I am heartily in favor affording him that opportunity; but, Mr. President the only purpose in sending back this resolution can be to kill it in Committee. I admit that the Committee that had this resolution could have killed it a dozen times, and it was reported out with the explicit understanding that it was for the purpose of having the merits of this resolution voted upon on the floor of the Senate; and, I repeat, if there is anybody who seeks more enlightenment, it should be recommitted, but I know that in this case a recommitment would mean only delay.

We have been in Session here for six weeks, let us bring this to a conclusion. Let us take final action here to-night. We have been circularized, and we have read about this, and we understand it thoroughly; and, in order that it may be disposed of, and that we may move here and make progress, I trust the members of this body will vote down this motion and pass upon the measure that is before us to-night, and take final action upon the proposition.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. Barr and Mr. Buckman, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—21.

Baldwin,	Derrick,	Kunkle,	Phipps,
Barr,	Gelder,	MacDade,	Quigley,
Betts,	Griswold,	Mansfield,	Snyder,
Bonbrake,	Harris,	Miller,	Steele,
Brown,	Joyce,	North,	Stites,
Buckman,

NAYS—26.

Aron,	Einstein,	Lanius,	Schantz,
Baumer,	Freeman,	Leslie,	Sones,
Culbertson,	Heaton,	McNichol,	Vare,
Daix,	Homsher,	Norton,	Weingartner,
Davis,	Huffman,	Painter,	Woodward,
DeWitt,	Krause,	Patton,
Earnest,	Kutz,	Salus,

So the question was determined in the negative.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. BARR. Mr. President I am sorry that the Senate was in the mood to-night not to be courteous to about thirty or forty organizations representing thousands of men and women in the State of Pennsylvania. Perhaps the amendment will be defeated, and perhaps it will be defeated badly. That means nothing. Every moral cause, in every State in the Union, has faced a defeat sometime or other; and eventually it has won.

The Senators will recall, as most people know, that the women—our mothers and our sisters and all the rest—were catalogued with idiots and children for a good many years; and finally after a long series of battles equal franchise was granted to those who have kept civilization together for 2000 years, have kept the Churches of Jesus Christ together for 2000 years, and have kept the body politic together and decent for 2000 years; and it doesn't mean that because this amendment goes down to defeat to-night it will not eventually win. It doesn't mean that because the National Manufacurers' Association of the United States of America poured thousands and thousands and hundreds of thousands of dollars into the different States of the Union in order to defeat the children's amendment and in order that the little children of the South and of the North may continue to have the lash of the manufacturer applied to their backs the same as the black man had the lash applied to his back during the long years from the time of the adoption of the Constitution down to the time the guns of the Civil War struck it down; that this amendment must live.

Mr. President, it does not mean that because this Senate to-night has been so discourteous as to say to the Voters of the State of Pennsylvania, "You can't be heard before us," we are under the domination of this association or that. Perhaps there are people in the legislature that may have their answer, they may have the answer from the National Council of Jewish Women they may have their answer from the League of Women Voters, they may have their answer from the National Educators' Association, and they may have their answer from dozens and dozens of organizations that are behind this bill, and that have come in here to-night and have asked it for a hearing. There have been tons and tons of literature that has been sent out on this proposition, and I am just as convinced that this is a moral question as much of a moral question as the Eighteenth Amendment was, and I believe that the interests that have downed this proposition in the thirteen States in the Union are practically the same interests that tried to keep the Eighteenth Amendment from being written into the Constitution and are now trying to have it taken out of the Constitution. But thank God that Eighteenth Amendment is written into the Constitution to stay, once and for all, buttressed by the Nineteenth Amendment the women of America will see that it is never repealed.

Mr. President and gentlemen of the Senate, the force behind the nineteenth amendment is the same force that will write into the Constitution the Twentieth Amendment, which will take out of White Slavery the million and a half of little children that the Association of Manufacturers have seen fit to lay the whip of service upon the tender little children for ten to fourteen hours a day.

"How long, how long, Oh, Cruel Nation, Will you stand to move the world on the Child's heart?"

Let me ask, What will be the difference between a man that wrung the money out of the mothers and little children through the saloon, as against the thousands and hundreds of thousands of dollars that the manufacturers employing children are wringing out of the little children of the United States of America? Will Rodgers has said, and perhaps he said in a factitious way, but there was a lot of truth in what he said, that once the manufacturers of the United States of America are compelled to pay the same wages to the little children of ten to fifteen or sixteen years of age that they would be compelled to pay the adults, there will not be any question of child labor; the difference of three or four dollars a day, for each of a million and a half of little children means six millions of dollars in the pockets of the manufacturers. It is no wonder they can spend thousands and hundreds of thousands of dollars for propaganda to influence the Assemblies of the States of the Union.

Mr. SALUS. Mr. President, I rise to a point of order.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Salus, will state his point of order.

Mr. SALUS. Mr. President, The Senator from Allegheny, Mr. Barr, said a moment ago, that the manufacturers have spent millions and millions of dollars to influence various legislatures of the United States, including this Legislature; and, unless he has positive proof of that, I will ask him to retract it.

Mr. BARR. Mr. President, my statement was, that the Manufacturers' Association, the National Manufacturers' Association of the United States, has spent thousands and hundreds of thousands of dollars to influence the opinions of the Legislators of the several states of the union, as well as the people; and I repeat it,—to influence the opinion, by it's tons and tons of literature it has dumped upon America.

Mr. SALUS. Mr. President, I still insist that we have a right to have the Senator from Allegheny, Mr. Barr, produce his authority for making that statement; and if he has no such authority, I request that he retract his words.

Mr. BARR. Mr. President, I do not need to retract a statement I did not make.

Mr. SALUS. Mr. President, I think the Senator from Allegheny, Mr. Barr, did make the statement, and I think, in fairness to the members of this Senate, he ought either to produce his proof or retract his statement. My point is that the Senator from Allegheny has made the statement, and he should substantiate,—either substantiate or retract it, in fairness to the members of this Senate and in fairness to himself.

Mr. BARR. Mr. President, I will state that the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Salus is not stating a point of order.

The PRESIDENT. As the Chair understands, the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Salus, is not raising a point of order, but he requests information from the Senator regarding the statement made by the Senator from Allegheny, Mr. Barr, which the Chair understands the Senator from Allegheny has restated in a manner apparently different from the manner in which the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Salus, understood it.

Mr. SALUS. Mr. President, I am perfectly satisfied with any statement that the Senator from Allegheny makes, if he thinks it is fair.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Allegheny, Mr. Barr, will proceed.

Mr. BARR. Mr. President, I have heard a good deal in the past years I have been in public life, and before, about party regularity; and I have heard a good deal about party platforms; and I have heard much more about disloyalty to party. I have seen statements placed upon the highway "the regular Republicans"; and yet to-night in this Senate we find the so-called leaders of the Senate of the State of Pennsylvania against an amendment that the Republican Platform of 1916 of 1920 and of 1924 endorsed. He who is the leader of the Republican Party, and the President of the United States, is the chief exponent of the Twentieth Amendment. That is why the Manufacturers Association picked Massachusetts, the President's home state, to begin the slow death of the children's amendment. A repudiation of the amendment in Massachusetts, repudiated the President and his platform and his indorsement.

We have heard a great deal about party loyalty; and he who lies in his grave, Warren Harding, was the one who signed the bill that was afterward disapproved by the Supreme Court of the United States as being unconstitutional. And, my democratic friends on the other side of the House, may I call your attention to the great Wilson, the great War President, who signed the bill that went to the Supreme Court of the United States; and, remember the last thing that he did was to set his hand of approval on the Child Labor Amendment, the Amendment for Children. What of your great Henry Cabot Lodge, who has gone to his Maker, standing four-square, for the amendment, he who disagreed so bitterly with President Wilson, found common ground on the right of children! What about the big manufacturer, Judge Gary, where does he stand? He is quoted strongly for the child labor amendment. Other great men can be shown, that belong to the Republican Party; and yet we find Republican Senators here tonight who repudiate their platform, repudiate the President of the United States, repudiate every action of every separate and distinct Republican leader.

Mr. LESLIE. Mr. President, may I interrogate my colleague from Allegheny?

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Allegneny, Mr. Barr, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. BARR. Mr. President, I refuse to yield. Mr. President, I would say if the gentleman has any questions to ask me, when I finish, if I have the ability to answer, I will be very glad to answer. I request the right to proceed.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Allegheny, Mr. Barr, will proceed.

Mr. BARR. Mr. President, I repeat, the Senators tonight who claim to be regular Republicans are repudiating the three platforms of the Republican Party, and the Democratic Senators are repudiating the Democratic platform because there was no stronger plank in any one of the platforms than the Democratic platform endorsing the Child Labor Amendment. What is a platform for of any Party? It is something to get in on, according to my colleagues, and not something to stand on.

Mr. President, I understand I am a good deal to-night, like the Irishman's son coming down with his Company, "Everybody is out of step but Johnny."

There has been a lot of bunk broadcasted on the number of years viz (18 years) that has been set in this amendment, the age of a child that the great United States of America has asked be placed in their control; and yet, right in the State of Pennsylvania, in the laws of the State of Pennsylvania, if you please, under the Acts of Assembly, you control children, boys and girls, up to 21 years of age and boys of 18 years of age; and in addition to that you give the Department of Labor and Industry a power the United States never in the world has ever asked to assume, either through Congress or otherwise.

It has been said that once you hand over this Child Labor Amendment to Congress they will pass a law that will prevent children working for their fathers on the farm until they are eighteen years of age, and you have heard all other kinds of bunk that has been given out about it. In other words what the opponents of this Twentieth Amendment have said is that the Congress of the United States is composed of idiots. Well, the same charge has been made against you and against me. You have heard it said that the Assembly of Pennsylvania is a joke. You have heard jeers and sneers about the Assembly of Pennsylvania—and you know it is not true; and yet there are people who talk that way about Congress and talk loosely. Why should we be a party to talking the same way about another great body in the United States of America, the Congress of the United States of America, with regard to the great powers granted the Congress, and the United States Senate, with the consent of the President.

When the acts of Congress were on the books, and the U. S. Department of Labor had their jurisdiction working, there was no question about the laws of Congress—because the Departments of Labor of the different states in the Union found that every state in the Union was working toward a higher standard for the protection of children. That is the testimony before your Committee in Congress. It is the testimony before this amendment was even threatened—that the different Legislatures of the States of the Union had moved forward to a higher standard in their dealing with the question of child labor.

Now we have come to the time when we are going to vote on this Amendment; and do the Senators here assembled think that because this Amendment is defeated here tonight, that that is the end of it? Well if you do, read the conditions under which it came here. The people can bring it back into this Senate every Session for the next 20 or 40 years if they want to. And yet in the Committee on Judiciary General there was no thought given to a referendum of the people. Where does the power lie? Where should it lie except in the hands of the people? And yet when the effort was made to send it to the people, that they might determine this thing, what was the result? Not even considered! No more than were they considered toningt when they were refused a hearing on this Amendment.

Ah, men, this question like every great question will be solved—one defeat does not solve it! This thing will go on and on and on, and I make the prediction that every man and woman here to-night, within the sound of my voice, will see this amendment written into the Constitution of the United States of America within the next fifteen years, to stand alongside the other great amendments; that the United States of America will not bow its head in shame; that what it did for the black man and what it did for women and what it did against booze it will not refuse to do for the little unprotected child of the United States of America.

If I never serve another hour as a public servant, and if my vote was the only vote that was cast for this Amendment, I would cast it and thank God I had the chance to stand first, last and all the time for those I love best of all and for whose service I will continue to live to the end of time, the children of America. And that is why I am for this Amendment; that is why I want to see it written into the Constitution—because the children of the United States of America need the support, need the protection and the help this Amendment will give them.

Mr. SALUS. Mr. President, I want to say to the members of this Senate, on behalf of the Judiciary General Committee, of which I am chairman, that they never had a request from anybody for a hearing in support of this amendment excepting the statements made by Senator Barr to-night.

Mr. SCHANTZ. Mr. President, since the republicanism of some of the members of this body has been questioned and the platform of 1924 was cited to us, I want to say here now that the platform of the National Republican Party of 1924 does not endorse the 20th Amendment. I have made a request for the platform and I am sorry I do not have a copy right before me now, but will say that the platform of the Republican Party of 1924 did this: It recommends to the states a speedy consideration of this question. That is why we tonight oppose referring this bill again to committee. We are Republicans, regulars, and we stand on the platform of the Republican National Party of 1924, adopted in Cleveland, Ohio, which recommends a speedy consideration of this proposition, and that is why we were against recommitting the bill, and we stand on the platform four-square as Republicans. I care not what the platforms of 1920 and 1916, of ancient days, but the platform of 1924 was so careful and conscientious and all it did was what we did here to-night, to have this proposition considered and decided finally and promptly. We are against dilatory tactics always. We believe in progress, and action and we believe in standing up and being counted. That is regular Republicanism and I challenge any man or any woman to produce the platform of 1924 with an endorsement of this proposition.

Mr. President, we are not against the merits of this resolution but the people of the United States have tired of voting into the hands of Congress power which they are incompetent, in our estimation, to handle. This is the reaction that has come. Why we would be better off if none of the amendments, from the one changing the method of the election of United States Senators down to the present time, had never been adopted. What did the amendment to the Constitution of the United States, which changed the method of the election of he United States Senators do? It filled that great legislative body with Brookharts, Magnus Johnsons and Shipsteads and other lads who would never have been in that body if it had not been for that change in the Constitution. What did the 18th Amendment to the Constitution of the United States do? We gave Congress power to regulate intoxicating liquor and what did the Congress down there do? They immediately set in to regulate soft drinks and the courts, cowardly courts, have said "yes, they have the right." What did the 19th amendment do? Oh! we welcome the ladies into our ranks! I never have regretted the day they were enfranchised, but let us be perfectly fair and frank about the proposition. It has done much more harm to the home than it has been a help to the husband. And to-day we are asked to give Congress more power. This legislature says from now on we are going to retain the powers that the people of this great Commonwealth have lodged in us and before we send any more power to Washington the proposition must be as clear as the noon-day sun and things that we have attended to and about which there is no complaint in Pennsylvania and about which the Republican Party is with us, we will say better stay with us, we have more confidence in ourselves than in the Congress of the United States.

Mr. MacDADE. Mr. President, and fellow Senators, perhaps I ought not to say anything at this time, but I have been sitting over in the corner just thinking about what has been said on this floor by my friend from Allegheny, Mr. Barr. Now if there is any insinuation in those remarks that the Senators of this body have been influenced by any other consideration than fealty to duty, I regret, indeed, that the gentleman was sponsor for any such inference.

I know not that the National Manufacturers' Association or any other Association has used undue influence in order to change the opinion of any Senator in this body. You have read pro and con about this measure, and you have reached some conclusion as to how you are going to vote on this amendment.

When I can hark back to my early days, had there been such an amendment as this in force then, would I be sitting here to-day, honored as I have been, in your presence, as a Senator from that great district that I represent? If it had not been possible for me to go out and help swell the family funds by the serving of newspapers upon the streets, and by working in the factories, I could never have attained the position I now occupy.

It seems to me to be most rediculous that the United States Government, prompted by whatever considerations may have moved these good thinking people, to insert in that amendment that they should be able to prohibit the labor of persons—not children—persons under 18 years of age, when, as far as our laws are concerned, the school boys when they reach 14 years of age may go out and help a little bit to enable the family to remain upon its feet, and at 16 years of age, with certain prohibitions, they may go out and help eke out an existence for themselves.

What will become of our boys? How are we going to paternalize our boys under 18 years of age who are prohibited from performing any labor at all? Do we not see in the Juvenile Courts every evidence of juvenile deliquency increase, if this bill should become a law, if the amendment should pass, and Congress be given to power the labor of those under 18 years of age. Would it not place a premium on idleness and laziness? Look at the Supreme Court, the men sitting there, the highest Court in the State of Pennsylvania, one of whom I know personally served newspapers upon the streets of Chester long before he was 16 years of age. And yet there have been attempts in this Legislature to drive these boys off the streets and not permit them to serve and sell the newspapers that they carry under their arms. I know another boy on the Supreme Court bench who at 5 years of age went into the mines to eke out an existence in order that he might educate himself,—and willing to do it. Should we destroy all initiative in children in our land? I would not cast my vote against this amendment were it not that an injustice would be done to the families of this land.

What would have become of Abraham Lincoln, who has been referred to by my friend? The Federal Government said to that young man, "Boy, there is a ladder with its foot on the ground and the other end in the sky. Ascend!" And he did, until his heroic death placed him alongside of the immortal George Washington. There is a poor boy who would not have had a chance if there had been an amendment such as this.

Mr. BARR. Mr. President, may I clear the record once and for all? I do not understand why a Senator will impute to another Senator that which he did not say or convey. The second time it came from the Senator from Delaware Mr. MacDADE.

What I said, and I say it again, is that the influence used by the National Manufacturers Association and other Associations through propoganda, and I repeat that,—I do not see any reasons for any useless charges against another Senator, in twisting what he says, trying to get it into the record. And I do not think the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Salus, or the Senator from Delaware Mr. MacDADE, meant to impute to me what I did not say, and try to get it into the record, in order to twist it.

Mr. LESLIE. Mr. President, This is no attempt on my part to refute any statements made by the Senator from Allegheny, Mr. Barr, nor to refer to any statements he may have made; I only want to make reference to the position in Pennsylvania.

In the wisdom of the General Assembly, and of the Senate of this State we passed a compulsory education bill which provided that children up to the age of 16 years had to go to public school, and could not be taken in any occupation, which would divert their time and their minds from their studies; and all those who go to schools in Pennsylvania know this, the common school, known as the Ward School, graduates its pupils between the ages of 13 and 14 years. They go into the High Schools, the preparatory schools for higher collegiate education. They may have to leave after a period of a year and a half or two years. From the Commercial Course they go out into Secretaryships and other positions in offices. If their parents have the necessary income they may be trained for other, professional, lines.

That is the demarkation in the State of Pennsylvania,—16 years with a Public School education, and a High School education. Now let us divert our minds back to our youth; a good many of us did not get that, were unable to get it; but when you come to add two more years, that means two more years of labor on our families and two more years of indolence, perhaps on our youth. That is the only thing I wish to convey to you,—the youth and manhood. The young man is getting his strength, his mentality is at its pinnacle. The female is even farther advanced; her activities are greater and her achievements likewise. She grasps ideas more quickly, and she can go out into the field and make a better success at that age than the average boy.

But if you are going to drive Pennsylvania, and the Northern States, into an eighteen-year competition,—with no competition in the Southern States, with no competition any place else, only competition with organized labor,—then it is time for us to understand the situation.

I have no difference with the views of my friend with one exception; I do say this, that in his forcible way he exaggerates. When there is any propaganda, any power exercised to support the passage of this amendment known as the Twentieth Amendment to the Constitution of the United States, it does not require any power, it only requires common sence. Therefore, I will vote "No" when the roll is called.

Mr. BONBRAKE. Mr. President, the Senator from Allegheny seems to lay considerable stress on the fact that this is a child labor amendment, and yet, by its terms, it does not mention the word child; and very wisely, for the courts have held that the word child means a person under the age of 14 years. He has also said that Congress would not pass laws in conformity with the provisions in this amendment. I know of one man who can underwrite the Congress of the United States in this day and generation. We are told that we should be for this amendment, its adoption and ratification, because it is in keeping with the spirit of our age, because it is a progressive measure. Mr. President, as a people and as a nation and as Commonwealth we must not stand still. We must progress and we should be progressive, but let us temper our conceptions of new and untried powers with sanity. If all the idiotic ideas, the ill-conceived expressions, the irrational and immoderate theories and isms that are being advanced in our country to-day, some of them eminating from men as high in political life as United States Senators,—if all of these are in themselves progressive, or are evidence of progressiveness, then, Mr. President and gentlemen of the Senate of Pennsylvania, for the good of those who have the honor to represent it, for the salvation of our institutions, for the salvation of our rights as sovereign states and for the perpetuity of our nation's democracy, we had better be reactionary and go back to the sound, stable and substantial foundation builded wisely by our fathers in the days that are gone, and erect thereon again and anew the structure of the greatest and grandest example of an ideal democracy the world has ever known.

Mr President, I have the most profound respect for the many good and sincere but misguided and misinformed men and women of this land, who from the highest and loftiest motives are proponents of this amendment, and I regret that I cannot entertain that same sentiment for this acutely refined spirit, professional humanitarians, who are abnormally developed in one spot and subnormally developed in every other, who are acquainted with the conditions, who have full knowledge of the pernicious consequence which may follow the adoption of this amendment and who must be actuated either by an unevenly developed mentality or actuated in their support of this measure by the most ulterior and sinister motives. I can conceive of no righteous purpose the ratification of this amendment would serve and I can see, with the sweeping unlimited powers conferred upon Congress it might produce great social and economic harm, be a detriment and hinderance to the liberty loving, energetic boys and girls of this and future generations and an absolute menace to the public welfare.

Mr. President, and Senators of Pennsylvania, If you would guard your hearthstones and your sacred right to control your own homes without the supervision of centralized power, if you believe in local self government, if you would maintain and perpetuate the inherent rights of the sovereign states of your Union and if you would preserve the foundation stones of your liberties and democracy vote no on the ratification of this amendment.

Mr. HARRIS. Mr. President, may I prolong this discussion for just about a minute. While I voted to send this bill back to committee I think that the people who wanted a hearing should have had it, but since we were not successful in getting it, I do want to say that I thank God that I was not deprived of the opportunity to help my folks in my early life, and also to have had the opportunity to mix with people who have been a benefit to me all of my business life. It is my intention to vote no on this bill and I do hope that it will be defeated.

Mr. STITES. Mr. President, when I listened to the earnest speech of the Senator from Allegheny County, and he is always earnest in his remarks, I had a feeling of regret that his logic did not equal the earnestness which he put into his rhetoric. It is sometimes said that a man may be murdered in the house of his friends and it is equally true that legislation may be murdered in the house of its friend. The regrettable thing about this child labor amendment is that men who have worked and labored in the cause of child conservation for years and years, inside of legislative halls and out, are obliged to oppose this amendment because of its complete lack of common sense. I cannot conceal a feeling of irritation that the men who framed this amendment and put it through Congress put it in such form that those who have a sincere desire to do everything possible to serve the youth and manhood of the country must still oppose this amendment because it is lacking in the fundamental principles of sheer common sense. This amendment provides for not only the regulation but the actual prohibition of the labor of young men up to 18 years of age. With that idea in mind it ought not be called the child labor amendment at all, it ought to be called an amendment depriving the youth of the country of the opportunity which at times it is absolutely necessary for them to take hold of in the interest of themselves and their families. What possible excuse can there be for us to grant the power to the Congress of the United States to prevent a boy of seventeen and one-half or seventeen and three quarters years of age from working to support his family? I cannot find any justification that would call upon me to vote for such a proposition so that, no matter how earnestly I may desire to help to conserve the children of the nation, and I belive I can say I have the earnest desire in my heart; how many families are there throughout this great land of ours absolutely dependent upon the help and assistance of their children between 16 and 18 years of age? Now my good friend from Allegheny County says "Well even if you do give Congress this power they have not said that they will use it." Why give Congress power that you do not want them to use? It seems to me there is no answer to that question. It has been suggested here that the great President of the United States, Mr. Coolidge, is in favor of this amendment in its present form. I have not found anything at all on the records to justify that statement. The only thing President Coolidge has ever done has been to say he would like the question of child labor submitted to the voters of the country, and I will venture the suggestion now that if that hard headed son of New England sat in this Senate of Pennsylvania to-night he would oppose the proposition that meant that we should give power to Congress to prevent a boy seventeen and one-half years of age from helping in his family, and if I may take the vote of his own state, Massachusetts, I have justification upon that point, because this question was submitted in an open referendum to the people of Massachusetts and overwhelmingly defeated, as they should have done, in its present form.

Reference has been made to the women of the State of Pennsylvania, to the League of Women Voters, to the club women and so on. It is a matter of fact that many of the most public spirited earnest women in the State of Pennsylvania have gone on record as being opposed to this amendment and have so stated in the public press. The women of this state are united on this amendment because a large portion of the women of Pennsylvania realize that this amendment, as now written, lacks common sense and ought to be defeated and if we were confronted with the child labor amendment drafted along the lines of the splendid law on the statute books of Pennsylvania, most of the Senators here would support it, but we cannot conscientiously vote to support an amendment and to give power to Congress to legislate for us upon a subject which has in it neither logic, common sense, nor elemental fairness, and I am obliged to vote against this amendment to-night, because I feel that it does not represent the sober judgment of the country, expressed along conservative and proper lines, but it is a socialistic proposition that should have no place in our statute law. I might say again, to my friend, the Senator from Allegheny, when he says that in the future we shall see this amendment enacted into law, I will venture to say to him to-night that he will live a great many long years before he sees the people of the United States vote to give power to Congress prohibiting the labor of a boy up to 18 years of age.

Mr. BARR. Mr. President, I can not let go unchallenged the speech of the Senator from Franklin County, Mr. Bonbrake, when he made the remark that the people who were behind this amendment were either abnormal, subnormal or sinister in their purpose. I leave it to the Senators here present and to the Senator from Franklin County, Mr. Bonbrake, whether or not the following are either subnormal, abnormal or sinister. Here is a statement on the record and it also partly answers the Senator from Montgomery, Mr. Stites. President Coolidge recommended it and this is from the report of the Committee made before the House and before the Senate, recommended in a message to Congress and signed the resolution after Congress had voted favorably upon it. All of the three National political conventions inserted in their platforms planks endorsing the amendment. That is from the records of the hearings before the House and the Senate. The following bodies have declared in favor of the amendment, and these bodies must be either abnormal, subnormal or sinister. They are placed with idiots. The American Federation of Labor. You labor men are abnormal subnormal or sinister. American Federation of Teachers, abnormal, subnormal or sinister. American Home Economic Association, Commission of the Church and Social Service of the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ. That embraces every denomination, with the exception of the Catholic Church—abnormal, subnormal or sinister.

I will tell you what is going to stand out in blazen letters in the speech of the Senator from Franklin.

The Democratic National Convention, normal, subnormal or sinister. General Federation of Women's Clubs, Girls Friendly Society of America, National Child Labor Association, National Consumers League, National Council of Catholic Women, National Council of Jewish Women, National Council of the Mothers of Democracy, National Council of Parents and Teachers Association, National Council of Women, National Educational Association, National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, National League of Women Voters, National Women's Christian Temperance Union, National Women's Trade Union League, the Republican National Committee, the Service Star Legion, Young Women's Christian Association, Patriotic Order Sons of America, National Fraternal Congress, National Association of State and National Labor Organizations and many other local and state organizations. That is part of the list of those who are abnormal, subnormal or sinister, which will perhaps include the Senator from Allegheny who is speaking.

Mr. President, just to conclude, I would like to call the Chair's attention, and the attention of the Senate, to the fact that all the bodies opposed to this bill, this amendment before the Congress of the United States—and this is taken also from the record and if any Senators challenge it they will find it in the records; I will be very glad to submit it to them; National Association of Manufacturers, Pennsylvania Manufacturers Association, Southern Textile Bulletin, Modern League of Pennsylvania, Women's Constitutional League of Maryland—an organization with 50 active members, formed to oppose the Maternity and Infancy Act, the Womens Patriotic Publishing Company. That is what oppose these that are subnormal, abnormal or sinister.

Mr. President, I ask leave to print in full the remarks of Judge Remick in the joint debate with Dr. Metcalf, the head of the opposition in New Hampshire to the Child Labor Amendment.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

CHILD LABOR AMENDMENT

Remarks of Judge Remick in a Joint Debate with Dr. Metcalf, the Head of the Opposition in New Hampshire, At Pembroke, Wednesday Evening, January 21, 1925.

In the bitter discussion which has been going on so long over the Child Labor Amendment, I have had no part. Your committee will tell you that I refused to come here to parry and thrust with the head of the opposition in this state in a mere partisan way.

While others have been long on the battle front, writing and speaking for and against the amendment, I have been following the argument pro and con—trying, in a judicial spirit, to get at the truth of the matter.

When I have reached a conclusion by such a process of judicial sifting of the wheat from the chaff, I feel surer of the soundness of that conclusion than as if I had started, continued and finished a cocksure partisan on either side.

I have found to my sorrow that by looking only on one side of a question and combating those who look only on the other side, we are apt to lose sight of the north star of truth and justice, which, through all the shiftings and gropings of the human mind, and all the scramblings to and fro to keep on the winning side, never changes.

In the greatest crises in the nation's history, the greatest and best men, men who would scorn to chase the band-wagon, have been victims of such astigmatism.

For example: time has demonstrated that the Constitution of the United States is the greatest triumph in constructive statesmanship in the history of government, yet the great Patrick Henry and his colleagues opposed its adoption with a bitterness and ferocity of denunciation which, by comparison, makes the attacks now being made upon the proposed Child Labor Amendment and its champions seem mild, indeed. But the New Hampshire forefathers were not misled by the clamor. In spite of it they followed the north star of reason and duty, and in the old North Meeting House in Concord cast the deciding vote in favor of the adoption of the Constitution and thus gave to the world what Gladstone has termed "the most wonderful work ever struck off at a given time by the brain and purpose of man."

Time has also demonstrated that one of the greatest boons that ever came to the nation was the Louisiana Purchase, yet the great Chancellor Kent, from whose immortal commentaries I learned the principles of jurisprudence, opposed it as a revolutionary and subversive.

We find as we grow old that nothing in human affairs is the last word; that the perfection of society and civilization is a never-ending process; that in the march of human progress, Alps on Alps arise, and that eternal vigilance is the price of liberty.

So it was found that the wonderful Constitution which our fathers had framed was giving shelter to human slavery in this land of boasted liberty. When the agitation for its abolition began, the agitators were denounced as bitterly as Patrick Henry and his colleagues had denounced the authors of the Federal Constitution; as bitterly as Chancellor Kent denounced Jefferson for the Louisiana Purchase; as bitterly as the champions of the Child Labor Amendment are now being denounced. It was claimed that the sacred rights of the states and the very foundation of the Republic were threatened with destruction, but the familiar and practical philosophy of Lincoln: "The nation cannot endure half free and half slave"—"a house divided against itself cannot stand," finally prevailed, and the nation, at the cost of Civil War, wrote into the Constitution the 13th and 14th amendments, which struck the shackles from four million souls.

But under the Constitution as thus amended, millions were still in bondage. To use the words of Lincoln, "a greater bondage, a viler slavery, a greater tyranny,"—the bondage, slavery and tyranny of rum selling and rum drinking, which he said, "keeps our fathers, our brothers, our sons, and our friends in the chains of moral death." And he added, "when there shall be neither a slave nor drunkard on the earth, how nobly distinguished that people who have planted and nurtured to maturity, both the political and moral freedom of their species."

Moved by the vision, Lincoln challenged the institution of human slavery and fought it to the death. But for the assassin's bullet, it is probable that he would have sought to realize in full his youthful vision by grappling with that other monster which he had described as worse than slavery, but in the providence of God, the task was left for his posterity. One by one, individual states adopted prohibition, but their action was made well nigh futile by the inaction of other states. The need of uniformity and the backing of the Federal Government became more and more apparent and finally to meet the situation of a nation divided against itself, and secure national solidarity for a great principle vital to the nation's welfare, Congress proposed the 18th amendment to the Federal Constitution. As now a clamor was raised that it was unwarrantable interference with state rights and personal liberty. Great and good men took this position and denounced the proposition as Patrick Henry denounced the Federal Constitution and as Chancellor Kent denounced the Louisianna Purchase, but again the nation followed the north star of duty to humanity and wrote into the Constiution the 18th amendment, there to stand forever, side by side with the amendments abolishing slavery. Having put their hands to the plow, the American people are not going to make to the world the humiliating confession that they have not the moral stamina to carry through. It may take generations, but with such captains of industry as Judge Gary, head of the great United States Steel Corporation, and Henry Ford, and John D. Rockefeller, and with such statesmen as President Coolidge and Senator Borah and the Governor of our own state, united with the great body of christian men and women of America in support of the amendment, and with the statistics of saving banks telling their beneficiary story, and more than all with the God of righteousness on its side, it cannot fail. In spite of all the present clamor, defiance and contempt, the forces of righteousness and reason will finally prevail and then, in the words of Lincoln, it will be the proud distinction of America to "have planted and nurtured to maturity, both political and moral freedom," and to have been to the world the herald of that triumphant day, foretold by Lincoln, "when there shall be neither a slave nor a drunkard on earth."

But even after the amendments abolishing slavery and the saloon, millions still remained in bondage—millions of women, as worthy of self-government as men, remained in political servitude, ruled by officials they had no part in choosing and by laws they had no part in making. To remedy this obvious inequality and injustice, individual states granted full suffrage to women. But other states refused. Again in order to secure uniformity, national action was necessary. It was urged against it that it would undermine the home and subvert our institutions,—but undaunted by these alarms, the nation followed the north star of eternal justice and wrote into the Constitution the 19th amendment, there to stand forever, as a bulwark against the repeal of the 18th amendment and to safeguard our institutions against political corruption which was fast undermining the Republic.

I have not spoken of the bitter opposition to the adoption of the Federal Constitution and the Louisana Purchase and to the great amendments to which I have referred, in order to decry opposition to the pending Child Labor Amendment, but only to remind you of the resistance which has had to be overcome in the development of the Constitution and the progress of the nation and to show that it does not necessarily follow that a proposition is vicious and dangerous, merely because wise and honest men and women think so and fill the air with propaganda against it.

Just the same—amending the organic law of the Republic is serious business, so serious that in my judgment groundless opposition and false alarms are better than unquestioning acceptance, for they arrest the attention, compel careful scrutiny and thus safeguard against hasty and ill-advised action.

I agree entirely with the opposition that the Constitution is no place for mere legislation, but I can find nothing to warrant the alarm of the opposition on this score. While countless statutory changes, filling countless volumes, have been and are still being made, changes of the Constitution always have been and still are rare. From the adoption of the Federal Constitution in 1787 to date, nearly 140 years, there have been only 19 amendments, or an average of only one amendment in eight years. From the Civil War to date, a period of 65 years, there have been only seven amendments, or an average of only one in nine years. Considering that in the eternal change of things, amendments would of course be necessary to meet new conditions and preserve the life of the nation against new dangers; that the fathers provided in the Constitution for its amendment, and were themselves responsible for more amendments than we, their descendants, have made; and that the amendments which have been made in our day and generation have all been made in order to meet vital national needs requiring National uniformity. Considering all these things, the claim of the opposition that there is a dangerous tendency to multiply amendments of a local and legislative nature, is not, it would seem, warranted by the facts.

Dr. Metcalf will probably say that the question tonight is not whether some other amendment was good or bad, nor whether the opposition to some other amendment was right or wrong, but whether the proposed Child Labor Amendment is good or bad and whether the opposition to it is right or wrong. Very true, but in view of the cocksureness of the opponents of the amendment that it is vicious and dangerous, it was pertinent to remind them that to err is human; that Patrick Henry was wrong in opposing the adoption of the Federal Constitution, that Chancellor Kent was wrong in opposing the Louisiana Purchase, that Calhoun and Franklin Pierce and Daniel Webster were wrong on the slavery question; and that it is not impossible that the opponents of the Child Labor Amendment may also be wrong notwithstanding their supreme confidence. Anyway it was pertinent to show that the Federal Constitution and the amendments to which I have referred were adopted for the same reasons now urged in behalf of the Child Labor Amendment, namely, because National uniformity and solidarity were necessary to the accomplishment of the great and vital national objects sought by them.

However, I will now address myself specifically to the question whether the proposed Child Labor Amendment is good or bad whether the opposition to it is right or wrong. But I shall do so more in a spirit of investigation than in a spirit of confident assumption. Some facts of vital bearing are no longer open to discussion. One is that necessity for child labor regulation in some form and through some channel, state or national, in order that future generations may possess the mental and physical vigor upon which the welfare of democracy must depend was long ago recognized by the medical profession and enlightened society and governments. The evil and the need were brought painfully to my attention while performing the duties of a draft officer during the World War, by the startlingly high percentage of educational, mental, and physical defectives. As a result of public protest and agitation, nearly every state has done something to correct the evil, but the legislation of the several states is not uniform. Many states are without the provisions which have come to be recognized as the standard required for the public protection. As early as 1907 President Roosevelt said:

"States rights should be preserved when they mean the people's rights, but not when they are invoked to prevent the abolition of child labor—not when they stand for wrong or oppression of any kind or for national weakness or impotence at home or abroad. The States have shown that they have not the ability to curb the power of syndicated wealth and, therefore, in the interests of the people it must be done by national action." Accordingly, two Congresses by overwhelming majorities enacted laws to correct the evil. Senator Lodge in supporting these acts said:

"It is a great evil. The states have had ample and abundant opportunity to deal with it themselves. Most of the states have; some have not. I think it is something that ought to be ended."

President Wilson in signing these acts said:

"I sign with real emotion because I know how long the struggle has been to secure legislation of this sort and what it is going to mean to the health and vigor of this country, and also to the happiness of those whom it affects."

If the evil, and the need of national regulation to correct it, were so plain that two such relentless enemies as President Wilson and Senator Lodge could find no ground for disagreement, certainly there is no room for discussion between friends like Dr. Metcalf and myself over the fundamental questions whether the evil exists and whether National regulation to remedy it is desirable.

But the Acts of Congress recommended by Theodore Roosevelt, advocated by Senator Lodge, and signed by President Wilson were set aside by the majority of the Supreme Court not because they were deemed unnecessary or unwise, but only because it was found that the Constitution had not yet conferred upon Congress power to legislate upon the subject.

To meet this situation both President Harding and President Coolidge urged Congress in the strongest terms to submit a constitutional amendment, and following their recommendation the present Congress by more than the necessary two-thirds majority, submitted the pending amendment, which had the approval and was the product of conservative statesmen and jurists.

In the last Presidential election every political party—Republican, Democratic, and Progressive—endorsed the amendment in form and substance as submitted. In accepting his nomination President Coolidge said:

"Our different states have had different standards or no standards at all for child labor. The Congress should have authority to provide a uniform law applicable to the whole nation which will protect childhood that the men and women of tomorrow may reach a higher state of existence and the nation a higher standard of citizenship."

The candidates of the other parties were equally emphatic in favor of the proposed amendment. Calvin Coolidge was elected President and Captain Winant was elected Governor of New Hampshire and every member of the General Court of New Hampshire was elected upon party platforms intended to be understood by the people as an endorsement of the amendment and incapable of any other honest interpretation.

Therefore, entirely apart from the merits of the proposed amendment, is the question of fidelity to party pledges and principles, and loyalty to party leaders. As it seems to me this alone might well be decisive. But perhaps this thought on my part may be because I'm old-fashioned and have yet to be reconciled to the too prevalent idea that party platforms are merely to get in upon and impose no obligations of honor and good faith.

If you are a Republican read the National platforms of your party for the years 1916-1920 and 1924, and the speeches of your party candidates, and stand by them. If you are a Democrat, read your party platforms and stand by them. If you are a Progressive, read your party platform and stand by it—or stop scolding me for voting for my convictions regardless of any party—even the third party—and hereafter hold your peace about party government and party regularity.

I have told you the simple and truthful story of the occasion, origin, history and purpose of the amendment. According to that simple story it would seem, if we are guided by the north star of truth, that it originated in the same noble, humanitarian and patriotic spirit of which the Constitution itself and all its amendments were born. According to that simple story it would seem that the purpose of the amendment is to make Democracy more safe and enduring by protecting the youth of the nation from such kinds, conditions and hours of labor as interfere with the moral, educational and physical development needed by the future citizens of the republic.

Notwithstanding the apparently noble, humanitarian, and patriotic origin and purpose of the amendment the amazing claim is made by the opposition (and it seems to be their most fundamental claim) that the amendment is a cleverly concealed scheme of Socialists to Sovietize America.

That reputable manufacturers would make such a claim is strange enough, but that disinterested citizens like Dr. Metcalf and his colleagues could adopt and disseminate such a claim seemed incredible, and it was with personal regret that I dissovered two or three days ago while examining the files of the Concord Monitor preparing for this meeting that Dr. Metcalf had indeed swallowed that propaganda, hook, bob, and sinker. In a letter signed by him and published in the Monitor on December 8, last, he wrote:

"It is the purpose of Socialism to weaken our government by grafting on such legislation as this amendment provides and that is the great and underlying menace of the amendment. However cleverly it is masked in welfare phrases; however appealing the propaganda of child need, the underlying truth is hostility to our American principles of individual liberty and local self-government."

If it is true that the amendment is socialistic in origin and purpose then President Coolidge must be a Socialist, for he urged it upon Congress, approved the joint resolution submitting it in the very form in which it is now before the legislature, and strongly commended it in his speech accepting the Presidential nomination.

If it be true that the amendment is Socialistic then Presidents Roosevelt, Wilson, and Harding, and Senators Lodge and Pepper, who had so much to do in bringing it about, are Socialists.

If it me true that the amendment is Socialistic then Dean Pound, Dean Lewis, Dean Kirkwood, Dean Bates and other representatives of the great law schools of the nation to whom the amendment was submitted before it was adopted, and who approved it both in form and substance as it now stands, must be Socialists.

If the amendment is Socialistic then the members of all the countless patriotic, educational and religious organizations—Protestant, Catholic, and Jewish—who have endorsed the amendment are Socialists.

I am unwilling to believe that President Coolidge and Governor Winant and the hosts of other patriotic men and women in state and nation, who are supporting the amendment, are in a conspiracy to Bolshevize America. They are too conservative to knowingly further such a scheme, and too discerning to be misled by it.

I am unwilling to believe that an amendment which on its face appears to seek the highest welfare of the nation, as truly as did the amendments to abolish slavery and the saloon and to enfranchise women, is nothing but a Socialistic scheme to Sovietize America under the mask of child welfare.

The north star of truth does not point that way to me. Would it not be as fair to say that the manufacturers' associations, North and South, which are the stiff backbone and the inexhaustible bank of the opposition, are actuated by the selfish spirit of the slave masters of other days, and the boot-leggers of the present day. I am unwilling to believe, much less to express such an opinion of the opposition. It is enough for me to vindicate the amendment and its supporters from such vicious attacks by the opposition. This

I think I have done, as to the charge that the amendment is in origin and purpose Socialistic and Bolshevistic.

The Claim That the Amendment Prohibits All Boys and Girls From Doing Any Work, Even In the Home and in the Farm, Until They Are Eighteen Years of Age, Is Unwarranted and False.

The claim is further made that the amendment prohibits boys and girls from doing any work until they are eighteen years of age, whether about the home or on the farm, or in mines and factories and whether the work is such as to interfere with their educational, mental, moral and physical development, and impair their usefulness as future citizens, or on the contrary is health-giving, mind-improving, and character-building.

Guided by the north star of truth I can see no justification for such a claim.

Studying the origin and history of the amendment, I find its purpose is, as in all reason and common sense we should expect it to be, to make useful citizens and not loafers. And I tell you, as one who has been upon the court, that it is the business of courts to see that the real intent of the amendment is carried out, and that it is not put to absurd uses which defeat instead of promote its object.

This claim is so improbable and absurd that the wonder is that the manufacturers could make it—but greater wonder that any one else could accept and believe it, yet the fact is that it is too commonly accepted and believed. The Manchester Union, in a recent editorial said:

"It is the purpose to entirely prohibit labor for boys and girls until they are eighteen years of age—taking control of this important matter entirely out of the hands of parents."

When so reputable a newspaper accepts this claim as true and disseminates it through its editorial columns, it is not so strange that farmers and other honest people have come to believe it. The fact is the amendment neither prohibits nor regulates. It merely gives Congress power, within the age limit of 18, to prohibit and regulate when and as Congress shall find it necessary for the welfare of the nation. Because the power of Congress to legislate at all is limited to 18 years it is claimed that the purpose of the amendment is to entirely prohibit all labor within that limit. Nothing could be more disingenious. It would be as fair and true to say that because the Constitution gives the President and Senate unlimited power to make treaties, it was the purpose to authorize the cession of New Hampshire to Canada, or because the Constitution of New Hampshire gives the legislature power, in the most general terms, to make all needful laws and regulations for the government of the state, therefore, it was the purpose of the grant to authorize the legislature to do any unreasonable and arbitrary thing.

So far from imposing upon Congress the duty to prohibit all boys and girls from laboring at any kind of labor until they are eighteen years of age, Congress would not be obliged to legislate at all even if the amendment is adopted.

A few years ago New Hampshire adopted an Anti-Trust amendment to the Constitution, authorizing the legislature to make all needed laws to restrain trusts. There has been but little if any legislation under this amendment, perhaps because the amendment was there—a gun behind the door, so to speak. The Child Labor Amendment might work the same way. But if the states now delinquent should continue delinquent and Congress should find it necessary to legislate, let me say again as a lawyer and judge who has no partisan interest to misrepresent to you that the amendment would give Congress no authority to prohibit parents from requiring their children, subject to school attendance and reasonable relaxation, to be employed about some work which it could not be reasonably said would impair their future usefulness as citizens. And any attempt by Congress to compel parents to leave their children in demoralizing idleness, or the devil's workshop, would be null and void. However general the terms of its authority, no legislative body would be permitted to require or compel a citizen to submit to anything so unreasonable and arbitrary, and so contrary to child welfare and public welfare.

To illustrate the power of the courts to restrain unreasonable and arbitrary legislation, although enacted under general terms of authority—there was a law in New Hampshire making it a crime to shoot a mink during a certain season. The law was general. No exception was made—yet the Court ruled that it would be unconstitutional to punish a man for shooting a mink in the prohibited season in defense of his geese.

To further illustrate—there was a New Hampshire statute imposing a penalty upon a parent for keeping his child out of school, without permit, during the period in which the child was required by law to go to school. The law was general. There was no exception. Yet the Court held that it would be unconstitutional to impose the penalty upon the parents for keeping the child out of school, without a permit, if it were found that the health of the child reasonably required that he should be kept at home.

To further illustrate—the Constitution of the United States and the Constitution of New Hampshire confer (in the most general terms) upon Congress and the General Court, respectively, authority to make all needful rules and regulations concerning matters over which they, respectively, have jurisdiction, yet, it is established beyond any question that when either Congress or the General Court enacts a law, which unreasonably and arbitrarily interferes with the life, liberty and property of the citizen, the court will set aside such enactments—as would be the case if Congress attempted to prohibit a girl from helping her mother about the house, or a boy from helping his father on the farm, or from any work not inconsistent with the child's welfare, and the public welfare, but obviously in the interest of both.

But if Congress had authority to do such a fool thing, of course it would not. It did not in the two acts which were set aside by the Court. No supporter of the amendment, however wild-eyed, has asked anything of this sort or expects anything of the sort, and Congress and the President would be feeble-minded, indeed, to permit anything of the sort.

Since Congress could not if it would and would not if it could do such a thing, we are at a loss to understand why farmers should make common cause with the manufacturers against the proposed amendment. At a time when the new laws restricting immigration and the old laws against importing contract labor are increasing the need of manufacturers for boys and girls from the farms to make good the deficiency, I should suppose the farmer would be in favor of any policy which would have a tendency to keep their boys and girls from being drawn from the farms into shops and mines, provided, as I have assured you, that it would not condemn them to demoralizing idleness.

But it said: in the act of Congress referred to the limit was sixteen; why does the amendment made it eighteen? The answer seems plain. Because the former was an act of Congress and specifically declared, as it was bound to do, the will of Congress upon a concrete matter. The amendment on the other hand merely makes it constitutional for Congress to act at all on the subject of labor, and as the states already had authority up to twenty-one years of age, and were finding frequent occasions to exercise it for the protection of boys and girls of eighteen years of age and upward in cases of extra hazardous employment, excessive hours, night work, and demoralizing environments, so the amendment gave to Congress the same latitude to meet the same exceptional situations, and not at all with the absurd idea claimed by the manufacturers and repeated by the Manchester Union, that all boys and girls until they are eighteen should be prohibited from all labor in the home and on farms as well as in workshops and mines, and from labor which involves no danger, detriment or demoralization, but is upbuilding in health, mind and character, as well as labor of the opposite kind.

But it is further asked: if it was not the purpose of the amendment to absolutely prohibit all labor under eighteen—including girls at home, and boys on the farm, as well as others—why were the latter not excepted from the amendment as requested? The reason is plain. Constitutional grants of legislative power should be general and elastic. To specify how and when and against whom the power shall and shall not be exercised would require impossible foresight, and any attempt to do so might defeat the purpose of the power in situations not anticipated at the time it was granted A statute may be readily changed to meet any new situation, but the Constitution cannot; so it has long been the policy to make constitutional grants of legislative power general and elastic, leaving the Congress or legislature to adapt its laws to changing needs so as to best promote the objects for which the power was granted.

No worthy citizen, be he farmer or what, would I am sure, want any exemption which would leave the unworthy of his own or any other class free to abuse the exemption, defeat the humane purpose of the amendment and make it open to the objection of class legislation. The exemption of farmers or any other class from the reasonable operation of the general terms of the amendment would have been open to that objection and the wise and conservative men who drafted it decline to make any such exemption.

Obviously, the allied Southern and Northern Manufacturers' Associations and their counsel have cleverly sought to divide those who toil upon the farm from those who toil in mines and factories. Bitterly oppose to the amendment themselves, because it is directed against them, as the former Acts of Congress were and as, of course, any further Acts of Congress would be, they have sought to divert attention from themselves and their delinquencies—the real objects of the amendment—by the unwarranted and false propaganda that the amendment aims also at the farmers and would prohibit every farmer's boy and girl from doing any work, even at home and on the farms, until they are eighteen years of age. The pity is that such a smoke-screen should have deceived so many honest farmers. The pity is that those who earn their bread in the sweat of their brow on farms and in workshops should be so divided when they might be such a power for the uplift of the nation if they would only work together in the spirit of the Carpenter of Galilee and the railsplitter of Iillinois, as I believe they might, if they would strive, always and on all subjects, to follow the north star of truth and justice, regardless of mischievous propaganda, instigated by selfish interests, to divide them.

The Claim That Under the General Terms of the Amendment, Congress Could Legislate Concerning the Religion of Boys and Girls and Where They Should Go To School Is Wholly Without Any Foundation and Contrary To the Fact.

It has been further claimed by the opposition that under the general terms of the amendment, Congress could legislate concerning the religion of boys and girls and where they should go to school. But the amendment gives Congress no power over anything but labor. Religion and education are matters not covered either expressly or by implication, and are therefore excluded upon well established principles of constitutional construction. Matters of religion and education will continue as they now are subject to the great principles of civil and religious liberty upon which the republic was founded. This claim of the opposition is so unwarranted and groundless that I will take no further time in discussing it, beyond calling attention to the fact that the Pope in his encyclicals has approved of the general principle of governmental regulation of Child Labor; that Father Ryan, Professor of Moral Theology and Industrial Ethics at the great Catholic University of America, located at the Capitol of the Nation, assisted in drafting the Amendment, and is one of its most ardent supporters; and to further fact that among the numerous organizations of American women who have endorsed the amendment—Protestant, Catholic, and Jewish is the National Council of Catholic Women of America.

The Claim That the Amendment Would Impair the Right of the States To Protect Child Labor Is Absolutely Groundless.

It is further claimed that the amendment would impair the right of the states to regulate child labor and impose upon them intolerable bureaucratic interference from Washington; on the contrary, the rights of the states to regulate child labor are expressly reserved by the amendment.

No conflict arose between State and Nation while the two acts of Congress were in operation. On the contrary, the Chief of the National Bureau of Labor made use, almost entirely, of state agencies and the co-operation was harmonious and effective without any of the objectionable bureaucratic intrusion or bureaucratic expense, which has been held up as such a bogie. So satisfactory and efficient was the co-operation that the State labor officials have endorsed the National Child Labor Amendment.

Bearing upon the argument against state interference it is worthy of note that the manufacturers in several states have opposed raising the standards of child labor by state law upon the ground that regulation should be made uniform by means of national legislation. The Amoskeag Corporation, while opposing a State 48-hour law, has declared for a National 48-hour law. In view of such a shuttle-cock and battle-dore, tweedle-dum and tweedle-dee attitude on the part of the manufacturers as between Federal and State regulation their objection to the pending amendment on the ground that it interferes with the states would seem not entitled to serious consideration.

The Claim that the States Have Already Corrected the Evil, By Their Voluntary Action, and That There Is No Present Need of National Action Is Contrary To the Facts.

It is further claimed that the amendment is unnecessary because delinquent states have so responded to the public demand for higher standards and made such improvement that there is no longer any real occasion for national legislation.

It is true that while the Acts of Congress were in effect such was their beneficient influence that delinquent states improved their laws and the percentage of objectionable child labor was reduced, but even at the best only 18 states are fully up to the standard set by the Acts of Congress.

Since the Acts of Congress were declared unconstitutional and their salutary influence was removed, the tide has set the other way, and the percentage of objectionable child labor is now increasing. With the labor restricted by the new immigration laws, and by the old laws against importing contract labor, and the resulting increased demand for child labor, I do not like to contemplate what the result will be if the pending Child Labor Amendment goes down before that world-wide reaction against progressive ideals of social justice, which is making even the Hohenzollern dynasty hopeful of early restoration. The defeat of the Child Labor Amendment is sure to be accepted by employers of child labor as a reversal of public sentiment on the subject and, in the nature of things, they will govern themselves accordingly.

Admitting the evil, Dr. Metcalf contends that it is now very limited, rapidly diminishing and that in ten years the states will have entirely corrected it by their own voluntary action. Against this wholly unwarrantable optimism, I quote the following from the January, 1925, number of the Review of Reviews, by Raymond G. Fuller, the highest authority in this country upon the child labor amendment, and author of the standard text-book on the subject entitled "Child Labor and the Constitution:"

"We do not know the present number of wage-workers under fourteen, or under sixteen, but we do know that there is no adequate or nation-wide protection against the exploitation of more when and where conditions favor. In any case, the thousands today mean more thousands next year, and in the course of a decade an appealing total; for child labor is a continuous process, a constant procession. * * * * * * * * * During the period of Federal law and administration, extending, with an intermission, from 1917 to 1922 a number of the very backward States, freed of the competition of neighboring States with low standard child-labor laws, made remarkable progress in raising their own legal standards of child protection. But whatever hope we may have entertained that the other very backward States would go and do likewise has been disappointed by the legislative record of 1923 and 1924. Federal laws and administration had come to an end, and seemed likely to stay at an end indefinitely. So we still have States that are willing, or feel constrained, to subsidize their industries with child labor of a gross and shameful sort that is no longer tolerated elsewhere in this country, while States that now have decent or more than decent legal standards are finding increased difficulty in enforcing their own child-labor laws. The existence of Federal law and administration helped the States to live up to those professions of good will toward children which they had written into their statutes."

Result of Massachusetts Referendum Unfair and Misleading and Contrary to Recommendations of President Coolidge and Massachusetts Legislature.

In a referendum confused not only by all the false propaganda to which I have referred and more, but also by the distractions and cross-currents of a state and national political campaign, the people of Massachusetts voted against the Child Labor Amendment by a large majority. Those who styled themselves "The Sentinels of the Constitution," and who had always been tenacious of representative government and bitterly opposed to the referendum idea, saw the strategic and psychological importance of a popular vote against the amendment, in advance of the nation-wide campaign for its ratification, and especially in the home state of the President, who had stood before the country as the foremost champion of the amendment, and they very cleverly made the most of the distracting and complex political situation by employing every resource, resorting to every kind of propaganda, and playing upon every prejudice, and so succeeded in getting a popular vote against it, although the legislature of Massachusetts had previously recommended it. If the amendment fails, no factor will be more responsible than that advance referendum,— heralded throughout the nation as the deliberate voice of the people.

But not every legislature was deceived by it. Only a few days ago, California sent word across the continent to New Hampshire that her legislature had ratified and with only a handful of dissenting votes. Shall we of the Granite State be misled by false propaganda or shall we follow the north star of truth as our forefathers did in the Old North Meeting House at Concord, where they cast the deciding vote for the Federal Constitution, and send back across our far-flung empire, to the Golden Gate the greeting that we, too, have ratified, thus binding the Atlantic and Pacific together for Child Labor Amendment?

Mr. BONBRAKE. Mr. President, my colleague from Allegheny County, Mr. Barr, seems to have been rather successful in carrying out the same attributes that he charged to the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Salus, but a few monments ago. He has either willingly misquoted me and the record I am sure will show he has, and I will stand on the record. I am willing enough and glad enough and charitable enough to place the Senator from Allegheny County not in those abnormal or subnormal or those sinister classes, but in the class who is misinformed and misguided in his judgment.

Mr. STEELE. Mr. President, I realize there has been a wide difference of honest opinion in respect to this bill. I was one of those who voted to recommit because I am personally always glad to welcome the greatest degree of information that can be given in respect to any subject.

However, I feel that the bill, as it stands, would be an injustice to the young people of our state and country. As one of those who has been privileged to have been engaged in labor under the age limit in this bill I do not want to deny the young men and young women of this generation the privileges which I have enjoyed. Aside from this, we are here to represent, not only our personal opinion, but we are here to represent as well and more largely, the opinions and wishes of those who live back in our districts and who are affected by the legislation here enacted and in the expressions that have come to me from the people of my district, some of which were from various organizations of women and various organizations of men and others from organizations of both men and women, I want to say that the great majority of expressions of opinion that has come to me from people of my district has been in opposition to this amendment. In casting my vote upon this question it will be made up quite as much from the representation of the opinion in my district as it will from my personal opinion. I will have to oppose the amendment.

And the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were read as follows, viz:

YEAS—4

Barr,	Betts,	Davis,	Gelder,

NAYS—43

Aron,	Einstein,	Lanius,	Quigley,
Baldwin,	Freeman,	Leslie,	Salus,
Baumer,	Griswold,	MacDade,	Schantz,
Bonbrake,	Harris,	Mansfield,	Snyder,
Brown,	Heaton,	McNichol,	Sones,
Buckman,	Homsher,	Miller,	Steele,

Daix,	Joyce,	Norton,	Vare,
Derrick,	Krause,	Painter,	Weingartner,
DeWitt,	Kunkle,	Patton,	Woodward,
Earnest,	Kutz,	Phipps,

Less than a majority of all the Senators having voted "aye" the question was determined in the negative.

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania,
Governor's Office, Harrisburg, February 11, 1925.

To the Honorable, the House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Ladies and Gentlemen: I have the honor to inform you that I have this day approved and signed a resolution of the House and Senate requesting and urging the Secretary of War to allocate for the improvement of the Allegheny River, as authorized by law, an amount from the lump sum appropriated by the Sixty-eighth Congress for the improvement of rivers and harbors sufficient to complete Dams Nos. 4 and 5 of the said river and to make additional allocations from year to year until the project for the improvement of the river as adopted by Congress shall be completed.

GIFFORD PINCHOT.

COMMUNICATION FROM THE GOVERNOR.

The Secretary to the Governor being introduced, presented a communication in writing from His Excellency the Governor, which was read as follows:

Commonwealth of Pennsylvania,
Governor's Office, Harrisburg, February 16, 1925.

To the Honorable, the House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Ladies and Gentlemen: If it meets with the approval of the General Assembly I should like to address the members in joint session on Tuesday, February seventeenth, nineteen hundred and twenty-five, at twelve o'clock noon.

If for any reason this cannot be conveniently arranged, I would be glad to address you at some other time.

GIFFORD PINCHOT.

PETITIONS.

WITH REFERENCE TO THE IMPEACHMENT OF HON. JOHN A. BERKEY.

The SPEAKER laid before the House ten petitions of citizens of Somerset County requesting an investigation of the conduct of Hon. John A. Berkey, Judge of the Courts of Somerset County, and the institution of impeachment proceedings if deemed justified.

The SPEAKER. These petitions are referred to the Committee on Judiciary General.

APPOINTMENT OF COMMITTEE TO STUDY METHOD OF PRINTING LEGISLATIVE BILLS AND RESOTIONS.

The SPEAKER. Relative to the concurrent resolution of January 27, 1925, passed by the Senate and the House that a Committee be appointed for the purpose of studying the prevailing method of printing and filing bills and resolutions, etc., the Speaker appoints the following Committee on behalf of the House to confer with a similar Committee appointed by the Senate—the gentleman from Armstrong, Mr. Himes, and the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Goss.

RESOLUTION

RELATIVE TO REQUEST OF THE GOVERNOR TO ADDRESS GENERAL ASSEMBLY.

Mr. CONNOR offered the following resolution which was twice read, considered and adopted:

In the House of Representatives, February 16, 1925.

Whereas, His Excellency, the Governor of the Commonwealth has, by message of February sixteenth, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-five advised the Senate and House of Representatives of the General Assembly, of his desire to address the Members thereof in joint session on Tuesday, February seventeenth, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-five, at twelve o'clock noon, therefore be it

Resolved, (if the Senate concur), That the Senators and Members of the House of Representatives are pleased to comply with the request of His Excellency, and will meet in joint session for that purpose at the time requested in said message, and be it further

Resolved, That a committee of two Senators to be appointed by the President pro tempore of the Senate and two Members of the House of Representatives to be appointed by the Speaker of the House of Representatives shall wait upon the Governor and advise him of the passage of this resolution and of their readiness to hear any message he may desire to deliver.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

APPOINTMENT OF COMMITTEE

The Chair appoints as a committee on the part of the House to wait upon the Governor, the gentleman from Philadelphia, Mr. Conner and the gentleman from Lawrence, Mr. Moffatt.

RESOLUTION GRANTING THE USE OF THE HALL OF THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

O'Ryan of New York City, and J. E. B. Cunningham of Harrisburg, therefore be it

Resolved, That permission is hereby granted by the House of Representatives to the said joint committee to use the said Hall of the House of Representatives on Saturday evening, February twenty-first, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-five, at eight-thirty o'clock, for the purpose of holding a World's Court Mass Meeting.

RESOLUTION NO. 1.

Mr. SHAFFER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to call up at this time Resolution No. 1, file folio No. 929.

The resolution was read by the Clerk as follows:

Resolved, That the Committee on the Judiciary General be and is hereby authorized to inquire into and concerning the official conduct of the Honorable John A. Berkey Judge of the several Courts of the Sixteenth Judicial District of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania comprising the County of Somerset touching his conduct in regard to matters mentioned in various petitions which have been presented to the House and especially whether the said Judge has been guilty of any impeachable offense and to report to the House the conclusions of the Committee in respect thereto with their appropriate recommendation

Resolved further That the Committee on the Judiciary General is hereby authorized and empowered to send for persons and papers to subpoena witnesses to administer oaths to said witnesses to take testimony to employ a clerk stenographer or stenographers agents investigators and attorneys if necessary and to appoint a sub-committee from among their number by appointment of the chairman thereof whenever it may be necessary or expedient to take testimony for the use of the said committee And the said sub-committee while so employed shall have the same powers in respect to obtaining testimony as are herein given to said committee on the Judiciary General with a sergeant at arms by himself or deputy who shall serve the process of said Committee and sub-committee and execute its orders and shall attend the sittings of the same as ordered and directed thereby and the speaker of the House shall have authority to sign and the Clerk to attest subpoenas for any witness or witnesses and the expenses of this investigation shall be paid out of the contingent fund of the House

On the question,

Will the House agree to the Resolution?

Mr. SHAFFER. Mr. Speaker, I offer the following amendment.

The SPEAKER. The amendment will be read by the Clerk.

The amendment was read by the Clerk as follows:

Amend page 2, line 4, by striking out the word "sargeant" and inserting in lieu thereof "sergeant."

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendment?

It was agreed to.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the Resolution?

RESOLUTION REFERRED TO COMMITTEE.

Mr. SOWERS. Mr. Speaker, on all impeachment proceedings it has always been customary to have resolutions of this kind, as well as all other petitions, referred to committee, and then have the committee consider them and have the committee request power.

Therefore, I move that this Resolution be referred to the Committee on Judiciary General for consideration and report to the House.

Mr. STADTLANDER. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the motion?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. Heffran and Mr. Rhodes and were as follows:

It was agreed to.

Ordered, That the bill as amended lie over for printing.

PROTESTING AGAINST TAXATION ON PROPERTY TRANSFER BY THE FEDERAL GOVERNMENT.

Mr. EDMONDS asked and received unanimous consent to offer the following resolution which was twice read and laid over under the rules:

In the House of Representatives, February 16, 1925.

Concurrent Resolution.

Whereas, The Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in 1826 inaugurated the practice of providing needed revenue for the State by taxation of inheritances,

And Whereas, This practice has been followed by the vast majority of the States of the Union, so that inheritance taxes have become a necessary and important feature of the fiscal system of the States,

And Whereas, The Federal Government in the past has only entered the field of the inheritance taxation in war time as an emergency measure,

And Whereas, The recently increased rates of the Federal Estate Tax will materially affect State revenues in the future even more seriously than they have in the past,

And Whereas, The increasing financial burden upon State Governments make it necessary to conserve every logical source of revenue

Therefore, if the Senate concur, be it resolved that, in the judgment of the General Assembly, taxes on the transfer of property by inheritance should be reserved to the State Government, and that the Federal Government should now withdraw from this field and leave to the States exclusively this much needed source of revenue.

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be sent to the Senators and Representatives from Pennsylvania in the Congress of the United States.

ADJOURNMENT.

Mr. TALBOT. Mr. Speaker, I move that this House do now adjourn until tomorrow morning at 11:00 o'clock.

The motion was agreed to, and (at 10:40 o'clock P. M.) the House adjourned until tomorrow morning at 11:00 o'clock.

Legislative Journal.

Vol. 8. HARRISBURG, PA., TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 17, 1925. No. 13.

SENATE

TUESDAY, February 17th, 1925.

The Senate met at 11:00 o'clock A. M.

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant-Governor David J. Davis) in the Chair.

The Chaplain, Rev. Edward S. Ninde, offered the followiug prayer:

Almighty God: We thank Thee for this great Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, for its long and honorable history and for all the sacred memories associated with the passing years. We thank Thee for our mountains and valleys, for our lakes and rivers, and for our natural resources in mine and field. But especially do we praise Thee for the men and women of Pennsylvania, and for the fine ancestral stock from which they sprang. Thou hast given to us a place of leadership in the family of American States. Forbid that we should despise our birthright, but may we set a pace in high patriotic endeavor which the whole country may be inspired to follow.

Bless our Legislature, especially the members of this distinguished body, and may they follow Thee as Thou shalt show the way.

We ask it in the name of Jesus Christ. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED.

The PRESIDENT. A quorum of the Senate being present the Clerk will read the Journal of the preceding session.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of the preceding session, when, on motion of Mr. SCHANTZ, the further reading was dispensed with, and the Journal was approved.

LEAVES OF ABSENCE.

Mrs. VARE asked and obtained leave of absence for the Senator from Allegheny, Mr. Leslie.

HOUSE MESSAGES.

RESOLUTION RELATIVE TO TAXES ON THE TRANSFER OF PROPERTY BY INHERITANCE.

The Clerk of the House of Representatives being introduced, presented extract from the Journal of the House of Representatives, which was twice read as follows:

Whereas the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in one thousand eight hundred and twenty-six inaugurated the practice of providing needed revenue for the State by taxation of inheritances and

Whereas This practice has been followed by the vast majority of the States of the Union so that inheritance taxes have become a necessary and important feature of the fiscal system of the States and

Whereas The Federal Government in the past has only entered the field of the inheritance taxation in war time as an emergency measure and

Whereas The recently increased rates of the Federal Estate Tax will materially affect State revenues in the future even more seriously than they have in the past and

Whereas The increasing financial burden upon State Governments makes it necessary to conserve every logical source of revenue

Therefore if the Senate concur be it resolved that in the judgment of the General Assembly taxes on the transfer of property by inheritance should be reserved to the State Government and that the Federal Government should now withdraw from this field and leave to the States exclusively this much needed source of revenue

Resolved That a copy of this resolution be sent to the Senators and Representatives from Pennsylvania in the Congress of the United States

Mr. SCHANTZ. Mr. President, I move that Rule 39, which requires concurrent resolutions to be referred to an appropriate committee be suspended and that the Senate do now proceed to the immediate consideration of the resolution just read.

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the resolution?

It was agreed to.

Ordered, That the Clerk inform the House of Representatives accordingly.

BILLS RECOMMITTED.

Mr. MILLER. Mr. President, this is rather an important bill and some of the Senators would like to have more time to consider it, and possibly get some word from some of their constituents concerning it, and therefore, I move that Senate Bill No. 162 on third reading, entitled:

An Act for the protection of the public health prescribing sanitary regulations and standards for tenement lodging and boarding houses in cities of the second and third class boroughs towns and townships vesting jurisdiction for the enforcement of the same in the Department of Health of Pennsylvania and in Boards of Health of Municipalities providing penal and injunction proceedings for the enforcement of this act and repealing acts inconsistent herewith be recommitted to the Committee on Public Health and Sanitation.

Mr. SCHANTZ. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

Mr. JOYCE. Mr. President, I move that Senate Bill No. 190, on third reading entitled:

An Act regulating the selection, drawing, summoning, and serving of all jurors in the several courts in counties of the third class; abolishing the office of jury commissioner; abrogating the duties of sheriff in connection with jurors; vesting in the judges of the common pleas the exclusive function of selection, drawing, and regulation, with power to provide, at the cost of the county, the necessary clerical assistance and materials and equipment.

be recommitted to the Committee on Judiciary General.

Mr. KUNKLE. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

BILLS ON THIRD READING AND FINAL PASSAGE.

Agreeably to order,

The Senate resumed the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 305, (House Bill No. 220), entitled:

A Supplement to the act approved the twenty-fourth day of May one thousand nine hundred and seventeen (Pamphlet Laws two hundred and ninety-seven) entitled "An Act authorizing the establishment of contagious disease hospitals in the several counties of the Commonwealth to be constructed and maintained out of county funds" providing for the establishment and maintenance of contagious disease hospitals by two or more counties jointly

SENATE BILL No. 12 DROPPED FROM CALENDAR.

Mr. DAVIS. Mr. President, I move that Senate Bill No. 12, on second reading, entitled:

An Act providing for the merging of moneys held in certain special funds in the State Treasury with moneys in the general fund providing for the use of all moneys in the general fund for the payment of appropriations and for the payment from the general fund of moneys appropriated and dedicated for special purposes be dropped from the Calendar.

Mr. PHIPPS. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. DAVIS. Mr. President, it is not my intention to be discourteous to the sponsor of this bill, who is the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Woodward, but the consensus of opinion of the Senate seems to be that this is a very vicious bill and it seems as though the bill would be defeated if it comes up for action.

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, this bill, Senate Bill No. 12, merges special funds, which passed the last session of the Legislature and was vetoed by the Governor. Two years ago there were twenty-five of these funds and today there are thirty-three, and the question is, how many more there will be. We approved a bill this morning in the Committee on Judiciary General creating another one. The bill is too important, I think, to be treated in this summary fashion. I think the bill ought to be allowed to go on third reading and be debated and voted either up or down. I hope there will be enough Senators to vote against this motion so as to give it a fair showing on third reading.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to motion?

The yeas and nays were required by Mr. WOODWARD and Mr. BUCKMAN, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—27.

Baldwin,	Derrick,	Krause,	Norton,
Betts,	DeWitt,	Kunkle,	Phipps,

So the question was determined in the affirmative.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE.

Mr. SCHANTZ. Mr. President, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Lehigh, Mr. Schantz, will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. SCHANTZ. Mr. President, I know that the bill has been dropped from the Calendar and any discussion of it would be out of order, but I want to just say a word on this bill. The last session we passed a similar bill and it was vetoed by the Governor. I cannot help but feel that there is a great amount of misapprehension as to the purport of the bill. Educational measures should be taken in regard to this matter and I honestly do believe that the passage of a bill of this kind would solve the financial ills of the Commonwealth.

BILLS ON SECOND READING.

Agreeably to order,

The rule requiring bills to be considered in Committee of the Whole being in this case dispensed with,

The Senate proceeded to the second reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 160, as follows:

An Act authorizing local boards of health of cities of the third-class boroughs and first-class townships of the Commonwealth to organize county health associations providing for the representation of such county associations in a State Association to be formed by representatives from such county health associations and providing for the payment of the expenses of county and State associations

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That the several local boards of health of cities of the third-class boroughs and first-class townships of the Commonwealth now or hereafter incorporated are hereby authorized and empowered to organize county health associations for the purpose of holding meetings at such times and places within the county as such county associations

may designate for the purpose of advancing the various health interests of said third-class cities boroughs and first-class townships promote remedial legislation and discuss any and all topics relating to the health and conduct of their respective municipalities and providing for the enforcement and economical method of administering health legislation

Section 2 Cities of the third-class boroughs and first-class townships boards of health may by resolution designate one delegate to attend such meetings of the county health association The said boards of health of the several counties joining said county health association shall pay as dues to such county health association a sum not exceeding five dollars ($5.00) per annum The actual expenses of such delegate attending meetings of said county health association including traveling expenses and hotel bills actually paid shall be paid by the various boards of health of the said third-class cities boroughs and first-class townships by orders drawn upon their respective treasuries

Section 3 Each county health association is hereby authorized to elect one delegate to attend the annual meeting of the Pennsylvania Public Health Association to be held at such time and place within the Commonwealth as said Pennsylvania Public Health Association may designate

The actual expenses of such delegate attending the meeting of the Pennsylvania Public Health Association including traveling expenses and hotel bills actually paid shall upon approval of such bill be paid by the several county health associations

And said bill having been read at length the second time, and agreed to,

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

Agreeably to order,

The rule requiring bills to be considered in Committee of the Whole being in this case dispensed with,

The Senate proceeded to the second reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 175, as follows:

An Act relating to township roads prescribing the time within which approved township roads must be physically opened invalidating proceedings for opening of roads unopened within the prescribed time and providing for the reversion of any land proposed to be taken therefor

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That whenever proceedings have been heretofore or may hereafter be begun in any court of quarter sessions of this Commonwealth for the opening and laying out of any public road in any township in this Commonwealth such public road shall be physically opened upon the ground for use by the public within the period of five years next after the entry of the final decree confirming said road and not thereafter

Section 2 In the event that the proceeding for the opening and laying out of a public road referred to in the preceding section shall have been completed and a final decree confirming said road shall have been made and such proposed road shall not have been physically opened upon the ground and shall have remained or shall remain unopened to public use for a continuous period of five years next after the entry of the final decree confirming said road then such proceedings shall be deemed to be void and of no effect on the land proposed to be taken shall revert to the owners of the land as in the case of the vacation of a public road free of any easement or right of the public to use the same Provided that in all proceedings heretofore had and in which the final decree shall have been made for a period of four years and upwards prior to the passage of this act then in that case the proceedings shall not be deemed void after a period of one year from the approval hereof

And said bill having been read at length the second time, and agreed to,

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

Agreeably to order,

The rule requiring bills to be considered in Committee of the Whole being in this case dispensed with,

The Senate proceeded to the second reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 276, as follows:

An Act providing for the granting renewing and revocation by the Public Service Commission of certificates of public convenience to operate vehicles for the carriage of passengers

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That it shall be the duty of the Public Service Commission upon application in the manner provided by law to issue certificates of public convenience to operate vehicles as carriers of passengers whenever by testimony produced before the Commission it appears that no service for the carriage of passengers is then being operated along the said proposed route or that the service if any then operating is in any respect inadequate The petition of a majority of the residents along any existing or proposed route stating that there is then no service or that the existing service is in any respect inadequate shall be conclusive of said fact and upon the filing of any such petition the Public Service Commission shall forthwith grant to any applicants who have complied with the laws of the Commonwealth certificates of public convenience for such facilities as in said petition shall be set forth as being necessary

If any person copartnership or corporation to whom or to which a certificate of public convenience has been granted to operate any vehicle or vehicles for the carriage of passengers shall fail or neglect to operate said service fully within a reasonable time as fixed by the Public Service Commission it shall be the duty of the Commission to forthwith revoke said certificate and grant certificates to any other applicants who have complied with the laws of the Commonwealth and who will agree to provide adequate service

Whenever a certificate of public convenience has been granted to any person copartnership or corporation for the operation of any vehicle or vehicles for the carriage of passengers such certificates shall be renewed from year to year so long as the person copartnership or corporation renders adequate service in accordance with his certificate and otherwise complies with the laws of the Commonwealth

Section 2 All acts and parts of acts inconsistent with this act are hereby repealed

And said bill having been read at length the second time and agreed to,

Ordered, To be transcribed for a third reading.

BILL ON FINAL PASSAGE POSTPONED FOR THE PRESENT.

Mr. MacDADE. Mr. President, I move that the Senate do now resume the consideration of Senate Bill No. 19, on final passage, postponed for the present, entitled:

An Act making incurable insanity a cause for divorce and providing procedure in such cases.

Mr. CULBERTSON. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

And the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. MacDADE. Mr. President, we all know that the bill under consideration was voted on at a prior session, and although the number in the Senate was somewhat large the bill received 23 votes, lacking, of course, of a constitutional majority of 26. I believe that perhaps some of the Senators who voted against this bill misapprehended the situation and I feel that I ought to call the bill to your attention at this time for further consideration, and say that this is not a bill which permits parties to institute proceedings for divorce on the ground of insanity or unsound mind, but this refers to an incurable insanity, properly proved in court, either before a master, or a jury, or the court. There must be a case of incurable insanity for a period of ten years and as far as the rights of the litigants are concerned, the person who was so unfortunate as to be afflicted in this manner, there is a clause in this bill which gives the court the authority to award alimony for the support or maintenance, whatever you may call it, according to the circumstances as they may develop in the trial of that particular case, so that both sides are protected and they will not become a public charge.

When it comes to a question of the service of the subpoena, it is already the law that notice should be given the party defendant and also that there should be raised in the court trying the case a guardian an item under an Act of Assembly which was prepared and presented to this Legislature some time since by that distinguished gentleman who presides over the courts of Delaware County, who was then President of the Board of Public Charities, Judge Johnson, and that a committee must be appointed and that service of the subpoena must be made upon the committee as well, and that a committee comes into court to protect the rights of the defendant, and there must be proof submitted to the court, even when a master passes upon the case, or a jury.

The court must give its consent before a final decree can be signed either dismissing the case or granting the divorce. So I cannot see that there can be any objection to this bill at all on the ground of incurable insanity when it must be determined in the case that the person has had insanity of an incurable nature for a period of ten years, and besides you may know that we regret the incident our sweethearts should be so afflicted and it touches our heartstring, yet those conditions are beyond the control of the other party to the contract and, therefore, there is no relation existing in order to permit that happy condition in the home life. So far as property is concerned, for instance, property which may be owned by the husband and who is suing for a divorce against the wife, who has been incurably insane for a period of ten years, he has no way to transfer his property, because there is no committee which could be appointed by the court which could dispose of the dower of the wife, and on the other hand the courtesy of the husband, and it has been a great blight upon a great many homes in the State of Pennsylvania today that this condition must continue and that there is no relief, and it is on the ground of incurable insanity for a period of ten years only and I think some of the members misapprehended the purpose of the bill when it was before the Senate. I therefore ask for your consideration and vote upon this measure.

Mr. WOODWORD. Mr. President, as I have the honor of being the only Doctor of Medicine in the Senate, and as I have been asked by several of the Senators to speak upon this bill, I think it proper that I should arise and say a word. My opinion is that any competent neurologist is able to determine what incurable insanity is.

Mr. MILLER. Mr. President, if I understand the bill correctly it does not necessarily require incurable insanity for ten years. In that case it is Bruia Facia evidence that the insanity is incurable. My understanding is that if the Court is satisfied that the person under examination has been incurably insane for only thirty days, the case will come under the provisions of this bill.

If the bill can be amended to mean clearly what the Senator from Delaware, Mr. MacDade, thinks it means,—that it must be a case of incurable insanity for ten years before it comes within the provisions of the bill, I shall be very glad to support the bill. I question whether or not the bill is clear in that respect.

I call your attention to Section 3, on page 2, of the bill, which reads as follows:

Section 3 Upon the hearing of the case before the court a master or a jury the incurability of the insanity of the respondent shall be proved by expert and other testimony

That is one qualification. Then we come to the second classes of cases:

Provided however That if the respondent is an inmate of an asylum or institution for the insane at the time of the filing of the petition or libel and has been an inmate of an asylum or institution for the insane continuously for a period of ten years or more prior to the filing of the petition or libel proof of such fact shall be sufficient to establish the cause of incurable insanity

So, my contention is, there are two classes of cases in this bill: Those that are proven insane before the Court,—they may have been insane for only thirty days before, but if expert testimony is to the effect that they are incurably insane it comes under the provision of this bill. Then the other class of cases, in which if a person has been in an insane asylum continuously for a period of ten years or more prior to the filing of the petition or libel proof of such fact shall be sufficient to establish the cause of incurable insanity.

I, therefore, question whether or not the bill could be interpreted or would be interpreted in all cases as the Senator from Delaware states.

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, at the risk of boring the Senate, I should simply like to state to the Senator from Crawford, Mr. Miller, that the period of ten years has nothing to do with it. As far as the opinions of neurologists are concerned, there are certain cases of incurable insanity that can be discovered as soon as they are examined, the insanity may exist for an hour or thirty days or ten years.

And the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The yeas and nays were taken agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, and were as follows, viz:

YEAS—28.

Baldwin,	DeWitt,	MacDade,	Sones,
Barr,	Earnest,	Norton,	Stites,

RESOLUTION No. 2.

Mr. EDMONDS. Mr. Speaker, I desire to call up at this time Resolution No. 2, file folio 999.

The Resolution was read by the Clerk as follows:

Whereas the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in one thousand eight hundred and twenty-six inaugurated the practice of providing needed revenue for the State by taxation of inheritances and

Whereas This practice has been followed by the vast majority of the States of the Union so that inheritance taxes have become a necessary and important feature of the fiscal system of the States and

Whereas The Federal Government in the past has only entered the field of the inheritance taxation in war time as an emergency measure and

Whereas The recently increased rates of the Federal Estate Tax will materially affect State revenues in the future

even more seriously than they have in the past and

Whereas The increasing financial burden upon State Governments makes it necessary to conserve every logical source of revenue

Therefore if the Senate concur be it resolved that in the judgment of the General Assembly taxes on the transfer of property by inheritance should be reserved to the State Government and that the Federal Government should now withdraw from this field and leave to the States exclusively this much needed source of revenue

Resolved That a copy of this resolution be sent to the Senators and Representatives from Pennsylvania in the Congress of the United States

On the question,

Will the House adopt the resolution?

Mr. EDMONDS. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, I take it for granted that every member of the House recognizes that taxation, expenditures and revenue are some of the major problems to be considered in this session. We must also recognize that taxation, federal, State and local, make essentially one problem, inasmuch as the people pay the taxes. The government of the United States at the present time costs, roughly speaking, about eighty dollars per head, of which about thirty-five dollars goes to the federal government and forty-five dollars to the State and local governments. At eighty dollars per head, including men, women and children, it means that the burden of taxation on the average family of five—which we are told by the census is the average sized family of the United States,—means something like four hundred dollars per year.

In the days before the war, there was worked out a system of revenue whereby the federal government relied upon customs and internal taxation, and the states had the inheritance and corporation taxes, and also in a great many of the states, land taxes, and the local government had a revenue from that. That system worked on the whole very satisfactorily. I think there was little complaint of the burden of taxation before the war. But when the war came on, with its tremendous economic processes, there had to be a doubling up on the systems of taxation. I imagine that the people of the United States would have been willing to have the federal government tax land if it were necessary to continue the war. But the war period is now passed, and we are coming to the time when revenue problems ought to be readjusted on the most economic lines possible. This resolution calls the attention of our Senators and Representatives in Congress to the fact that the federal government now taxes the states for inheritances and that it has also taxed inheritances four times in the history of the Union, and each of those four times during war periods. The first was immediately after the Revolutionary War, for a few years; the second was during the Civil War, and immediately thereafter, for two years; the third was for the Spanish-American War and thereafter for a few years; and the fourth is the tax which was first imposed in 1916, and in these years since continued by the Federal Government until in 1924, it had attained its maximum.

Now, we are suggesting that inasmuch as the war emergency has passed, the time has come when the Federal Government ought to consider dropping out of this field in order to leave this particular field of taxation to the states. The argument of the states is briefly as follows: The states started the inheritance taxation long before the Federal Government. Pennsylvania was the first State to lay a constructive collateral inheritance tax and our tax goes back to 1826, almost, and while we increase the rate from time to time, yet the original tax was recognized as a just one. The states have accustomed themselves to this form of revenue, and if the Federal Government derives revenue from the same source, it is bound in time to interfere with the revenue of the states and will necessitate a readjustment of the inheritance tax by the states. Under these circumstances, therefore, this resolution has been introduced. It is in line with the general policy that has been recommended by the Tax Commission, and it is especially appropriate to consider it at this time, because on Thursday next there will convene in the city of Washington a conference of national and state tax commissions which conference was originally suggested by President Coolidge, although it has been called by the National Tax Association. At that conference the President will deliver the main address.

This is in line with the policy which he has recommended, and is in line with the very wise fiscal changes that have been suggested by the Secretary of the Treasury, who is himself a citizen of our own Commonwealth.

I hope, therefore, that with this explanation the plan that is embodied in this resolution may meet with the approval of the members of the House.

On the question recurring,

Will the House adopt the resolution?

It was adopted.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

SENATE MESSAGE.

RESOLUTION CONCURRED IN BY SENATE.

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced, informed that the Senate has concurred in the resolution from the House of Representatives as follows:

In the House of Representatives, February 16, 1925.

Whereas, His Excellency, the Governor of the Commonwealth has, by message of February sixteenth, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-five advised the Senate and House of Representatives of the General Assembly, of his desire to address the Members thereof in joint session on Tuesday, February seventeenth, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-five, at twelve o'clock noon, therefore be it

Resolved, (if the Senate concur), That the Senators and Members of the House of Representatives are pleased to comply with the request of His Excellency, and will meet in joint session for that purpose at the time requested in said message, and be it further

Resolved, That a committee of two Senators to be appointed by the President pro tempore of the Senate and two Members of the House of Representatives to be appointed by the Speaker of the House of Representatives shall wait upon the Governor and advise him of the passage of this resolution and of their readiness to hear any message he may desire to deliver.

And has appointed on such committee Senators Painter and Baumer.

BILLS ON THIRD READING.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 430, as follows:

An Act authorizing the register of wills and ex-officio clerk of the orphans' court with the consent of the judges of the separate orphans' court in counties of the second class of this Commonwealth to fix and determine the salaries of assistant clerks in said court

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That in all counties of the second class wherein a separate orphans' court is or may be established the register of wills and ex-officio clerk of the orphans' court with the consent and approval of the judges of the said court shall fix the salaries of the assistant clerks of said court

Section 2 All salaries as so fixed by the register of wills and ex-officio clerk of the orphans' court with the consent and approval of the judges of said orphans' court shall be paid out of the fees of said office as paid into the treasury of the county upon bills attested by the register of wills and countersigned by a judge of said court but in the event that the fees received in said office of register of wills be not sufficient to fully pay the register and his assistants then payment shall be made in full to the said register of wills but to his asistants in manner as follows namely where there are more than one assistant then the balance of fees remaining to the credit of said office of register of wills shall be divided among each of said assistants in proportion as his salary shall stand to the whole

Section 3 The act approved the eighteenth day of April one thousand nine hundred and nineteen (Pamphlet Laws fifty-three) entitled "An act authorizing the registers of wills and ex-officio clerks of the orphans' courts with the consent of the judges of the separate orphans' court in counties having a population of over eight hundred thousand and less than one million five hundred thousand inhabitants to fix and determine the salaries of assistant clerks in said court" is hereby repealed

The act approved the twenty-fifth day of May one thousand nine hundred and twenty-one (Pamphlet Laws one thousand one hundred and eight) entitled "An act to further amend the fifth section of an act entitled 'An act relating to the organization and jurisdiction of orphans' courts and to establish a separate orphans' court in and for counties having more than one hundred fifty thousand inhabitants and to provide for the election of judges thereof" approved May nineteenth Anno Domini eighteen hundred and seventy-four (Pamphlet Laws two hundred and six) as amended by fixing and determining the salaries of the assistant clerks of said court in counties of the first second third and fourth classes" and

The act approved the twenty-third day of May one thousand nine hundred and twenty-three (Pamphlet Laws three hundred and seventeen) entitled "An act to amend section fiv of an act approved the nineteenth day of May one thousand eight hundred and seventy-four (Pamphlet Laws two hundred and six), entitled 'An act relating to the organization and jurisdiction of orphans' courts and to establish a separate orphans' court in and for counties having more than one hundred fifty thousand inhabitants and to provide for the election of judges thereof' as amended by changing the provisions for appointment of first assistant clerks so as to conform to the Constitution and giving to the court and register of wills joint power to modify the salaries fixed for any assistant clerk" are hereby repealed insofar as they relate to counties of the second class

All other acts or parts of acts inconsistent herewith are hereby repealed

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,
The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 271, entitled:

An Act allowing a rebate and imposing a penalty in the collection of county taxes assessed in the cities of the third class in this Commonwealth

On the question,
Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,
Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. MARSHALL. Mr. Speaker, I want to call the sponsor's attention to a seeming defect between the title of the bill and the contents of the bill. The title says, "allowing a rebate and imposing a penalty in the collection of county taxes assessed in cities of the third class in this Commonwealth." The body of the bill says in third class cities in counties of the fifth class. It seems to me this bill is in danger of being unconstitutional for two reasons; in the first place, the title does not clearly set forth the contents of the bill, and in the second place it is a classification within a classification. I merely call his attention to it. I just discovered it after reading the bill.

Mr. F. A. BELL. Mr. Speaker, I propose to amend that defect in the title in the Senate. We realize that the title is defective in that it does not call attention to the fifth class cities, but we expect to remedy that in the Senate, if the House agrees to pass it.

On the question recurring.

REPORT OF COMMITTEE TO WAIT UPON SENATE.

Mr. CONNER. Mr. Speaker, your committee appointed to conduct the Senate to the Hall of the House of Representatives beg leave to inform you that they have attended to that duty and that the Senate is here.

The SPEAKER. Will the committee also perform its further duty and wait upon the Governor in accordance with the resolution.

The President of the Senate will proceed to the Speaker's desk, the President pro-tempore to the platform and the members of the Senate will be seated.

JOINT SESSION.

LIEUTENANT-GOVERNOR DAVID J. DAVIS presiding.

LIEUTENANT-GOVERNOR DAVIS. The Assembly will be in order.

Mr. PAINTER. Mr. President, I now present His Excellency Governor Pinchot who is to address us.

LIEUTENANT-GOVERNOR DAVIS. The General Assembly has met in joint session for the purpose of listening to a message from His Excellency the Governor. I take pleasure in introducing to you the Hon. Gifford Pinchot, Governor of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

ADDRESS OF GOVERNOR GIFFORD PINCHOT TO THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY OF PENNSYLVANIA.

Ladies and Gentlemen:

I have the honor to place in your hands the report of the Giant Power Board, a document certain to hold a high place in the history of the development and regulation of natural resources and their use in America. In doing so, I desire to lay before you some of the facts to which this report so vigorously calls attention.

Mechanical energy is the heart of modern civilization. It was the lack of mechanical energy—power—that kept men back so long in their struggle for control over the elements. It was the lack of it in large amounts which so long delayed the coming of the degree of safety and comfort which is now characteristic of human life in America. We owe the present American standard of living mainly to our use of greater quantities of power per inhabitant than any other people on earth.

From the very earliest time until about one hundred years ago the work of the world was done either by human muscle, by animal muscle, by the pressure of the wind, or by the weight of falling water. When the earliest Pharaohs ruled in Egypt, when Homer sang of the siege of Troy, when the first Christmas dawned to bless the earth, when Columbus discovered a new continent, when William Penn taught brotherhood in a new world, when Franklin laid the foundation for modern electrical development, when the Declaration of Independence was signed, men were still using the same four sources of mechanical power, and had never gone beyond them.

This limitation of available power circumscribed human activity and held back human progress to a degree we of today find it difficult to understand. If the ancients of the old world and the fathers of the new, hampered as they were by the lack of power, still did great things, they did them at a cost in time and in sheer toil which we find it hard even to imagine.

THE DISCOVERY OF STEAM

Upon a world so limited came the discovery of the power of steam. Steam altered the whole face of the earth for its inhabitants. By the creation of a new industrial civilization it utterly changed the conditions of human life. For the first time in history goods could be produced in abundance for all mankind. For the first time in history this abundance could be carried cheaply to all mankind. Steam forced the replacement of individual effort and home industry by industrial organization, for the new steam engine was too big, too expensive, and too complicated to be used except by large numbers of workmen under skilled supervision. Out of steam grew the industrial order and the material civilization of the world today.

What the discovery of steam brought with it was nothing less than a revolution. Because its revolutionary charter was not foreseen and provided for, the discovery of steam was followed by generations of fighting on the part of capital to keep, on the part of labor and agriculture to secure, a share in the rewards of greater production. That struggle for economic independence and equality of opportunity is far from settled today. It has produced results of enormous value to humanity, but at enormous and unnecessary cost.

The change from muscle, wind, and water to steam as a source of energy was an epochal change. The change from steam to electricity which is now upon us will not be less so. It behooves us, therefore, not to let it break upon us unawares, not to permit generations of needless bitter conflict to follow it, but to think out the problems it will create, and to take measures in advance to avoid the long train of struggle and disturbance which followed the last great change in industrial power.

Steam might well say of electricity. "One mightier than I cometh, the latchet of whose shoes I am not worthy to unloose," for steam was in fact only the herald of electricity. It is not easily to realize, but electrical development has already proceeded so far that the time is plainly in sight when power for almost every use in the home, on the farm, in the factory, in the mine, and in transportation (by rail at least) will be electrically supplied.

GIANT POWER

Giant Power is a plan to bring cheaper and better electric service to all those who have it now, and to bring good and cheap electric service to those who are still without it. It is a plan by which most of the drudgery of human life can be taken from the shoulders of men and women who toil, and replaced by the power of electricity.

To the housewife Giant Power means comforts not only of electric lighting, but of electric cooking and other aids to housework as well. To the farmer it means not only the safety and convenience of electric light, but electric power for milking, feed-cutting, wood-sawing, and a thousand other tasks on the farm. To the traveling public it means speed and cleanliness of electric transportation. To the dwellers in industrial cities it means freedom from the smoke nuisance and the ash nuisance. To the consumer it means better service at cheaper rates. To every worker it means a higher standard of living, more leisure, and better pay.

Giant Power means all this, but means it on one condition only. That condition is the effective public regulation of the electric industry which is enlisting new capital and spreading its wires over the United States at a rate wholly unknown before.

Giant Power in Pennsylvania will be mainly coal made power. In spite of the great water powers of the Rocky Mountain Region and the Pacific Coast, and elsewhere, all of which will be in use, Giant Power in America will be for many generations mainly the product of coal. It will create, as the mine workers of Illinois have already foreseen, a new demand for coal not now required, and through this new demand may easily become the greatest factor in solving the problem of full time for our bituminous coal mines.

PROPOSED LEGISLATION

The report of the Giant Power Board points out the main esentials for cheap and abundant universal power service, which is Giant Power. The most important of these essential bills to promote which will be presented to you, are:

First: Mass production, with opportunity for by-product recovery.

This is to be secured by Giant Power generating stations of great capacity in or near the coal fields supplying large capacity transmission lines connecting with all other major transmission lines in the State.

Second: The creation of a common pool of power into which current from all sources will be poured, and out of which current for all uses may be taken.

This is to be secured by making these Giant Power companies common purchasers of surlpus power from all generating stations in the State and common sellers to all distributing systems in the State.

Third: Free access by every water power and steam generating station to every potential purchaser, which means every distributing system in the State which supplies the consumer.

This is to be secured by making all major transmission lines common carriers of current from the Giant Power companies and other generating stations to any and all distributing systems in the State.

Fourth: Complete, prompt, and effective regulation of rates, service, and security issues.

This is to be secured by fundamental changes in the Public Service Company Law, providing chiefly for measuring the company's right to a fair return upon the stable and easily ascertainable basis of the money prudently invested instead of upon the unstable, slow, and enormously costly process of valuation of the company's property as of each time the rate is fixed. The consent of the companies to this new rate base should be required as a condition of every new charter, merger, or exercise of the right of eminent domain. The Commission should also have power to regulate security issues to correspond with the amount of prudent investment.

Fifth: Rescue of the regulation of electric service from the destruction now threatened by its conversion into interstate commerce, which will be beyond the control of the states and has not been regulated by Congress.

This is to be secured by compacts among the States consented to by Congress, as allowed by the Constitution of the United States, or failing that, by Congressional legislation.

Sixth: Systematic extension of service lines throughout the rural districts.

This is to be secured by farmers mutual companies and by rural electric districts, each authorized to construct and operate distribution systems, and each empowered to tax and borrow money. Both the mutual companies and the districts should be served on an equality with all other distribution systems by current from the Giant Power companies or other generating stations, to be delivered over the common carrier transmission lines. The existing companies by the annual expenditure for ten years of less than 3 per cent of their present construction program could build lines reaching 50 per cent of all farms in the State. But their almost complete failure to bring about rural electrification makes legislative relief imperative.

GIANT POWER VERSUS SUPER POWER

Giant Power and super-power are as different as a tame elephant and a wild one. One is the friend and fellow worker of man—the other, at large and uncontrolled, may be a dangerous enemy. The place for the public is on the neck of the elephant, guiding its movements, not on the ground helpless under its knees.

Giant Power seeks the cheapest sources of power, and hence the cheapest rates. It proposes to create, as it were, a great pool of power into which power from all sources will be poured, and out of which power for all uses will be taken. It is the pooling of supply—not the disposal of surplus—and the chief idea behind it is not profit but the public welfare.

Super-power on the other hand, is the interchange of small quantities of surplus power at the ends of the distribution wires of each system. Its principal object is profit for the companies—not benefit for the public—and it is on the way to being realized with a rapidity which is difficult fully to understand. If we are to have Giant Power instead of super-power the time in which to make sure of it is very short.

The main object of the super-power idea is greater profit to the companies. The main object of the Giant Power idea is greater advantage to the people. Giant Power will assure vastly better service and vastly cheaper rates to the consumer, and through effective public regulation, it will set aside the threat of the most dangerous monopoly ever known.

PUBLIC REGULATION

The regulation of any public utility is, and must always be, a compromise. The companies naturally object to every provision for the protection of the public that will interfere to any extent with their freedom to secure their own rates and provide their own regulations, or which will make their investments less profitable, or capital less easy to obtain. The public naturally would like the best of service at the minimum of cost, or at no cost at all.

Neither extreme is possible. For the safety and welfare of the people, there must be restrictions. At the same time, these restrictions must be such as to permit the companies to operate their business successfully, to pay a good but reasonable return upon their invested capital, and to secure additional capital as needed for new enterprises or for expansion.

Electric energy for light, heat, and power, is, like the telephone, a natural monoply. We cannot with safety regard it as a mere service and therefore free from the control of the Interstate Commerce Commission when it crosses State bondaries, as some big electric men would have us do. We must deal with it as a commodity, and therefore subject to such regulation. In any case, being a natural monopoly, it cannot be regulated by competition. Therefore it can only be regulated by public control, and that control, to be effective and to endure, must be fair to the companies, to the investors, and to the general public.

Public control over the electric monopoly may be of several different types. It may be exercised by the individual States; it may be exercised by the Federal Government; it may be exercised by a combination of State and Nation; or it may be exercised by public ownership.

The Giant Power Plan takes no account of public ownership. It proposes to deal with facts as it finds them, and does not even raise the question. It must and does, however, take most careful account of the form of regulation best fitted to cope with the gigantic electric monopoly which is plainly in sight.

ELECTRIC CONSOLIDATION

There is already advancing with immense rapidity, a consolidation of companies engaged in supplying this universal source of power which has already far transcended State lines, and has in many respects reached national proportions. The situation which this consolidation clearly foretells is like one in which every source of steam power in America should be under the control of a single monster corporation. In the face of such a concentration of capital and power the States and the Nation can maintain their industrial freedom and ability to govern themselves only through the medium of effective public regulation.

The time is almost here when electric utility companies will be interconnected all the way from Chicago to the Gulf, and from the Atlantic Coast to the Great Plains. Already a single dispatcher (controlling not trains but current) gives orders for the disposal of the power of several interconnected electric systems. Leaders of the electric industry do not hesitate to forecast interconnection in the near future over all the United States. Whatever the ostensible legal and financial status may be, when such interconnection comes it will bring with it inevitably not only effective unity of service but also effective unity of financial and operating control.

GIANT POWER AND STATE CONTROL

The plans of the Giant Power Board and the bills submitted to give it effect are both based primarily on the theory of State control. But in considering State control we must remember not only its advantages but its difficulties and defects. It is axiomatic that to be successful and effective the regulating machinery must cover the same ground as the thing it regulates. Regulation of a nation-wide electric combination by the State alone consequently carries with it such inherent difficulties and such disadvantages, from the public point of view, that nothing less than the wholehearted cooperation of the companies and the States can give it even a reasonable prospect of success.

If cooperation is withheld or impossible, then the next and the inevitable appeal is to Federal regulation. If here again the cooperation of the companies toward securing really effective regulation in the public interest should be refused, then the companies themselves may force the people in self-defense to turn to the only remaining possibility, which is public ownership.

I venture to say that if the people of the United States ever turn to the nation-wide public ownership of electric utilities, it will be because the companies have driven them to it. It will be directly and only because the utility companies have so opposed and prevented reasonable and effective regulation by the States and by the Nation that the only choice left was between servitude to a gigantic and unendurable monopoly and the ownership and operation of that monopoly by the people.

The struggle to secure the Federal Power Act, which regulates the development of water powers in navigable streams and upon public lands, lasted for fifteen years. The circumstances were then such that this delay caused no important losses either to the electric industry or to the public. Both had the time to fight it out.

Today the circumstances are wholly different. The development of the network of interconnected electric lines is so rapid that a delay of even five years in establishing effcetive public control will bring Pennsylvania and the Nation face to face with the immediate threat of an overwhelming and almost uncontrollable electric monopoly. Delay in this matter can have but one result, and that is the formation of a unified unregulated power trust covering with its lines and its domination the whole territory of the United States.

No one who studies the electrical developments already achieved and those planned for the immediate future can doubt that a unified electrical monopoly extending into every part of this Nation is inevitable in the very near future. The question before us is not whether there shall be such a monopoly. That we cannot prevent. The question is whether we shall regulate it or whether it shall regulate us.

THE ELECTRIC MONOPOLY

It is almost impossible to imagine the force and intimacy with which such a monopoly will touch and affect, for good or evil, the life of every citizen. The time is fully in sight when every household operation from heating and cooking to sweeping and sewing will be performed by the aid of electrical power; when every article on the average man's breakfast table—every item of his clothing—every piece of his furniture—every tool of his trade—that he himself did not produce, will have been manufactured or transported by electric power; when the home, the farm, and the factory will be electrically lighted, heated and operated; when from morning to night, from the cradle to the grave, electric service will enter at every moment and from every direction into the daily life of every man, woman and child in America.

We complain, and with justice, that the cost of food doubles between the farmer who grows it, and the housewife who buys it. But if the cost of electric current only doubled between the generating station and the householder's meter the present rates would be cut into small pieces. Producers of electric current commonly sell it to large consumers for a fifth or a tenth of the price they charge to the head of a family, and for much less than the small industrial consumer pays. It is the small user, the average consumer, to whom the companies charge their highest rates.

Nothing like this gigantic monopoly has ever appeared in the history of the world. Nothing has ever been imagined before that even remotely approaches it in the thorough going, intimate, unceasing control it may exercise over the daily life of every human being within the web of its wires. It is immeasurably the greatest industrial fact of our time. If uncontrolled, it will be a plague without previous example. If effectively controlled in the public interest it can be made incomparably the greatest material blessing in human history.

In the near future electric energy and its products will be as essential, as ever present, and as pervasive as the air we breathe. The unregulated domination of such a necessity of life would give to the holders of it a degree of personal, economic, and political power over the average citizen which no free people could suffer and survive.

The very existence, for example, of industries upon which the properity of Pennsylvania is based might be endangered by discrimination in favor of other state. This is no fanciful illustration, for the industries of Switzerland suffering now from just such discrimination by the Swiss power companies in favor of German, French, and Italian manufacturers.

The situation is almost magical in its boundless possibilities for food or evil. On the good side, it is as though a beneficient power were about to shower upon us gifts of unimaginable beauty and worth. On the bad side, it is as though an enchanted evil spider were hastening to spread his web over the whole of the United States and to control and live upon the life of our people.

No such profound change in economic life is possible without profound changes in law and government. It is the part of statesmanship by foresight to make these changes easy, and to take such account of the mistakes of the past that we shall neither pervert the possibilities nor disappoint the legitimate hopes with which we enter the new era of electricity.

THE GREATEST ECONOMIC QUESTION.

What the new civilization to which Giant Power is leading will actually become no man can yet foretell. Steam brought about the centralization of industry, a decline in country life, the decay of many small communities, and the weakening of family ties. Giant Power may bring about the decentralization of industry, the restoration of country life, and the upbuilding of the small communities and of the family. In this hope of the future lies the possibility of new freedom and great spiritual enrichment of individual life.

Men can use steam power only where it is generated. That is why steam has concentrated vast numbers of people in industrial cities. In a steam-driven civilization the worker must go to the power, but in an electrically-driven civilization the power will be delivered to the worker. Steam makes slums. Electricity can replace them with garden cities.

Next to a supply of natural resources sufficient to feed, clothe, and shelter our people, this is the greatest of the economic questions which face the human race. I do not raise it. It has raised itself. But having forced itself upon us, there is but one course we can properly pursue: That is to look it squarely in the face, estimate its possibilities for good or evil, and address ourselves like men to the vast problem of adjusting the growing power of electricity to the growing needs of humanity, remembering that in any solution fit to last and capable of lasting the public good must always come first. Giant Power is the best answer to this gigantic problem that has yet been proposed.

This much is certain—that if we control it instead of permitting it to control us, the coming electrical development will form the basis for a civilization safer, happier, freer, and fuller of opportunity than the world has ever known.

No subject has come before you at this session nor will any come, that holds within it so vital and far-reaching an influence as this over the daily life of the present and future men, women and children of Pennsylvania, and of the whole United States. For good or evil, for economic freedom or industrial bondage, this change is upon us. What it shall bring depends upon ourselves. Of a truth we are in the valley of decision.

As Pennsylvania and the Nation deal with electric power so shall we and our descendants be free men, masters of our own destinies and our own souls, or we shall be the helpless servants of the most widespread, far-reaching, and penetrating monopoly ever known. Either we must control electric power, or its masters and owners will control us.

LIEUTENANT-GOVERNOR DAVIS. The business for which the General Assembly met in joint session having been transacted, the joint session is adjourned. The Members of the Senate will kindly return to the Senate Chamber for the consideration of the calendar.

SPEAKER BLUETT IN THE CHAIR.

The SPEAKER. If there are no objections, the Speaker would like to take up the second reading calendar at this time so that we may have the bills on second reading advanced and sent over to the printer. Is there any objection to taking up the second reading calendar at this time? The chair hears none and we will proceed on the second reading calendar.

BILLS ON SECOND READING.

Agreeably to order,

The rule requiring bills to be considered in Committee of the whole being in this case dispensed with,

The House proceeded to the second reading and consideration of House Bill No. 677, entitled:

An Act authorizing cities of the first class to appoint a Zoning Commission and a Bureau of Zoning to adopt and enforce zoning ordinances regulating the height location size or bulk and use of buildings structures and land the areas to be occupied thereby in proportion to the size of the lots upon which they stand the size of courts yards and other open spaces appurtenant thereto their recession from the street lines upon which they abut the establishment of districts and boundaries for these purposes the designation and regulation of residential commercial and industrial or other uses within such districts and boundaries and to appoint a Board of Appeals provide the duties and functions thereof and provide for the administration and enforcement of the rules regulations and ordinances authorized by this act

The first section was read as follows:

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assemby met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That for the purpose of promoting the public health safety morals and general welfare cities of the first class are hereby empowered to regulate and restrict by ordinance the hight location size or bulk of buildings or other structures hereafter erected or altered the proportion or percentage of the lots that may be occupied by such buildings or structures the size of yards courts or other open spaces appurtenant thereto to designate the use and location of buildings or structures which may or may not be erected or altered for residence trade industry or other purposes so that such uses may be permitted in or excluded from certain portions or sections of such cities or subjected to special regulations and to provide for the setting back of such buildings or structures hereafter erected or altered from the street line upon any or all public streets highways or other open public spaces

On the question,

Will the House agree to the section?

Mr. BROMLEY. Mr. Speaker, I desire to offer the following amendment.

The SPEAKER. The amendment will be read by the Clerk.

The amendment was read by the Clerk as follows:

Amend section 1, page 2, line 8, by inserting after the word "use" the words "of land".

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendment?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the section as amended?

It was agreed to.

The second and third sections were separately read and agreed to as follows:

Section 2 For any and all of the foregoing purposes any such city may be divided into districts of such number location shape and area as may be deemed best suited to carry out the purposes of this act and within such districts such cities may regulate and restrict the erection construction reconstruction alteration repair or use of buildings structures or land in accordance with the provisions of section one of this act All such regulations shall be uniform for each class or kind of building or use throughout each district but such regulations in one district may differ from those in any or all other districts

Section 3 For the purpose of carrying out the foregoing authority the mayor of any such city may appoint a Zoning Commission which commission after public notice and hearing shall prepare and present to city council a tentative bill or ordinance which shall provide for a Bureau of Zoning to be attached to the Department of Public Works and which shall incorporate and recommend such regulations and restrictions for the purposes aforesaid as such commission may deem advisable together with maps charts or prints showing the location and boundaries of the respective districts to which such regulations shall apply which bill or ordinance shall be submitted to the council of such city for its approval or disapproval The zoning commission in the said tentative bill or ordinance shall further provide for the administration of the owners thereby conferred and the manner in which such regulations and restrictions shall be determined and enforced provided that the appointment by the mayor of any such city of such zoning commission heretofore made under authority of existing law be and the same is hereby ratified

The fourth section was read as follows:

Section 4 Such bill or ordinance prepared by the said zoning commission shall not become effective until approved and confirmed by the council of such city in the manner required for the passage of other ordinances and subject to executive actions as in other cases provided that before final action of the city council public hearings shall be held whereat all persons interested in the subject matter shall be afforded an opportunity to be heard at a specified time and place after due notice of such hearing or hearings published for six consecutive days in two daily morning and two daily evening newspapers of general circulation in such cities

On the question,

Will the House agree to the section?

Mr. BROMLEY. Mr. Speaker, I desire to offer the following amendment.

The SPEAKER. The amendment will be read by the Clerk.

The amendment was read by the Clerk as follows:

Amend section 4, page 3, line 25 by striking out the word "actions" and inserting in lieu thereof "action"

On the question,

Will the House agree to the amendment?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the section as amended?

It was agreed to.

The fifth section was read and agreed to as follows:

Section 5 The council of said cities may from time to time after public notice and hearing as above provided amend supplement or change such ordinance

The sixth section was read as follows:

Section 6 The mayor of every city of the first class shall with the approval of the council appoint a Board of Appeals which shall consist of five members one of whom may be the director of the Department of Public Works or such official of that department as the said directors may designate one of whom may be the chief of the Bureau of Surveys of such city or such official of that bureau as he may designate and one of whom may be a member of the city planning commission of such cities Two members of the said commission shall be designated to serve until the first day of January next following the passage of such ordinance two until the first day of January two years thereafter and one until the first day of January three years thereafter their successors shall be appointed on the expiration of their respective terms to serve three years Vacancies shall be filled for the unexpired term of any member the council may provide for the compensation of those members of the board of appeals who do not hold any other office or position of profit under the city government or any department thereof or in or under the Government of the United States of this Commonwealth or any county city or other political sub-division thereof

On the question,

Will the House agree to the section?

Mr. BROMLEY. Mr. Speaker, I desire to offer the following amendment.

The SPEAKER. The amendment will be read by the Clerk.

The amendment was read by the Clerk as follows:

Amend section 6, page 4, line 29, by striking out the word "therof" and inserting in lieu thereof "thereof"

On the question,

Wilil the House agree to the amendment?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the section as amended?

It was agreed to.

The seventh, eighth and ninth sections were separately read and agreed to as follows:

Section 7 All ordinances passed under the provisions of this act shall be enforced by the bureau of zoning or such officer of said cities as may be designated by ordinance and upon application of any aggrieved person the action or actions of such bureau or officer may be reviewed and affirmed modified or reversed by the board of appeals the procedure and method of such application for review shall be provided for by regulation of that board

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, that the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 39, entitled

An Act regulating the compensation of sheriffs in counties of the sixth seventh and eighth classes for boarding prisoners where the sheriff is keeper or warden of the jail in such county

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

BILL RECOMMITTED.

Mr. STORER. Mr. Speaker, I move that this bill, House Bill No. 39, file folio 795, be recommitted to the Committee on Counties and Townships for amendment.

Mr. MARCUS. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

BILLS ON THIRD READING.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 281, entitled

An Act consolidating into one special fund in the State Treasury all separate funds set apart in the State Treasury for the use of the Board of Fish Commissioners formerly the Department of Fisheries specifying the purposes for which the moneys in the said fund may be used and appropriating such moneys to the Board of Fish Commissioners for the purposes specified

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. WELLS. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, there seems to be some misapprehension as to the purpose of this bill. Some several members have spoken to me about it, and asked if this was the bill that took from the Fish Commissioner funds and placed them in the general fund. If they will read the bill carefully, they will see that there is nothing of that sort in the bill. The bill is one that I introudced at the request of the Commissioner of Fisheries and is a Department measure. It does away with one special fund. At the present time the non-resident fishermen licenses and the resident fishermen licenses are kept as separate funds. This bill provides that these two funds are now combined and one special fund only will be kept in the Department of Fisheries.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

SENATE MESSAGE.

RESOLUTION CONCURRED IN BY SENATE.

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced, informed that the Senate has concurred in the resolution from the House of Representatives as follows:

In the House of Representatives

Whereas the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in one thousand eight hundred and twenty-six inaugurated the practice of providing needed revenue for the State by taxation of inheritances and

Whereas This practice has been followed by the vast majority of the States of the Union so that inheritance taxes have become a necessary and important feature of the fiscal system of the States and

Whereas The Federal Government in the past has only entered the field of the inheritance taxation in war time as an emergency measure and

Whereas The recently increased rates of the Federal Estate Tax will materially affect State revenues in the future even more seriously than they have in the past and

Whereas The increasing financial burden upon State Governments makes it necessary to conserve every logical source of revenue

Therefore if the Senate concur be it resolved that in the judgment of the General Assembly taxes on the transfer of property by inheritance should be reserved to the State Government and that the Federal Government should now withdraw from this field and leave to the States exclusively this much needed source of revenue

Resolved That a copy of this resolution be sent to the Senators and Representatives from Pennsylvania in the Congress of the United States

SENATE MESSAGE.

Resolved that the Committee on the Judiciary General be and is hereby authorized to inquire into and concerning the official conduct of the Honorable John A. Berkey Judge of the several Courts of the Sixteenth Judicial District of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania comprising the County of Somerset touching his conduct in regard to matters mentioned in various petitions which have been presented to the House and especially whether the said Judge has been guilty of any impeachable offense and to report to the House the conclusions of the Committee in respect thereto with their appropriate recommendation

Resolved further That the Committee on the Judiciary General is hereby authorized and empowered to send for persons and papers to subpoena witnesses to administer oaths to said witnesses to take testimony to employ a clerk stenographer or stenographers agents investigators and attorneys if necessary and to appoint a sub-committee from among their number, by appointment of the Chairman thereof whenever it may be necessary or expedient to take testimony for the use of the said committee And the said subcommittee while so employed shall have the same powers in respect to obtaining testimony as are herein given to said committee on the Judiciary General with a sargeant at arms by himself or deputy who shall serve the process of said Committee and sub-committee and execute its orders and shall attend the sittings of the same as ordered and directed thereby and the speaker of the House shall have authority to sign and the Clerk to attest subpoenas for any witness or witnesses and the expenses of this investigation shall be paid out of the contingent fund of the House

On the question,

Will the House adopt the resolution?

It was adopted.

BILL ON FINAL PASSAGE.

Mr. MARCUS. Mr. Speaker, I desire to ask the unanimous consent of the House to call up, out of order, on page 11 of the calendar, House Bill No. 493, file folio 995. My reason for asking this is that it will be impossible for me to be here to-morrow.

The SPEAKER. In there any objection?

The Chair hears none.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on final passage of House Bill No. 493, as follows:

An Act providing for the levy of a poll tax in counties of the second class and abolishing therein taxes on salaries and emoluments of office offices and posts of profit professions trades and occupations

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That on and after January first one thousand nine hundred and twenty-six no taxes shall be levied and collected in any county of the second class upon salaries and emoluments of office offices and posts of profit professions trades and occupations but in lieu thereof the corporate authorities of the said counties shall annually at the time other tax levies are made levy a poll tax not exceeding fifty cents upon each resident taxable of such county

Section 2 All such taxes levied as aforesaid by any such county shall be collected by tax collectors appointed by the county treasurer as hereinafter provided For the purpose of the collection of such taxes all such tax collectors are hereby authorized to use all such means and shall possess all the powers now conferred by law for the collection of county taxes

The county treasurer of all counties levying the tax provided for in this act shall annually appoint a tax collector in each city borough incorporated town or township within said county and for his services in the collection of said tax the tax collector so appointed shall retain ten per centum of all taxes collected by him Before entering upon his duties the said tax collector shall furnish his bond acceptable to the county treasurer conditioned upon the faithful discharge of his duties as tax collector

Section 3 Section four of the act entitled "An act relating to county rates and levies and township rates and levies" approved the fifteenth day of April one thousand eight hundred and thirty-four (Pamphlet Laws five hundred nine) and section thirty-two of the act entitled "An act to reduce the state debt and to incorporate the Pennsylvania canal and railroad company" approved the twenty-ninth day of April one thousand eight hundred forty-four (Pamphlet Laws four hundred and ninety-six) are hereby repealed in so far as they provide for the taxation of salaries and emoluments of office offices and posts of profit professions trades and occupations in counties of the second class

All other acts and parts of acts inconsistent herewith are hereby repealed

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. MARCUS. Mr. Speaker, with reference to this bill I desire to call the attention of the Members of the House to the fact that the bill has been amended so that it only includes second-class counties, and, therefore, there need be no mis-apprehension on the part of the Members that it includes other counties. I merely wish to enlighten the Members that the amendments have been made.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to the provisions of the Constitution, the yeas and nays were taken and were as follows, viz:

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, that the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 61, entitled:

An Act relating to jurors exempting from jury duty women over sixty-five years of age and mothers of children under the age of five years

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

It was agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Miss THOMAS. Mr. Speaker, this bill exempts women who are over sixty-five years of age, and mothers of small children from jury duty. It sounds like a very kindly and considerate bill, but I do not believe it is the sort of bill that the women of this State want, and I do not believe it is the sort of bill that the men of this State want to see passed. I think that as women grow older they have as much judgment as men who grow oldr, I hope they have. I think a woman of sixty or sixty-five years of age has, perhaps as much time, if not more, than younger women. I think mothers of small children have never failed to be excused from jury duty if they have requested it. I think the judges of this Commonwealth are very fair to the women in excusing them, if they have any real reason for being excused. I see no reason for this sort of legislation, and I would ask the members of the House to vote "no" on this bill.

Mr. GOEHRING. Mr. Speaker, it is true that some judges have excused women, but it is also true that some of the judges have not excused women, and this bill makes it upon th request of that mother and of that woman, obligatory that they be excused. I say to you it is no more than just. If any women over sixty-five years of age should ask to be excused, if she makes a request to be excused, I think that it is no more than right that the judge should grant that request.

Any mother who has a child under five years of age, I say to you men and women right here on the floor of the House, if she asks to be excused, the Judge should be compelled to excuse her, and I ask you to vote "aye" on this bill.

MOTION TO POSTPONE.

Mrs. PITTS. Mr. Speaker, I move that this bill be placed upon the postponed calendar.

Mr. MATHAY. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was not agreed to.

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. EDMONDS. Mr. Speaker, may I ask the gentelman from Allegheny that if for the purpose of the bill it would not meet the same purpose if the option was given to women over sixty-five or to a mother of children under five years of age so that they would have the right to refuse to serve or if their circumstances and health would so justify that they could serve as jurors they would still have that right?

Mr. GOEHRING. Mr. Speaker, I have that in the bill "upon request of the court."

Mr. EDMONDS. But in the first part of the bill it says—

Mr. GOEHRING. The bill was amended, as you can see, but when it goes to the Senate I promise to have it changed from "shall" to "may."

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

NAYS—1.

Ludlow,

The majority required by the Constitution having voted in the affirmative, the question was determined in the affirmative.

REASON FOR VOTE

Mr. LUDLOW. Mr. Speaker, I vote "No" on House Bill No. 88 (file folio 911) providing for the submission of a Constitutional Amendment authorizing the issuance of bonds to the amount of $35,000,000 for the payment of compensation to persons who served in the World War. The whole bonus system is, in my humble judgment, fundamentally unsound, is not sustained by preponderating and wholehearted support of ex-service men themselves and is a diversion of public funds for able-bodied men which might better be devoted to Pennsylvania's disabled men.

BILLS ON THIRD READING.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the third reading and consideration of House Bill No. 507 (Senate Bill No. 61), entitled:

An Act to amend route number one hundred and two of section six of an act, approved the thirty-first day of May, one thousand nine hundred and eleven (P. L. 468), entitled "An Act providing for the establishment of a State Highway Department, by the appointment of a State Highway Commissioner, two Deputy State Highway Commissioners, chief engineer, chief draughtsman, superintendents of highways, and a staff of assistants and employes; defining their duties and the jurisdiction of the State Highway Department, and fixing salaries of Commissioner and deputies and other appointees; providing for taking over from the counties or townships of the Commonwealth certain existing public roads connecting county-seats, principal cities, and towns and extending to the State line; describing and defining same by route numbers as the State Highways of the Commonwealth; providing for the improvement, maintenance, and repair of said State Highways solely at the expense of the Commonwealth, and relieving the several townships or counties from any further obligation and expense to improve or maintain the same, and relieving said townships or counties of authority over same; requiring boroughs and incorporated towns to maintain certain State Highways wholly and in part; requiring the State Highway Commissioner to make maps to be complete records thereof; conferring authority on the State Highway Commissioner; providing for the payment of damages in taking of property, or otherwise, in the improvement thereof; providing for purchase or acquiring of turnpikes or toll-roads forming all or part of any State Highway, and procedure therein; providing for work of improvement of State Highways to be done by contract, except where the State Highway Commissioner decides the work to be done by the State; providing aid by the State to counties and townships desiring the same in the improvement of township or county roads; defining highways and State-aid highways; providing method of application for State aid in the improvement, maintenance, and repair of township or county roads, and prescribing the contents of township, county, borough, or incorporated town petitions; providing for percentage of cost of improvement or repairs to be paid by State, county, township, borough, or incorporated town, and requiring contracts by counties, townships, boroughs, and incorporated towns with Commonwealth governing same; providing for the minimum width of State highways and State-aid highways, and kind of materials to be used in the improvement; providing for payment of cost of improvement and repairs; providing penalty for injuring or destroying State highways; making appropriations to carry out the provisions of the act; and providing for the repeal of certain acts relating to Highway Department and improvement of roads, and of all acts or parts of acts inconsistent herewith; and providing that existing contracts are not affected by provisions of this act," as amended.

And said bill having been read at length the third time, considered and agreed to.

REPORT FROM COMMITTEE.

Mr. DIEHM asked and obtained unanimous consent to report a bill from committee at this time.

Mr. DIEHM, from the Committee on Public Roads, reported as committed, House Bill No. 621, entitled

An Act making an appropriation to the Board of Finance and Revenue out of the Motor License Fund for paying the interest on and redeeming at maturity the bonds of this Commonwealth heretofore or hereafter issued for the purpose of improving and rebuilding highways and for the payment of compensation to the Commonwealth's loan and transfer agent.

BILL ON FINAL PASSAGE.

Mr. LUDLOW. Mr. Speaker, if it is your intention to adjourn now until tomorrow morning, on page 11 of our calendar House Bill No. 140, file folio 993, Bills on Final Passage, is a bill which by manifest errors of the printer has had twice to be amended. If it goes over until tomorrow it is probable it will not be considered, and will have to go over until Monday night. With the indulgence of the House I ask that this bill be called up at this time.

The SPEAKER. Is there any objection to calling up this bill out of order? The Chair hears none.

Agreeably to order,

The House proceeded to the consideration on final passage of House Bill No. 140, as follows:

An Act to amend the twelfth clause of section three hundred and eighty-one chapter seven of an act approved the fourteenth day of July one thousand nine hundred and seventeen (Pamphlet Laws eight hundred forty) entitled "An act concerning townships and revising amending and consolidating the law relating thereto"

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That the twelfth clause of section three hundred and eighty-one chapter seven of an act approved the fourteenth day of July one thousand nine hundred and seventeen (Pamphlet Laws eight hundred forty) entitled "An act concerning townships and revising amending and consolidating the law relating thereto" is hereby amended to read as follows

XII To provide by contract or otherwise for the collection and removal of ashes and garbage Any such contract may be made for a period not to exceed three years.

COMMONWEALTH OF PENNSYLVANIA

Legislative Journal

Session 1925 — 126th of the General Assembly

Vol. 8. HARRISBURG, PA., WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 18, 1925. No. 14.

SENATE

WEDNESDAY, February 18th, 1925.

The Senate met at 10.30 o'clock A. M.

The President Pro Tempore (John G. Homsher) in the Chair.

The Acting Chaplain, Rev. Robert Bagnell, offered the following prayer:

Almighty God: We come into Thy presence to pray for Thy blessing upon us. We are Thy creatures. Thou hast given us the great privilege of having some part in the great work Thou art doing for mankind the world around. We realize the greatness of our responsibilities; we realize our great need of Thy help and Thy grace; and we come to Thee this morning praying that to each one of us Thou wilt reveal Thyself, that Thy wisdom and Thy power may be given unto us; and that in measuring up to our responsibilities and fulfilling our tasks we may win Thy "Well done." Bless the work of this hour. For Christ's sake, Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED.

The PRESIDENT—A quorum of the Senate being present the Clerk will read the Journal of the preceding session.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of the preceding session, when, on motion of Mr. BALDWIN, the further reading was dispensed with, and the Journal was approved.

PETITION.

FAVORING INCREASE IN JUDGES' SALARIES.

Mr. MacDADE presented petition of members of the Allegheny County Bar Association, favoring increase in the salaries of Judges.

Which was referred to the Committee on Appropriations.

LEAVES OF ABSENCE.

Mr. BALDWIN asked and obtained leave of absence of the Senator from Allegheny, Mr. Leslie.

Mr. BETTS asked and obtained leave of absence for the Senator from Northampton, Mr. Kutz.

BILL SIGNED.

The PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE (Mr. John G. Homsher), announced that the Chief Clerk having reported that the following bill had passed both houses of the General Assembly and the same being correct, the title was publicly read as follows:

House Bill No. 220, entitled:

A Supplement to the Act approved the twenty-fourth day of May one thousand nine hundred and seventeen (Pamphlet Laws two hundred and ninety-seven) "An act authorizing the establishment of contagious disease hospitals in the several counties of the Commonwealth to be constructed and maintained out of county funds" providing for the establishment and maintenance of contagious disease hospitals by two or more counties jointly

A supplement to the act approved the twenty-seventh day of March one thousand nine hundred and twenty-three (Pamphlet Laws thirty-four) entitled "An Act concerning alcoholic liquors prohibiting the manufacture advertising furnishing traffic in and possession of intoxicating liquors for beverage purposes and articles and substances designed or intended for use in the manufacture thereof defining intoxicating liquor providing for penalties forfeitures and the abatement of nuisances and repealing existing alcoholic liquor laws and alcoholic liquor license laws" regulating under permit through an Alcoholic Permit Board created in the Department of Agriculture the manufacture development use in manufacture sale at wholesale storage by bailees for hire and transportation for hire of any alcohol or any alcoholic liquid by certain persons providing for fees and the disposition thereof authorizing the inspection of the records of permittees and purchasers of said liquids declaring certain places nuisances and providing for their abatement and providing penalties be recommitted to the Committee on Law and Order, to consider amendments.

Mr. STEELE. Mr. President, I second the motion.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

Mr. SCHANTZ. Mr. President, I would like to interrogate the Senator from Blair, Mr. Snyder.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Blair, Mr. Snyder, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. SNYDER. Mr. President, I will.

Mr. SCHANTZ. Mr. President, I would like to ask the Senator from Blair, Mr. Snyder the reason for sending this bill back to Committee? I think when we have bills out, unless there are very urgent reasons, we ought to keep them on the calendar and dispose of them.

Mr. SNYDER. Mr. President, I will answer Senator Schantz. As I said when I made the motion, it is to consider amendments.

Mr. SCHANTZ. Mr. President, I would like to further interrogate the Senator from Blair, Mr. Snyder.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Blair, Mr. Snyder, permit himself to be interrogated further?

Mr. SNYDER. Mr. President, I will.

Mr. SCHANTZ. Mr. President, I would like to ask Senator Snyder whether the amendments may not be offered on the floor of the Senate?

Mr. SNYDER. Mr. President, the bill has passed second reading and we think it wise to recommit it, to consider amendments.

Mr. SCHANTZ. Mr. President, I would further like to ask the Senator if we should permit him to send it back to Committee whether he can have it out of Committee and restored to the Calendar promptly this week?

Mr. SNYDER. Mr. President, further deponent saith not.

And the question recurring,

Will the Senate agree to the motion?

It was agreed to.

RELATIVE TO CELEBRATING WASHINGTON'S BIRTHDAY.

Mr. HAWS asked and received unanimous consent to offer the following resolution, which was twice read, considered and adopted:

In the House of Representatives, February 18, 1925.

Whereas, The Birthday of George Washington will be generally celebrated on Monday, January twenty-third, and

Whereas, It is proper that the House of Representatives should fittingly observe the birthday of the first President of the United States by short appropriate exercises during its sessions on Monday evening, February twenty-third, therefore be it

Resolved, That the House of Representatives shall hold exercises in commemmoration of the birthday of George Washington, soldier, statesman, first president and father of our Country, on the evening of Monday, February twenty-third at nine thirty o'clock, in the House of Representatives; and be it further

Resolved, That a committee of three Members of the House of Representatives be appointed by the Speaker to arrange a suitable program for such exericses.

APPOINTMENT OF COMMITTEE

The SPEAKER. The Chair appoints as a Committee for the celebration of Washington's birthday, Messrs. Haws, Goehring and Hall.

TO TAKE PART IN THE SESQUI-CENTENNIAL.

Mr. HAWS asked and received unanimous consent to offer the following resolution, which was twice read and laid over under the rules:

In the House of Representatives, February 18, 1925.

Whereas, The City of Philadelphia with customary patriotism and initiative has arranged for the celebration of the birth of American Independence by the holding of a Sesqui-Centennial during the year one thousand nine hundred and twenty-six, in which the various Commonwealths of the United States and the nations of the world will be invited to participate, and

Whereas, The Hon. W. Freeland Kendrick, the Mayor of the City of Philadelphia has extended an invitation to the Commonwealth for its participation in this, the first great international exposition to be held in the Eastern part of the Nation since one thousand eight hundred and seventy-six, and

Whereas, The President of the United States has signified his approval of the celebration of the important occasion in the manner planned by the authorities of the said City of Philadelphia, and has recommended to the Congress of the United States that immediate action be taken to insure the co-operation of the United States therein and will officially invite the foreign governments to participate, and

Whereas, It is essential to the success of the celebration that the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania should prominently participate therein, therefore be it

Resolved, (if the Senate concur), That the Commonwealth through its Legislature accept the invitation of the Mayor of the City of Philadelphia to take part in the Sesqui-Centennial celebration of the birth of our Nation in the year one thousand nine hundred and twenty-six in the City of Philadelphia, and be it further

Resolved, That appropriate legislation shall be immediately prepared and introduced to secure such participation therein by the erection of a suitable building upon the Exposition Grounds for the housing of the educational and commercial exhibits of the Commonwealth in order to demonstrate to the world the value and importance of her manufactured, mineral and agricultural products.

Ordered, that the Clerk return the same to the Senate with information that the House has passed it without amendment.

SENATE MESSAGE.

TIME OF NEXT MEETING.

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced, presented an extract from the Journal of the Senate, which was read as follows:

In the Senate, February 18, 1925.

Resolved (if the House of Representatives concur), that when the General Assembly adjourns today it be to meet on Monday, February 23rd, at 9:00 o'clock P. M.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the House of Representatives for its concurrence.

On the question,

Will the House concur in the resolution of the Senate?

It was concurred in.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE.

Mr. HAAS. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. HAAS. Mr. Speaker, yesterday afternoon I voted against the measure of the gentleman from Allegheny, Mr. Goehring, relative to exempting women over sixty-five from jury duty. I would like to explain to Mr. Goehring that one of the reasons I opposed the bill was because I do not think we should clutter our statute books with useless legislation, and I say it is useless because no one ever heard of a woman over sixty-five. I rather feel that it places the women in an embarrassing position, in fact I believe the measure is rather vicious. Had I known he felt so badly about it I would have been delighted to vote for it because of my personal friendship.

BILL ON FINAL PASSAGE.

Mr. BREWSTER asked and obtained unanimous consent to call up House Bill No. 382, file folio 941, Bills on Final Passage Postponed, on page 2 of today's calendar.

Agreeably to order,

The bill having been called up from the postponed calendar by Mr. Brewster

The House resumed the consideration on final passage of House Bill No. 382, entitled:

An Act authorizing departmental administrative boards and commissions under certain restrictions to sell surplus products of the soil meats live stock timber or other materials raised or grown upon or taken from property of the Commonwealth administered by such boards or commissions and to expend the proceeds of such sales for the maintenance of the properties under their control

On the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

RECONSIDERTION OF VOTE.

Mr. BREWSTER. Mr. Speaker, I move that the vote by which House Bill No. 382, passed third reading be reconsidered.

Mr. WRIGHT. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

On the question recurring,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading?

Mr. BREWSTER. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to offer amendment at this time.

The SPEAKER. The amendment will be read by the Clerk for information.

Amend section 2, page 2, line 16 by striking out the word "commissions", and inserting in lieu thereof "commission"

The SPEAKER. Will the House give unanimous consent to the insertion of the amendment at this time? Is there any objection? The Chair hears none and the amendment will be inserted in accordance with the instruction of the House.

On the question,

Will the House agree to the bill on third reading as amended?

It was agreed to.

Ordered, That the bill as amended lie over for printing.

SENATE

MONDAY, February 23, 1925.

The Senate met at 9:00 o'clock P. M.

The PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE (Mr. John G. Homsher) in the Chair.

The Chaplain, Rev. Edward S. Ninde, offered the following prayer:

Almighty and Everliving God: We thank Thee for the great and good men whose names adorn the pages of American history; for Franklin and Jefferson and Morris and Adams; for Abraham Lincoln and the many others of earlier and later days. But at this time we are especially grateful for the one whom we reverently think of as the Father of his Country. We believe that Thy Divine Hand may be seen in all human affairs, and that as truly as Moses was raised up by Thee to become the savior of the Hebrew people, so truly was George Washington brought forth by Thee to become the leader of this new nation. He was of Thy choosing and of Thy training. Like Paul of old, he heard the divine call and caught the heavenly vision and he was not disobedient to that vision. We thank Thee for his nobility of character, for his rectitude of purpose, his purity of life, his loyalty to high ideals, his unfaltering faith in God and in his fellowmen.

O Lord, may the mantel of Washington rest upon the men of this new generation! May we catch his spirit and emulate his example! In the halls of Congress, and in our State Legislatures all over the land, give us statesmen rather than politicians, give us patriots rather than partisans! And inspired by the life of the immoral Washington, may our beloved America develop a moral leadership among the nations of the world that shall rebound to Thy honor and glory and to the uplift of humanity.

We ask it in the name of the Lord Jesus Christ. Amen.

JOURNAL APPROVED.

The PRESIDENT—A quorum of the Senate being present the Clerk will read the Journal of the preceding session.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Journal of the preceding session, when, on motion of Mr. PATTON, the further reading was dispensed with, and the Journal was approved.

PETITIONS.

Mr. Patton presented communications from the Philadelphia Board of Trade, which were read as follows:

PHILADELPHIA BOARD OF TRADE
BOURSE BUILDING
Philadelphia, February 18, 1925.

Honorable Edward W. Patton, State Senate, Harrisburg, Pa.

My Dear Mr. Patton, I enclose you herewith certified copies of extracts from the Minutes of the Stated Meeting of the Philadelphia Board of Trade, held on the 16inst., covering Preambles and Resolutions on the following subjects:

(1) Endorsing the provisions of Senate Bill No. 191 re Tax Commission.

(2) Opposing the enactment of H. R. Bill 412 relating to fire insurance policies.

The Board would appreciate you having these presented and referred to the proper Committee.

Very truly yours,
W. R. TUCKER, Secretary.

FAVORING PASSAGE OF SENATE BILL NO. 191.

PHILADELPHIA BOARD OF TRADE, BOURSE BUILDING, PHILADELPHIA.

Extract from the Minutes of the Stated Meeting of the Philadelphia Board of Trade
Held February 16, 1925.

STATE SENATE BILL 191.

Whereas: There is no question before the public more vital than that securing at the earliest date the adoption of some system of taxation which may solve, or tend to solve, the unscientific and uncoordinated methods now prevailing among the several States; and

Whereas: The field of inheritance taxation as applied within rival jurisdiction bids fair to break down capital accumulation and reduces its flow into necessary trade and commercial channels which conditions tend to extravagance and wasteful governmental administration and in the end hampering individual enterprise; and

Whereas: The proposed conferences, as provided, must prove helpful through frank interchange of opinion among representatives of state governments; therefore

Resolved: That the Philadelphia Board of Trade gives expression of its appreciation of the Commission's intelligent examination of the present tax laws of the Commonwealth and commends its careful study of the problems of taxation and their economic influence upon the interests affected; and be it further

Resolved: That the Philadelphia Board of Trade endorses Senate Bill No. 191 described in the foregoing and petitions for its passage.

On motion the Preamble and Resolutions were adopted.

OPPOSING PASSAGE OF HOUSE BILL NO 412.

PHILADELPHIA BOARD OF TRADE BOURSE BUILDING, PHILADELPHIA.

Extract From The Minutes of The Stated Meeting, Philadelphia Board of Trade Held On February 16, 1925.

FIRE INSURANCE POLICIES.

Whereas: The present laws and regulations thereunder, so far as can be learned, are functioning satisfactorily to the insurance interests, both the insured and the insuring, and additional legislation is considered unnecessary; therefore

Resolved: That the Philadelphia Board of Trade earnestly petitions your Honorable Bodies to refuse the enactment as law of H. R. Bill 412, being an "Act relating to insurance amending, revising and consolidating the law providing for the incorporation of insurance companies, etc."

On motion, The Preamble and Resolution were adopted.

NAYS—1.

Buckman,

A majority of all the Senators having voted 'aye" the question was determined in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Clerk present said bill to the House of Representatives for concurrence.

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 12, entitled:

An Act providing for the merging of moneys held in certain special funds in the State Treasury with moneys in the general fund providing for the use of all moneys in the general fund for the payment of appropriations and for the payment from the general fund of moneys appropriated and dedicated for special purposes

And said bill having been read at length the third time, and agreed to.

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, I am quite aware that the calendar is crowded, and as we have special exercises on our program to-night, I will be as brief as I can in saying a few words about this bill No. 12 in twelve minutes. Last week, on Tuesday morning, this little merger bill, was coming along on the calendar very quitely and peacefully, when it was attacked by two big highwaymen and was given a swift kick and was thrown over into the ditch. One of these Senators who comes from a district where every woman is a fisher-woman and every man is a hunter, I think and the other Senator represents the Pocono Mountains.

After killing my bill these two wicked Senators went home to tell of their exploits at some smoker of the Rod and Gun Club, I think,—The following morning however this bill was found in the ditch. I found some very kind Senators, the gentleman from Bucks, the statesmen from Northumberland and from Potter, and they agreed to give this bill a decent burial.

I am quite well aware that what I am saying now is in the nature of a funeral oration over the dead body of the merger bill, but before it is consigned to its resting place I would like to conduct these few sad rites, and explain the merits of this little bill.

You may remember, some of you, that we had a Sproul Commission on the reorganization of the State Government. If we had reorganized the State Government according to the lines of that Commission, you would have had very safe and sane organization. This merger bill was one of our star performers. We gave a dinner party at the Penn-Harris Hotel, and invited all the Senate, and everybody was for the bill. The Honorable William J. McCabe, Chairman of the Appropriations Committee of the House of Representatives, read an excellent scientific paper on the special funds. We conferred upon him the degree of LLD, after he had read the paper. We then called upon the Governor and the Governor said that even if we got the bill through the Legislature he would veto it, so we told the Governor we were going to vote for all the special bills that came along, to make it so bad they would fall of their own weight.

We went into Executive Session, and decided the Governor was playing favorites. We were confirmed in this view when the reorganization of the Administration came about and we found the Game Commission had a Department all to itself, and the Fish Commission had a Department all to itself.

These special funds as some of you may not know originated after 1913. In that happy day there were none, only the Sinking Fund. Two years ago there were twenty-five of these special funds. Now there are thirty-three, and there is one pending, and one being written, which will make thirty-five.

The theory is, for instance, in the Health Department, that if we pay so much for a Death Certificate or a Birth Certificate, that money ought to go into a special fund for the support of the Bureau of Vital Statistics. The theory is I suppose, that when a man rides in an elevator he thanks God that the elevator inspection money is in a special fund; when he lies down at night on a mattress he thanks God "this mattress has been inspected by inspectors who are paid out of the special fund" so that when I go to the Germantown City Hall to pay a Dollar for a Dog license for a tax on my dog, I am grateful to think that that money goes into the Dog Fund; at least that is what I hope it would do, but I tried to find the Dog Fund in the budget without success. If you refer to page 83 of the Budget, you will strike a table called the "Dog Fund." It is in the Department of Agriculture, Bureau of Animal Industry. If you read the items of expenditures you will gather the impression that the State is engaged in slaughtering dogs and selling the meat. If you turn over the page you will see another table, containing items of salaries, telephones heat, light and rent. And then you add this all up together and find the sum of Seven Hundred Thousand Dollars, the items from both tables headed "Dog Fund" and then you look down to the foot note and see that some inadvertant money has been paid out of the "General Fund." Then you come to a table on the Dog Fund, and still another on the Dog Fund, and I will read you this little foot note in that history on page 88, that is if I can hold the Budget: "The principal increase for this Bureau is for indemnities paid to all owners of tuberculous animals which must be slaughtered. All the indemnity money ($500,000) came from the Dog Fund during the present biennium. During the coming biennium it is estimated that $250,000 will be available from the Dog Fund for this purpose. In addition, an appropriation of $750,000 is recommended from the General Fund. With 200,000 animals awaiting test in the State at the present time, even this total sum of $1,000,000 will not enable the Department to meet the requests for testing during the coming two years. For this purpose $2,000,000 at least would be required.

The recent outbreak of European Fowl Plague has probably occasioned a loss of $100,000 to the State. Poultry is the second largest livestock industry in the State. A larger expenditure will be made from the Dog Fund for controlling this plague in the next biennium.

Now I will read another note.

The Department requests the transfer of $100,854, or so much thereof as may be necessary, from the Dog Fund to the General Fund of the Department of Agriculture, the unexpended balance to remain in the Dog Fund. This transfer is to replace moneys advanced from the General Fund of the Department to the Bureau of Animal Industry due to a ruling of the Auditor General that certain employees of the Bureau of Animal Industry were engaged in "Administrative" work and could not be paid out of the Dog Fund. The Department requests that this transfer be made by March 1st, for by this time the money available in the General Fund for the work of the Department will be exhausted and all work other than that supported by the Dog Fund will have to stop.

After reading this I decided to insert an advertisement in the Legislative Journal "Lost, Strayed or Stolen, one Dog Fund."

I blame the Governor and Dr. King our scientific Budget makers. They ought to know that you cannot write a real Budget with thirty-three special funds floating around. If you don't believe me, you go and ask the Chairman of our Appropriation Committee, Senator Schantz, or the Chairman of our Finance Committee or you can ask Mr. Billy McCaig or the Chairman of the Ways and Means Committee. If you don't believe him you can ask Dr. Seligman, of the Columbia University, who has written a book that has gone through about ten editions and even Mr. Sterling's expert, Mr. Buck. I have learned my lesson from Mr. Buck, also Dr. Seligman that there should be no special funds. Everything should be in the General Fund except the trust fund which, of course, must be kept separate.

I do not blame the heads of the Departments, for there is nothing more convenient for the heads of Departments than to have a special fund which does not have to pass through the hands of the Legislature. The people I blame are the members of the Legislature. I would like to know what we are here for if not to appropriate the taxpayers money. These special funds amount to around $30,000,000 a year and they do not pass through our hands. We are deliberately sidestepping one of the fundamental principles of representative government. We are violating a principle established by McCaig and coming all the way down to the Dog Fund, which is violated.

I understand perfectly many petitions have been signed by the sportsmen, and I have very hearty regard for the sportsmen, though fortunately for me I have not any in my district. I simply submit that if we are going to hand over to the Executive the power given by these special funds, we might as well shut up the shop and let this building, this room, to the Fish Commission. They can start an aquarium in the barber shop or something of that sort. Some of us are such poor fish we would not get in the aquarium, I believe.

These special funds violate that principle of representative government, and they bring up also the very practical point, that if you should happen to have a Governor of the State who would like to play politics, and has friends to reward, he has ample opportunity in the use of these special funds to put plenty of per diem men on the pay-roll; and we are deliberately handing over to the next Governor, or to any Governor, the opportunity to use these special funds as he sees fit. There are plenty of surplusses in the special funds which can be used this way.

Now, I would like to say a great deal more, but in deference to Senator Stites I will simply say that I quite recognize that I shall be a minority of one, probably in voting on this bill. We have been asked to compromise but I would rather go down with the flag flying because I believe this bill one hundred percent and it will come up every session until it wins out. I have no doubt in my mind whatever, but for the present, I admit that this is a funeral oration and after my few remarks I will ask the Senator from Lackawanna to lead in singing "Peace, perfect Peace"; and the Senator from Clinton to lead us in a short prayer and the few mourners will then conduct the cortege down the marble steps to the front steps where there is a special hearse, provided out of the special fund of the Department of Public Highways, and the little bill will be borne across the river, to the Legislative Cemetery, called Mount Oblivion. There are a great many graves in the cemetery, with all the other little bills; and we will consign this little bill to its last resting place.

After all is over I will erect a headstone to its memory, and on the headstone I propose this epitaph:

"Stranger pause and drop a tear,
For the merger bill lies buried here,
Special fund have had their wish, and
This bill died of too much game fish."

Mr. DAVIS. Mr. President, Inasmuch as my friend, from Philadelphia Mr. Woodward, happened to mention my name, I will say that it seems to me that Senator Woodward and Harold Lloyd have formed a company that apparently is in hot water. I think that if Senator Woodward would move into the mountains and commune with nature, the birds and animals, he would realize this is a very just measure to defeat.

Mr. SCHANTZ. Mr. President, I would like to interrogate the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Woodward.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Woodward, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, with pleasure.

Mr. SCHANTZ. Mr. President, I would like to ask the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Woodward, whether this is a correction of the statement he published the other day that the experts of the budgeteers were to be paid out of the Dog Fund?

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, that is my understanding sir; but nobody can tell.

Mr. SCHANTZ. Mr. President, I would further like to interrogate the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Woodward.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Woodward, permit himself to be interrogated further?

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, I will.

Mr. SCHANTZ. Mr. President, I would like to ask the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Woodward, if he is aware that there is another special fund on the way, that Senate bill No. 300, known as the "Liquor-Smelling" bill provides for a special fund?

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, I am not familiar with the items of that bill.

Mr. SCHANTZ. Mr. President, In view of the fact, I would like to ask the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Woodward, whether he does not think he had better defer the passage of this act until after that act has been passed, so that this act would also include the elimination of the special fund provided in Senate bill No. 300, known as the "Liquor Smelling Bill."

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, I am very much in favor of making all the special funds liquid.

And the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

BILL OVER IN ORDER.

Mr. WOODWARD. Mr. President, I ask that Senate Bill No. 13, on third reading, entitled:

An act providing a method of ascertaining the opinion of the electors of the Commonwealth as to the desirability of ratifying the proposed amendments to the Constitution of the United States.

go over in its order.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

BILL ON THIRD READING.

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate bill No. 91, entitled:

An act to amend an act approved the seventeenth day of May one thousand nine hundred and twenty-one (Pamphlet Laws eight hundred ninety-four) entitled "An act to amend an act approved the twenty-fifth day of June one thousand nine hundred and thirteen (Pamphlet Laws five hundred and fifty) entitled 'An act authorizing the several counties incorporated towns and boroughs to appropriate annually sums of money to each camp of the United Spanish War Veterans and of the Army of the Philippines and to each post of the American Veterans of Foreign Service in the respective counties boroughs and towns to aid in defraying the expenses of Memorial Day' by authorizing appropriations to each post of the American Legion Veterans of Foreign Wars and to each Naval Association and each post of the Grand Army of the Republic" as amended to include appropriations to aid in defraying expenses of Armistice Day

And said bill having been read at length the third time,

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill?

Mr. MANSFIELD. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to amend title page 1, line 12 by striking out "Amercian" and inserting in lieu thereof the word "American"; also second line from bottom of page by inserting after the word "amended" the following: "by extending the provisions thereof to cities and boroughs and"; also section 1, page line 23 by striking out "expnses" and inserting in lieu thereof the word "expenses"; also page 4, line 1, by inserting after the word "counties" the following: "cities and boroughs".

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

The amendment was agreed to.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill on third reading as amended.

It was agreed to.

Ordered, That the bill as amended be printed for the use of the Senate.

BILLS ON THIRD READING AND FINAL PASSAGE.

Agreeably to order

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 102, entitled;

An Act providing that in certain cases it shall not be a defence in an action against a corporation on a negotiable instrument issued or endorsed in its name to provide that it was issued or endorsed by an officer or officers thereof contrary to the by-laws of said corporation

And said bill having been read at length the third time, and agreed to,

On the question,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Mr. BARR. Mr. President, on Senate Bill No. 102, File Folio 101, I received several communications which I wish to read into the record. One letter says:

I regard such an Act as a very dangerous one. The only protection a corporation has is its By-Laws. The Bank with which it does business always has or should have a copy of the By-Laws which prescribes in what manner negotiable paper shall be issued and endorsed. Ordinarily, the By-Law requires two names, as President and Treasurer. It is a very easy thing for the Bank to obtain this information and no question as to the responsibility of the corporation for the acts of its officers can then arise.

If the present Act goes into force, any officer of a corporation can issue paper in the name of that corporation and dispose of it to some person who does not know and quite likely does not want to know the provisions of its By-Laws, and involve the corporation in possibly a very serious liability.

The danger is so obvious that it does not need discussion.

On the other hand, there is no evil, as the present law exists, which needs remedy if the Bank or other financial institution which deals with the corporation will take the simple precaution of informing itself as to the provisions of the By-Laws under which negotiable papers can be issued or endorsed.

The second objection I received is as follows:

It is our opinion that the act is vicious, and if passed, will be a disgrace to the statute books of Pennsylvania. It will enable officers, however slight their position, of a corporation to bind that corporation in any amount without the corporation receiving any benefit to itself. Acts done under it would wipe out in an instant all the accumulated surplus of a corporation which in effect would be robbing the corporation's stockholders. It is contrary to the theory of corporate management which has tended to make Pennsylvania the great State it is.

The law as it now stands is well stated by the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania in numerous cases; among others, in Millward-Cliff Cracker Company's Estate, reported in 161 PA. at Page 157, the head-note of which is as follows:

Unless expressly authorized by the by-laws, or by the directors or stockholders, the treasurer of a corporation has no authority to sign or indorse a promisory note in the name of the corporation.

A promissory note signed by the treasurer of a corporation, without the counter-signature of the president as required by the by-laws, is not binding upon the company, if the company has received no benefit from the note.

In Pennsylvania, by-laws of a corporation when adopted become written into the charter, and not only define and limit the rights, duties and powers of the officers inter sese, but, so far as those with whom such corporation has dealings are concerned, put such parties upon notice in treating with such officers, as to the extent of their power and agency, whether the specific by-law has been brought home to them or not.

And also in the case of Worthington V Schuylkill Electric Railway Company, 195 PA. 211, the head-note of which reads as follows:

The by-laws of a corporation, upon their adoption become written into the charter, and put parties, who deal with the corporation, upon notice, in trading with the officers of the corporation, as to the extent of the power and agency of such officer, and this, whether the specific by-law has been brought home to them or not.

In an action against a corporation to hold it liable on an indorsement of a promisory note by its president, binding instructions should be given for defendant where it appears that the president had no authority under the by-laws to make the endorsement, that the corporation received no benefit from it, and that there was no course of dealing between, the parties which misled the plaintiff.

The third and last I consider the best of all the criticisms:

In Putman vs. Ensign Oil Company, 272 Pennsylvania 301, Judge Kephart said:

"It would seem advisable for the law to be, as suggested in other States, that where a note has been signed in the regular way by corporate offices, as, for instance, by the president and secretary, or president and treasurer, or endorsed by the treasurer, such note, in the hands of any holder in due course, or one with those rights, should be good as against the corporation, notwithstanding any by-law to the contrary, unless previous knowledge of the existence of such by-law is brought home to the holder."

Senate Bill No. 102 goes much further than Judge Kephart's suggestion. It would render it impossible for a corporation to defend against a note issued or endorsed "by an officer or officers thereof, contrary to the by-laws." In other words, the single signature of the secretary would be binding on the corporation even though under the by-laws the secretary has nothing whatever to do with the execution or endorsement of negotiable paper.

If the bill merely provided that a gegotiable instrument issued or endorsed by any two officers of a corporation should be good notwithstanding a violation of the by-laws the bill would be much less objectionable. Indeed were it drawn along such lines I should think that it would be a good measure.

Mr. President, I offer these objections in line with the thought that was given here at the last session of the legislature, 1923, by the Senator from Lehigh, Mr. Schantz. The people out our way are opposed to this bill. I did not talk to a single person, or an attorney who was in favor of this bill; therefore, I am compelled to be against Bill No. 102, File Folio 101.

Mr. SALUS. Mr. President, and gentlemen of the Senate the whole gist of this bill is right in the title.

It reads:

"that in certain cases it shall not be a defence in an action against a corporation on a negotiable instrument issued or endorsed in its name to prove that it was issued or endorsed by an officer or officers thereof contrary to the by-laws of said corporation"

All this bill does is to ask the corporations and institutions of Central Pennsylvania to be honest. It asks no more. It asks that when anything goes out of your institution for which you are responsible that you pay the bill, that if one of your officers happens to be crooked, or happens to be dishonest, that is your funeral. It means that the innocent public should not be asked to take their good money, buy your negotiable paper, or other instrument, and then when you come to collect it you say to them that this officer had no right to issue this paper. And I do not see how any respectable corporation, any decent concern or any honest business man could be opposed to such a bill as this. If, perchance, you have a dishonest employee, that is your hard luck. If you are a corporation you can be insured against such an act, but is there any reason why some poor widow who had saved one hundred dollars, or some poor workingman, who had saved five hundred dollars, who goes out and buys an instrument under the seal of your corporation and believes because you are a big institution, that his money is secure, and when he comes to collect, he is told by your institution or corporations, "Well one of our officers issued this paper who had no right to do it and you can't collect your money."

This is in line with what Judge Kephart said in his decision. It is a good bill, it is putting the stamp of honesty on institutions and I cannot see how any honest corporation can be opposed to it.

This matter was called up before the law association of Philadelphia. It is here at their suggestion, it was championed before the Committee by Mr. Wintersteen, of Barnes and Wintersteen, lawyers of Philadelphia. Mr. Barnes represents the Pennsylvania R. R., Mr.? Wintersteen a number of high grade banks and trust companies of Philadelphia. And those institutions are big enough to believe that when the seal of their institution is on their papers that are scattered out to the public they are big enough to make good any promises that they make, even though one of their employees is dishonest. I do not see how any self-respecting man, or institution, can do otherwise than vote for a bill that has stamped on its face, common every day honesty.

Mr. BARR. Mr. President, I should like to interrogate the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Salus.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Salus, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. SALUS. Mr. President, I will.

Mr. BARR. Mr. President, does the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Salus, understand that commercial paper is something that is sold to widows and to estates?

Mr. SALUS. Mr. President, yes, I have had widows buy commercial paper in my practice.

Mr. BARR. Mr. President, does the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Salus, not understand that commercial paper is discounted at banks and is not the kind of instruments that are peddled in small amounts.

Mr. SALUS. Mr. President, I don't understand that at all. I do understand that large banks do buy commercial paper and resell it.

Mr. BARR. Mr. President, does the Senator from Philadelphia Mr. Salus, not understand that commercial paper is sold to a big bank and is scattered around among smaller banks, and that the big institutions see that the by-laws of the corporation is complied with before they ever accept commercial paper?

Mr. SALUS. Mr. President, I do not know what they do on the inside, and what is more I do not care. That is what we are objecting to,—what they are doing on the inside. We want the law so that it will be known on the outside. In other words, it is a case of protecting the purchasers, and I do not see, for the benefit of the Senator from Allegheny, why people on the outside should be responsible for mismanagement on the inside; because they would have nothing to say if they went on the inside and tried to make the banking institutions run their business the way they thought.

Mr. BARR. Mr. President, I would like to say that I have been in the banking business, and investment banking for wenty-five years, and the Senator from Philadelphia, Mr. Salus cannot show where commercial paper is an instrument that is carried to the public—to men and women (as a peddling proposition) to estates, men and women. It is a proposition purely and simply to banks, where it is rediscounted to other banks, and the proposition, from the standpoint of his argument, is clearly out of line with the facts, as commercial paper. There is absolutely nothing in his argument that would justify this bill.

BILLS ON THIRD READING AND FINAL PASSAGE.

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 200, as follows:

An Act to amend section fourteen of the act approved the eighteenth day of July one thousand nine hundred and seventeen (Pamphlet Laws one thousand and forty-three) entitled "An Act establishing a public school employes' retirement system and creating a retirement board for the administration thereof establishing certain funds from contributions by the Commonwealth and contributing employes defining the uses and purposes thereof and the manner of payments therefrom and providing for the guaranty by the Commonwealth of certain of said funds imposing powers and duties upon boards having the employment of public school employes exempting annuities allowances returns benefits and rights from taxation and judicial process and providing penalties" by providing for the payment of a State annuity to employes who separated from school service prior to the establishment of the Retirement System

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That section fourteen of the act approved the eighteenth day of July one thousand nine hundred and seventeen (Pamphlet Laws one thousand and forty-three) entitled "An Act establishing a public school employes' retirement system and creating a retirement board for the administration thereof establishing certain funds from contributions by the Commonwealth and contributing employes defining the uses and purposes thereof and the manner of payments therefrom and providing for the guaranty by the Commonwealth of certain of said funds imposing powers and duties upon boards having the employment of public school employes exempting annuities allowance returns benefits and rights from taxation and judicial process and providing penalties" is hereby amended to read as follows

Section 14 Retirement for superannuation shall be as follows

1 Any contributor who is an employe sixty-two years of age or older may retire for superannuation by filing with the retirement board a written statement duly attested setting forth at what time subsequent to the execution of said application he or she desires to be retired Said application shall retire said contributor at the time so specified or in the discretion of the retirement board at the end of the school term in which the time so specified occurs

2 Each and every contributor who has attained or shall attain the age of seventy years shall be retired by the retirement board for superannuation forthwith or at the end of the school term in which said age of seventy years is attained

ALLOWANCE ON SUPERANNUATION RETIREMENT

3. On retirement for superannuation a contributor who is an employe shall receive a retirement allowance which shall consist of

(a) A teacher's annuity which shall be the actuarial equivalent of his or her accumulated deductions and

(b) A State annuity of one one-hundred-sixtieth (1/160) of his or her final salary for each year of service prior to the age of sixty-two years and

(c) In addition thereto if a present employe a further State annuity of one one-hundred-sixtieth (1/160) of his or her final salary for each year of prior service as certified her by the retirement board under the provisions of section ten of this act

Any person sixty-two years of age or older who was a class-room teacher in the public schools of Pennsylvania for at least twenty years and who separated from school service for any reason prior to the first day of July one thousand nine hundred and nineteen or any person who was a class-room teacher in the public schools of Pennsylvania for at least fifteen years and who separated from school service because of physical or mental disability prior to the first day of July one thousand nine hundred and nineteen and who still is unable to teach because of such disability shall receive a State annuity to one eightieth of his or her final salary for each year of school service For this purpose there is hereby created a "Former Teachers' Fund" to which the General Assembly shall from time to time appropriate moneys sufficient to make payments under this sub-section

And said bill having been read at length the third time,

And the amendments made thereto having been printed as required by the Constitution,

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the bill?

Mr. BARR. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to amend page 4, line 24 by adding after the word "subsection" the following: "Provided that any teacher who is entitled to receive a State annuity hereunder and who is receiving a retirement allowance under the provisions of a local teachers' retirement system shall receive from the "Former Teacher Fund" only the difference between the annuity to which such teacher would otherwise be entitled under the provisions of this subsection and the annual amount received by such teacher from such local teachers' retirement system.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

The amendment was agreed to.

On the question,

BILL ON SECOND READING.

Agreeably to order,

The rule requiring bills to be considered in Committee of the Whole being in this case dispensed with,

The Senate proceeded to the second reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 39, as follows:

An Act to provide for an additional system for the collection of State and county taxes in cities of the third class

Section 1 Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same That in lieu of the system for the collection of State and county taxes in cities of the third class now provided for by law the county commissioners of any county of the third fourth fifth sixth seventh and eighth classes containing any city or cities of the third class may appoint one person as collector of State and county taxes in each of such cities of the third class situate in their respective counties Any tax collector so appointed shall be a resident of the city for which he was appointed He shall have full power to collect State and county taxes in any of the wards of said city and shall receive as compensation for his services either a fixed annual salary or commissions on taxes collected by him as may be determined by the said county commissioners

Section 2 Any tax collector so appointed shall maintain an office in the city for which he was appointed located at a place approved by the county commissioners and shall employ such clerical assistance as may be necessary for the proper accommodation of the tax payers of said city The expenses of the maintenance of said office and the employment of the necessary clerks and assistants shall be paid by either the tax collector out of the compensation received by him from the county or shall be paid by the county as may be determined by the county commissioners In no event however shall the total cost of the compensation of the collector and the expense of the maintenance of an office and the employment of clerks and assistants exceed five per centum of the amount of taxes collected

Section 3 It is the true meaning and intent of this act that it shall not repeal any existing law providing for the appointment and compensation of tax collectors but shall be an alternate system for the collection of State and county taxes to be used in lieu of the existing system at the discretion of the county commissioners of each individual county where State and county taxes are now collected in cities of the third class by collectors appointed by the county commissioners

Mr. SCHANTZ. Mr. President, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to.

REPORT FROM COMMITTEE.

Mr. NORTON, from the Committee on Insurance, reported as committed, Senate Bill No. 368, entitled:

An Act to amend section four hundred and ten (c) of an act approved the seventeenth day of May, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-one, (P. L. 682), entitled "An Act relating to insurance; amending, revising, and consolidating the law providing for the incorporation of insurance companies, and the regulation, supervision, and protection of home and foreign insurance companies, Lloyds associations, reciprocal and inter-insurance exchanges, and fire insurance rating bureaus, and the regulation and supervision of insurance carried by such companies, associations and exchanges, including insurance carried by the State Workmen's Insurance Fund; providing penalties; and repealing existing laws;" permitting the exception from incontestability of provisions relative to benefits in the event of total and permanent disability and provisions which grant additional insurance specifically against death by accident.

BILL INTRODUCED.

Mr. LESLIE. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent to read a bill in place at this time.

The PRESIDENT. Is there objection? The Chair hears none.

Mr. LESLIE read in his place and presented to the Chair Senate Bill No. 460, entitled:

An Act making an appropriation to the Western Pennsylvania School for the Blind, located at Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, to cover deficiency in maintenance and education of State pupils.

Which was committed to the Committee on Appropriations.

MEMORIAL EXERCISES COMMEMORATING THE BIRTH OF GEORGE WASHINGTON.

The PRESIDENT. This being the time fixed by the resolution of the Senate of February 16th to hold exercises in commemoration of the birthday of George Washington, the first President and Father of his County, the Chair recognizes the Senator from Montgomery, Mr. Stites, and the Senator is invited to take the platform.

The Chair has the privilege of presenting the Honorable Fletcher W. Stites, Senator from Montgomery County.

Mr. President and Gentlemen of the Senate:

The two noblest champions in the arena of human rights were George Washington and Abraham Lincoln. It was desired to Washington, of course, to express his opinion of the life and achievements of the Great Emancipator; but Lincoln has left for us his estimate of the place in history of the Father of his country. He said:—"Washington's is the mightiest name of earth. Long since mightiest in the cause of civil liberty; still mightiest in moral reformation. On that name no enlogy is expected. It cannot be. To add brightness to the sun or glory to the name of Washington is alike impossible. Let none attempt it. In reverent awe pronounce the name, and in solemn deathless splendors leave it shining on."

It were well, perhaps, if with those words I should resume my seat and leave with you only the impression created by that profound statement of the martyred Lincoln. I cherish no false illusion that anything I may say upon this occasion will add one jot or title to the imperishable glory of the great Virginian. His place in history is securely alone; rivalled only by that of the great Lincoln himself. But rather I indulge the hope that in the recital of the virtues of this matchless patriot you and I tonight may gather inspiration and feel the impulse to move forward for the common good with the same singleness of purpose and the same forgetfulness of self that characterized the life and work of this wonderful man.

It is rather a striking coincidence that the soil of Pennsylvania should have been the arena for the decisive events of both the Civil War and the earlier struggle for the Independence of the Colonies. In 1863 the flower of the Southern Confederacy swept across the wheat fields of Gettysburg, led by the indomitable Pickett, and under the thunder of the Union guns and the counter-charges of the Northern defenders went reeling back in bitter defeat, and forever on the American continent was decided the great question that no nation can exist half-slave and half-free. And in the winter of 1777-1778 at Valley Forge decision was had upon a question of ever more soul-stirring importance, whether indeed blood and tears and human suffering should stifle human hopes and aspirations and the desire of men to throw off the shackles of kingly domination and emerge into the clear light of freedom. So terrible were the sufferings of Washington and his men throughout that frightful winter that it was generally expected in the Colonies that the great general would disband his troops and end the Revolution, and Washington himself wrote that he feared the end was at hand. The fate of the infant republic lay in the balance. Could Washington hold out, or was the victory to rest with snow and ice and blighting frost?

Valley Forge! How I love to pronounce that name. Shrine of free men every where. Spot of earth where humanity rose triumphant o'er its fears, and where human anguish, yea, even death itself, could not conquer human ideals.

Valley Forge! Where my own county of Montgomery joins hands with Chester County, as Valley Creek flows into the Schuylkill River. There the heights of Valley Forge overlook the sweep of beautiful Chester Valley.

On all this broad earth under the providence of a bountiful God no more beautiful spot exists when "Spring brings back blue days and fair, and the first meadow flowers appear," or when the tassels of corn toss in the autumn breezes and the autumn leaves dress themselves in red. But in that winter of 1777-1778 the icy hand of winter clutched at the vitals of Washington's troops, 11,00 foot-sore, weary men, without shoes, without coats, many days without food, they marched up from the disastrous battle of Germantown and, under the leadership of their great commander, took huts upon the slopes rising above the Chester Valley. Of that winter historians have written many pages, but as you and I sweep along the beautiful roads of Montgomery and Chester Counties in these happy days in our fine vehicles and cushioned limousines, we get no picture of the sufferings of the devoted Washington and his heroic men.

John Marshall, afterward Chief Justice of the United States, has given us a vivid picture. He says that oftentimes men's limbs became black from the knees down. Others mounted guard with their bare feet in their hats to afford some slight protection. Small-pox ravaged the camp. Washington, asking nothing for himself, in words of burning eloquence, wrote to Congress, then in session at York, and urged by all the mercies of God that his men be furnished food and clothing, "for," said he, "of my force of 11,000 men, 2,898 lay dead upon these icy fields."

Marshall has written that when February rolled round, of Washington's 11,000 troops 5,000 only remained as effectives; and the idea became a certainty in the Colonies that the Revolution had failed.

Not alone snow and ice and hunger and small-pox tortured the soul of the great Virginian in that hour of darkness. Envy, hatred and malice were alike active. Jealous enemies sought to supplant Washington as commander-in-chief with Gates, the conqueror of Burgoyne at Saratoga. To the everlasting glory of American arms be it said that the miserable Conway Cabal failed of its purpose, and Washington emerged triumphant, beloved by his officers and men.

What a great soul was his. Too modest to assert his own virtues; too noble to answer malice with unworthy recrimination. It might be said of him as was said of another, "When he was reviled, he reviled not again." If one virtue more than another distinguished this first American it was that he was complete master of himself. Of such as Washington the English poet Henley was thinking when he wrote:

"Out of the night that covers me,
Black as a pit from pole to pole,
I thank whatever Gods may be
For my unconquerable soul.

In the fell clutch of circumstances,
I have not winced nor cried aloud;
Amid the bludgeonings of chance,
My head is bloody but unbowed.

Beyond this place of wrath and tears
Looms but the horror of the Stade,
And yet the menace of the years
Finds and shall find me unafraid.

It matters not how straight the gate,
How charged with punishment the scroll,
I am the master of my Fate,
I am the Captain of my Soul."

The soul of Washington carried the cause of the Colonies through the clouds of sorrow and the night of darkness at Valley Forge, and the fate of liberty and freedom was affirmatively sealed.

To you and me tonight the question recurs, "How have we followed throughout the intervening years the leadership of this matchless patriot?"

With justice and equity in his heart Washington established for us a foreign policy by which the initials "U. S." meant not alone United States or "Uncle Sam" but Unselfishness; for he said "We ask for ourselves only those things that we are willing to accord to all the nations of this earth."

I am wondering tonight how we have lived up to Washington's fundamentals!

John Masefield, the English poet, says, "that in the spring of 1917, he stood at apoint on the British line in Flanders. Across the road from him was a great pile of broken sewing machines and household goods; on the side of the road nearest him a long line of broken men. Suddenly out of the dust of the road a British Tommy came running up, waving a newspaper in his hand. And he cried, "Hurrah! hurrah! America has declared war on the blighters." An older, more thoughtful British soldier standing near said, "Now, thank God, we'll have a decent world again."

When I heard that story I wondered whether that British soldier had heard of Washington at Valley Forge, and whether he was expressing recognition of the fact that the foundations of the republic were laid in service and devotion and sacrifice.

I stood, not long ago, in Fairmount Park before the statue of Witherspoon, one of Washington's associates,—the only clergyman who signed the Declaration of Independence. In his day not all men were patriots, some were tories; and the tories came to the old man and demanded to know why he would risk so much upon the outcome of a mere experiment. And his answer is engraved on the statue in Fairmount Park. He said, "Of property I have some; of reputation more. That property is pledged, that reputation is staked upon the issues of this contest. I had rather that these old gray hairs descend into the grave by the hangman's axe than desert at this crisis the sacred cause of my country."

George Washington and Thomas Jefferson had a vision. They saw a people oppressed, and they had a vision, of a day when every man would stand erect, a sovereign among his peers; and they sat down and wrote upon a deathless page this sentiment:—"Governments derive their just powers from the consent of the governed"; and that sentiment has meant more for human happiness that anything since the day of the Sermon on the Mount. Because, all over the world, wherever men have groaned under burdens ofoppression, wherever their backs have been bent under unjust tyranny they have seen our bright star shining for them in the West. They have come over here and assimilated themselves into our national life, until to-day the voice of America is a great ringing voice of protest against tyranny wherever it may raise its head.

I spoke of service, devotion and sacrifice. There sat down in the Commonwealth of Virginia in 1788 to consider the cause of the Colonies in one convention these men: George Washington, James Madison, James Monroe, Thomas Jefferson, John Marshall, Patrick Henry, Richard Henry Lee, Edmund Randolph and twenty other men, almost as eminent. Old Patrick Henry had a great fear of kings. He had had a bitter experience with kings and he was afraid that the Constitution was giving too much power to the Executive. Day after day with his marvelous eloquence and powerful voice he thundered against the ratification of the Constitution by the Commonwealth of Virginia. On three days he made five speeches, on five days he made three speeches, upon one day he made seven speeches, and upon one occasion he was on his feet for seven hours at one time, protesting against the ratification of the Constitution by the Commonwealth of Virginia. Washington had his heart in the ratification of the Constitution. He knew the evils in the Articles of Confederation, and he was alarmed. He sat down and wrote a letter to Mr. Madison and said "Can't you do something to change the channel of Henry's thoughts?" But after the Commonwealth of Virginia, by a very narrow vote, had ratified the Constitution, Mr. Henry sat down and wrote to Mr. Washington and he said "Sir, I have opposed many of the provisions set forth in this fundamental law of the land, but since the Commonwealth of Virginia has seen fit to ratify the Constitution, I pledge you, sir, my heart and my hand to carry out every single feature set forth in that document." In striking contrast perhaps to the efforts we see to-day, in some quarters, to regard the Constitution of the United States as not quite as worthy of emulation as it was in days gone by.

I spoke of service, devotion and sacrifice. You may say to me "Well, isn't that not a little bit idealistic in government? Government is rather practical. Politics are practical." Well, I propose to show you in a moment that the most practical man in the world is the dreamer, who has a real vision. Washington was an idealist, a dreamer, if you please. He saw the fallacy of the divine right of kings, and when he announced the principle that men not only should be under government, but should participate in government, he announced a principle that exposed the naked heresy of the theory of kingly domination, and to that extent he was an idealist.

There is a story in the Old Book of a boy called Joseph, who went down one day to feed his father's flocks at Dothan. His brothers saw him coming, and they said "Behold the dreamer cometh," and they sought to do away with him. But better counsel prevailed and they decided to send him down into Egypt with a passing caravan. Long years after that a famine occurred in their own land and the father sent these brothers down into Egypt to buy corn and when they got down there they found this dreamer and the strange thing was the dreamer had the corn.

Now in the United States of America Washington announced the policy of asking for ourselves only those things that we are willing to accord to all the nations of the earth. It is true that our tourists abroad a few years ago spent their money with such a lavish hand that the European people said, "Why, these people are a nation of money grubbers, a nation of dollar chasers!" and there seemed to be some justice to that criticism. But when at the peace table at Versailles our representatives sat down and said "For our expenditure of twenty-four billions of dollars we ask not one cent of indemnity, for the seventy thousand white crosses, graves of American boys that dot the plains of Flanders and Picardy, we ask not one foot of anybody's territory," then these lineal descendants of Alexander the Great, Caesar, Napoleon and the great conquerors of the past said "Why, this is a strange doctrine in statecraft: have you not come over here to trade off something, don't you want anything?" We said "No, we do not want anything except this: That the principles enunciated by Washington and carried forward by Lincoln and the great men who followed them should be enthroned in the capitals of Europe and the principles of Democracy shall be made the living practice of the Continental powers." Then they said "These people are idealists, they are dreamers. Well, let us see how the policy of Washington, establishing justice and equity in foreign and domestic affairs, has worked out in this country.

A few years ago we owed Great Britian so much money our annual interest bill to her was two hundred million dollars. To-day Great Britian owes us so much money that she has to pay us every year in interest two hundred million dollars. The United States a few years ago owed Europe nations four billion dollars. To-day they owe us ten billion dollars and their annual interest bill to us is five hundred million dollars. The United States comprehends only six percent of the world's population and only seven per cent of the land; yet every year we produce 70 per cent of the copper, 66 per cent of the oil, 70 per cent of the cotton, 75 per cent of the corn, 52 per cent of the coal, 40 per cent of the iron and steel, 33 per cent of the silver, 25 per cent of the gold; we operate 40 per cent of the world's railroads, we produce 90 per cent of the world's automobiles, 60 per cent of the telephones in the world are in the United States; and as a reason perhaps for some of these figures, I might go on and say that 90 per cent of the bath tubs in the world are in this country.

Now I have mentioned those figures not that you and I should be boastful to-night in order that we might have a proper sense of appreciation of the work and labors of the men who laid the foundations of this Republic.

I spoke of service, devotion and sacrifice. You and I know the moving influences in the world are the things that you and I seldom talk about. Did you ever see a monument erected to a man because he had accumulated a whole lot of money? Never yet. The human measure of the human life is its income. The divine measure of human life is its outgo and its contribution to the welfare of the world. What a wonderful place this old world would be if we would see how much we could put into life instead of figuring always how much we may take out of life. Washington was one of the men who devoted himself to putting something into life, caring nothing to take out of life something for his own glory.

I spoke of service, I spoke of devotion and of sacrifice. Out of that welter of blood and tears that we call the World War the finest things that came back to us were things of service and devotion. For instance, in the summer of 1915 the British high seas fleet fought a battle with the German fleet off the coast of Jutland. About half past four in the afternoon of a certain famous day Rear Admiral Hood of the Third Battle Cruiser Squadron thought he heard firing to the Southwest. He sent the scout cruiser Chester, under command of Captain Lawton, to investigate the cause of the firing. The Chester soon found what had brought on the firing for in a few moments she was engaged with three German battle-cruisers. At the first salvo of guns the Germans got the range and every man in the forward gun crew of the Chester was killed, leaving only a little British midshipman, John Travers Comwell by name, 14 years of age. The little fellow stood leaning upon an overturned gun, resting his left hand, his right arm shot off at the shoulder. Captain Lawton sent a lieutenant up the deck to find out what had happened to the foward gun crew. As the lieutenant came up the deck, the little boy squared his legs as best he could, raised his left hand in salute and said "Any orders, lieutenant, any orders?" and fell dead. That event created such tremendous interest in the British Navy that Rear Admiral Hood, reporting to his home government made a special order of the day, and the King of England in his own hand wrote a letter to the mother of that boy in which he said that the majesty and glory of that great Empire had never been so exemplified as in the heroic death and sacrifice of that little boy. The sequel to it was that in the space of four months 40,000 men aligned themselves on the side of the empire in the fight for civilization as the result of the death and sacrifice of that little boy.

You and I are always trying to interpret in dollars and cents the things of power. The real power lies in things we do not often talk about. Isuppose from the standpoint of power, as men view power, in the summer of 1915 the most powerful figure in all history was William of Germany. He was running through trains from Antwerp on the North Sea to the utmost borders of the far east, with German engineers and German conductors; and his armies lay like a huge snake across the continent of Europe, with its head in the Ural Mountains of Russia, and its tail almost hanging on the English Channel; and yet I say to you tonight that from the standpoint of real power, that sweet-faced English nurse, Edith Cavel, in her cell in Brussels, Belgium, at 2 o'clock in the morning, softly repeating to herself, "Abide with me fast falls the eventide", while a German firing squad waited outside to consign her soul to eternity, was a more powerful figure than the Kaisers of all time. Why? Because all over the world when men heard of her death and sacrifice, their arms were nerved, their hearts were steeled and as they clicked their teeth together they said "By God we will stop at no sacrifice to hunt down a tyranny that can make such a thing possible."

You and I wonder where Washington got his inspiration at Valley Forge; we wonder how he endured the ice and sleet of that winter, with the blood of his soldiers running fresh upon the snow. We wonder where he got the power that enabled him to sum out all hardships, to endure all the malicious shafts directed at himself, in order that the vision he saw of a free and happy people might be brought to glorious realization. May I express in the words of Dr. Carruth my own conception of the source of Washington's power. He says:

A crystal and a cell,
A jelly-fish and a saurian,
And caves where cave-men dwell.
Then a sense of law and beauty,
And face turned from the clod,
Some call it evolution,
But others call it God.

A mist on the far horizon,
The infinite, tender sky,
The ripe, rich tints of the corn-field,
And the wild geese sailing high.
And all over upland and lowland,
The charm of the golden-rod,
Some of us call it Autumn,
But others call it God.

Like tides on a crescent sea-beach
When the moon is new and thin,
Into the heart high yearnings
Come welling and surging in;
Come from that mystic ocean,
Whose rim no foot has trod,
Some of us call it longing,
But others call it God.

A picket frozen on duty,
A mother starved for her brood,
Cocrates drinking the hemlock,
And Jesus on the rood.
And millions who humble and nameless,
The smooth, hard pathway trod,
Some call it consecration,
But others call it God.

You and I are wondering today whether the principles of Washington have lived and grown and gone forward. I tell you they have. You hear men getting together today, discussing great public questions, and even politics has a golden language. You hear one man talk of compensation for injured workmen; another man speaks about the prohibition of child labor; another man talks of equal suffrage, and still another man talks about prohibition of the liquor traffic. And we wonder where these things had their beginnings. Some man comes and says "Oh, that is all politics." Another man, more thoughtfully inclined, gets up and says "No, it is not, that is a great program of humanity that we have today." He says "Don't you know that Washington talked about human rights? That is the great program of humanity we have today"; and he rather lingers on those words. And we wonder where we get this program. The man of politics still insists; he says "anyhow Roosevelt first talked about those things." Another man comes along and says "No, he did not; Bryan first talked about it." An old fellow steps up and says, "I am the original Populist, I used to talk about those things out in Kansas 45 years ago." Well, so far as the element of time is concerned maybe he is right. But you go to Mr. Roosevelt and say to him, "Mr. Roosevelt, where did you get your inspiration for this thing you call the square deal, this insistence upon equal justice and equal opportunity for everybody?" And Mr. Roosevelt says "Why don't you know? I have always told you that I am a Lincoln Republican, a Thomas Jefferson Democrat." And go to the Great Emancipator and you say to him "Lincoln, where did you get your inspiration for your ideals that enables you for four long years to carry upon your heart the burdens of the south as well as the north, to strike the shackles from four million slaves and lay down your life in the cause of liberty?" And Mr. Lincoln says "We have always fought for things like this from the beginning. Don't you know that is what Washington prayed for in the snow at Valley Forge?" And you go to the great Father of our Country and as you find him upon his knees at Valley Forge you say "Washington, don't you know that the Continental Congress has turned a deaf ear and don't you know that all around you your soldiers are dead and dying? Where do you get your inspiration to lead you to fight on with only half your force through the dark winter? From whence comes your power? "Ah" Washington says, "My dear Friend, we have always fought for human rights, don't you know that?" He says "That is what Miles Standish talked about in the early days of the colonies." You go back to Miles Standish and you say to him, "Miles Standish, where did you get your inspiration that has led you to come 3000 miles across an inhospitable sea to a more inhospitable coast to worship God in your own way? Where did you get your inspiration for these ideals of yours"; and Miles Standish says "Oh, Sir, don't you know that from the very beginning the fight has been for things of this kind?" He says, "That is why Oliver Cromwell fought his King, that is why Martin Luther nailed his theses upon the door of Castle Church, that is why Savonarola was burned at the stake." And you go back beyond the day of Cromwell wringing concessions from a reluctant king, of Castle Church, back beyond the day when Martin Luther nailed his theses on the door back beyond the day of Savonarola lighting his own funeral pyre; and you come way down through the lanes of Palestine, and you pass Paul on the road to Damascus, and way back beyond all that you get the inspiration that filled the life of Washington and gave him his power at Valley Forge: for you come to a hill called Calvary and there you hear the Carpenter of Nazareth say, "a new Commandment I give unto you, that you love one another. Even as ye would that men should do unto you, do ye even so to them."

George Washington was the apostle of human rights.

God be praised for his vision, and for the indomitable power by which he made his dreams come true.

It is given to few men to receive their need of glory while they remain in life. Most men die before the perspective of history has brought into relief the qualities of their greatness. Not so in the case of Washington. As early as 1784 the colonists began to celebrate his birthday. As he passed from one town to another men, women and children thronged about to shake his hand and do him homage. Universally he was proclaimed as the pure-minded patriot, the saviour of his people. Chosen without rivalry as the country's first president, as he passed from Mt. Vernon toward New York, women and maidens spread garlands in his way, and joy and happiness everywhere reigned. When it was suggested to Washington that he have a military guard as an escort, he answered: "I need no guard other than the affectionate consideration of my countrymen."

My dear friends, tonight George Washington, the great Virginion sleeps in the soil of his native state. Besides his tomb flows the Potomac River that he loved. As long as that river flows to the sea men will accord to George Washington first place among the great of earth. In the hearts of his countrymen he shall remain forever, "greatest of good men; the best of great men."

Because this great man lived the name American takes on a new dignity. We have a deeper sense of affection for this flag that the soldiers of Washington sanctified with the red of their blood at Valley Forge. And tonight, if I could salute this flag as you would salute it from out the fullness of your hearts, I would say:

"Here's to the red of it,
There's not a shred of it,
No, nor a thread of it,
In all the spread of it,
From feet to the head.
But heroes bled for it,
Faced steel and lead for it,
Precious blood for it,
Bathing it red.

Here's to the white of it,
Thrilled by the sight of it,
Who knows the might of it,
But feels the right of it.
Through day and night.
Womanhood's prayer for it,
Made manhood dare for it,
Purity's prayer for it,
Kept it so white.

Here's to the soul of it,
Heavenly view of it,
Honesty's hue of it,
Star spangled blue of it,
Constant and true.
Here's to the whole of it,
Stars, stripes and pole of it,
Here's to the soul of it,
Red, White and Blue.

Mr. LESLIE. Mr. President, I move you that the Senate of Pennsylvania give a vote of thanks to the Senator from Montgomery County, Mr. Stites, for his eloquent address.
